

Do You Cough, Cough, All Night Long?

Terribly distressing and wearing on the system is the cough that comes on at night and you cough; cough all night long and can't get to sleep.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup Will Give You Relief

Mrs. John Lyman, Enterprise, Ont., writes—"After having had whooping cough I contracted bronchitis, and for days and nights I coughed continually, and could get no rest or sleep, but after taking one bottle of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup I found great relief, and after having taken several bottles I was relieved of my trouble."

This valuable cold and cough remedy has been on the market for the past 35 years; you don't experiment when you buy it; put up only by The T. Millburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Death of Harlowe Lad.
Harlowe, Jan. 20.—The funeral of the late little Jerald Curtis was conducted at the home by Rev. Mr. Halley on Wednesday. The little boy had been in poor health for some time. Mr. and Mrs. Young, Tamworth, visited with friends at Harlowe on their way home from Ardoh where Mrs. Young had been spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Charles Gray. Mrs. W. Young and Mrs. J. Gray were the guests of Mrs. J. Huffman on Wednesday.

Mr. H. Haners has moved his sawing outfit on Mr. R. Cuddy's farm where he will be sawing log for the farmers of this district very soon. Miss Florrie Delyea has been the guest of Miss Gladys Thompson for a few days. Mrs. J. Huffman and Mrs. T. Connor were the guests of Mrs. J. White on Monday.

Monday evening the marriage took place of Murdock Taylor and Miss Hilda Temperley, both of Belleville.

"I Think It Possible to Devise Apparatus To Receive Communication From the Dead"

Statement Made by Thomas A. Edison—Would Revolutionize All Generally Accepted Theories Regarding Human Existence.

Thomas A. Edison

Orange, N.J., Jan. 22.—The secretary who arranged the interview with Thomas A. Edison volunteered the admission: "You mustn't ask Mr. Edison about communication with the dead. Mr. Edison has been so misrepresented in regard to that delicate matter that if you mention it to him he will go right up in the air."

Despite this dire warning, the forbidden question was the first one ventured:

"Do you think it possible, Mr. Edison, that you may devise any mechanism through which, when you have left this life, you may hope to communicate with us?"

"The wonder-wizard of communication did not go up in the air. He answered graciously and fully. But he was cautious against misquotation. He took a pencil and a pad and wrote carefully this fundamental part of his statement:

"If my theory is correct—that the machine called man is only a mass of dead matter and that the real life is in the millions of individual units which navigate this machine and if on the destruction of the machine they keep together, including those individuals which have charge of memory (which is our personality)—then I think it is possible to devise apparatus to receive communications if they desire to make them. It will be very difficult, as each individual as to size is beyond the limits of our present microscopes."

Having thus marked securely his metes and bounds, Mr. Edison relaxed into frank talk. He stoutly insisted that he be understood as not meaning any such moot thing as "spiritistic messages, so-called."

He means messages as substantial and as susceptible of authentication as are those of the telegraph, telephone, phonograph and radio. There shall be no "medium," no mystery, no superstition, no "autohypnotism known as 'faith.'" His method, to serve at all, must absolutely guarantee the integrity of the communication it conveys and guard positively against any possible doubt, dispute or misconception.

It goes without saying that communication with the dead, thoroughly authenticated, as Edison says he must have it, would instantly revolutionize all generally-accepted theories regarding human existence, reveal a new science of the essence of life and open up vast new vistas as to the nature and ultimate function of matter.

DEBATE AT CAINTOWN.

Young Folks Cultivating Art of Public Speaking.

Mallorytown, Jan. 20.—A very interesting meeting in connection with the Y. P. League of Caintown was held on Thursday evening. A goodly representation of the Y. P. League came up in sleighs to give support to their team of debaters in the Brockville district league series of debates. The subject of debate was "That the benefits of the Great War outweigh the evils thereof." The affirmative was supported by the Lyn team, consisting of Miss Brookfield, Miss Worden and Harmon Lawson. The negative was defended by the Caintown team, consisting of Misses Vera Scott, Thelma Cluck and Everett Franklin. The judges were, Mr. Cornell, Lyn; Miss E. Vickery, Caintown and Rev. R. Calvert, Mallorytown. The time-keeper was Mrs. W. H. Franklin, the president of the Caintown Y. P. League. The decision was in favor of the negative. A programme of songs, etc., was given while the judges came to their decision. After the announcement of the decision, refreshments were served. The Lyn debaters showed themselves good sports by their leader rising to congratulate the Caintown team on its victory. In the next debate of the series, Caintown will debate with the winner of the Athens-Toledo debate; and Lyn with the losers. The subject, "Resolved that rural schools should be consolidated."

Peps

FOR
COUGHS, SORE THROAT, COLDS & BRONCHITIS

As you dissolve a Peps tablet on your tongue, certain healing fumes are released which are immediately taken with the breath down into the furthest recess of the lungs where liquid medicines cannot penetrate. These Peps fumes on their way bathe the whole of the breathing passages with their healing potency, soothing the throat, allaying inflammation in the bronchi, and relieving the chest. Liquid medicines are simply swallowed into the stomach and cannot act in this direct Peps way.

While Peps are an expensive remedy to produce, the demand has become so great that it has now been found possible to have the
