WHY THE WEATHER?

DR. CHARLES F. BROOKS
Secretary, American Meteorological Society, Tells How.

Temperatures of the Free Air.
The atmosphere being heated mostly from the bottom is, naturally, warmer near the earth than at heights of a few thousand feet or a few miles. True, the air absorbs passing sunlight which is most intense at high levels, but the degree of absorption is greatest at low levels where there is the most water vapor. Thus, both through its own absorption and through its receipt of heat from the earth's surface the lower atmosphere gains the most heat. To throw off this greater heat the temperature must rise till equalled by losses by radiation and by convection, that is, emission of heat and bodily transportation of the heated air to higher levels, much of this outgoing heat is intercepted by the upper air, which thereby is kept less cold than it would be otherwise.

On account of the expansion of air with heating the lower air cannot equally become more than about five degrees Fahrenheit warmer than that a thousand feet higher before the colder air above is likely to force it upward and out of its favorable position. On the other hand, when, at night or in winter, the lower air in contact with the cold ground becomes chilled below the temperature of that above, the resulting condition, called an inversion, is one of stability. Thus the usual rate of decrease in temperature with height is somewhat less than five degrees per 1,000 feet, or about three degrees. This "lapse" rate is, of course, greater by day than by night, and greater in summer than in winter.

DO THIS AFTER SEVERE ILLNESS

How to Speedily Gain Strength and Put on Needed Weight.

Nothing like the wonderful vitalizing vitamins in Cod Liver Oil to help convalescing people to quickly get strong and well—everybody knows that.

But no body wants to take the ill-smelling, horrible tasting, stomach upsetting oil itself, so nowadays, up to date medical men are ordering a tablet of Cod Liver Oil and it surely has proved a blessing to thousands of people who have been sapped of their natural strength after a severe illness—and especially after the Grippe or a stubborn cough or cold.

Ask Jas. B. McLeod, Mahood's Drug Store, or any regular druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets. They cost but little, are sugar coated and as pleasant to take as candy.

Illnessy men and women take them to speedily put on plenty of good healthy solid flesh and for this purpose, they are so extremely good that thin men and women often take on 5 pounds or more in 30 days. As a matter of fact, your druggist will return your money if you don't take on 5 pounds in 30 days.

Great for weak, skinny, backward, run-down children, too, and gives them a hearty appetite.

Be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 Tablets—60 cents.
