COLLEEN MOORE AT STRAND. Flapperdom has lost its greatest exponent, but only for the time

The reason is the attractive role of a temperamental young actress in "Flirting with Love," in which Colleen Moore is co-featured with Conway Tearle and which will be shown at the Strand for the last time to-day.

Instead of the jazz girl of former pictures, she will appear in the character of a hoydenish Kiki-type of Broadway farceuse. Conway Tearle, too, will have a somewhat different role, penhaps the first o its kind. He plays a psychiatris whose hobby is being a chairman of the "Better Plays Committee."

The pole vault and the shot put are examples of important forms that have developed recently, and perhaps Prof. McKenzie's greatest work has been to make sculptural records of these two events. Certainly the photographs of two studies he has made of the shot-putter do not suffer by comparison with that best known of all Greek statues of athletes, the discus thrower. The Canadian world is undoubtedly more realistic, more scientifically accurate, and seems to radiate a finer fire and ecstacy. In concluding his address, Prof. McKenzie said: "I feel that there is no greater service an artist can do than to perpetuate the beauty of the athletics of his time."

The second of the series of two public lectures given by the eminent Canadian will take place in Convocation hall to-night. The subject will be "The Emotions as Expressed by the Face."

The Family Market Basket

The island market was crowded on Saturday and the display of poultry nearly equalled that of the weeks preceding the holiday season. There were turkeys for which their owner asked 45 cents a pound, chickens big, fat ones, for $1.75 and $2 a piece and others not so large at $1.25 and still open. The club is in need $1.50 a piece. Ducks brought $1.25 more money to meet all the demands and $1.50 a piece and a big goose On Saturday morning, the following was offered for $3.50. Charming in Design--Convenient in Plan

There is something notably good about this house, a certain grace of line-good character. Weathered brown shingles compose the sloping roof and the wide siding is painted white-cream-colored siding would also be effective. The shutters are a warm shade of green an othe round headed front door and quaint little entrance gates are made more unique by painting them green, also.

Lovely old Colonial "Clinker" brick make the chimney and vestibule attractive and different.

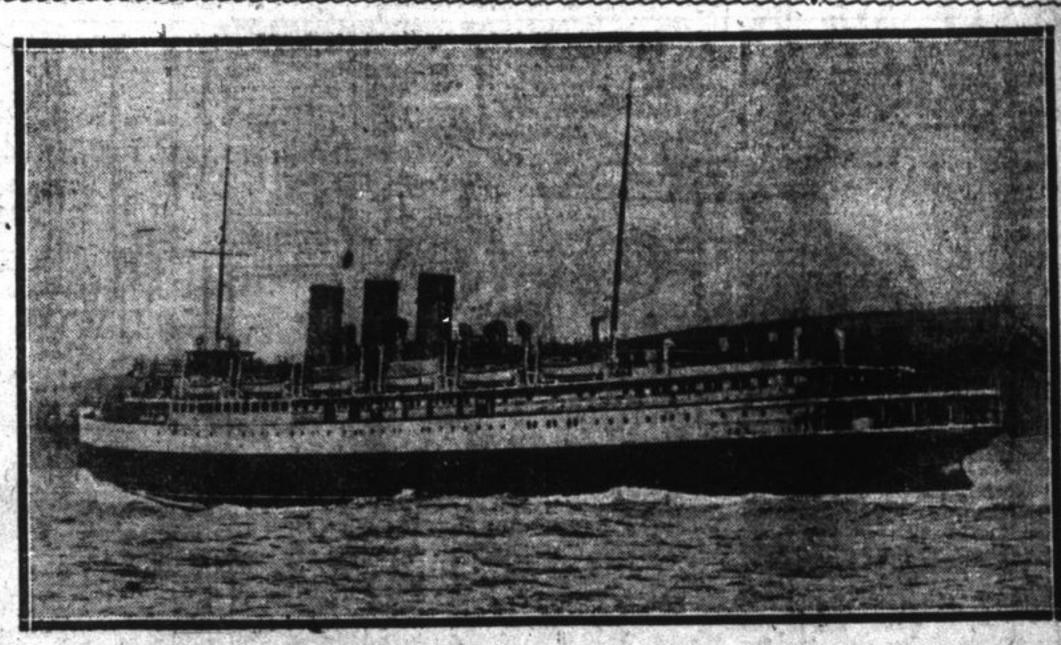

There is a small vestibule with two coat closets just inside the entrance door. From there one enters the living-room, which has a large fireplace. There is a sun porch connecting with the living-room and the well-arranged and very compact stairs lead up from the living-room.

The second floor rooms are grouped about a small hall. The three bedrooms and the tiled bath all connecting with it. There are numerous closets on this floor, those necessary adjuncts that help so much to keep one's house in order.

This house is truly attractive and practical combining many good features and preserving an artistic exterior at the same time.

The laundry, heating plant, etc., may be found in the cellar, Cost about $8,000.

Complete working plans and specifications for this house may be obtained for a nominal sum from the Building Editor. Refer to House A-128.

Princess Kathleen Makes Maiden Voyage

On her preliminary trials the "Princess Kathleen", built at the Clydesbank yards of John Brown and Company for service on the Canadian Pacific run between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle, accomplished all that was expected of her, and the Canadian engineers and other officers who conducted the trials and who will bring this and a sister ship, the "Princess Marguerite", still under construction to Vancouver, expressed themselves as being entirely satisfied. With a speed of 22½ knots the new steamships will considerably reduce time between ports. Built with the object of speeding up and affording even better and more convenient service than is now offered, the two Princesses will be, without a shadow of doubt, the most elsborate yet tastefully beautiful vessels operating on the Pacific Coast. Three hundred and sixty-eight feet in length, their lines were specially designed for the service to which they will be put and those who have seen the new vessels describe them as being beyond comparison with any others of their kind. Five decks are given over to the accommodation of the passengers, whose private quarters and public rooms are most spacious and luxuriously fitted up. The "Princess Kathleen" sailed from the Clyde on January 15, expecting to complete the journey to Vancouver in about thirty days, her route being via the Azores, the West Indies and the Panama, where she will pick up fuel oil. She will be placed in passenger service soon after her arrival. The "Princess Marguerite" is scheduled to leave the Clyde on March 15
