Put on with a pep that inspired the large audience that filled the floor and gallery of the gymnasium at the Royal Military College on Saturday evening, the minstrel show by the cadets was an entire success. New jokes that sent their guests into shouts of laughter were told by the minstrels, and their singing was tuneful and bright. Dr. Ignatz Schultzeimer, F.O.B., A.W.L. (G.C. Treat) gave an amusing monologue which he began by saying "God made all good things, but Prohibition made the bootlegger, a sentiment which met with loud applause, "The Green Ray," a Russian musical tragedy in one act, was cleverly done and had a beauty chorus of "co-eds" which was second to none. The extremely short skirts were an awful warning to the girls in the audience meditating on the subject of spring clothes, but for all that the chorus, as all such choruses should do, won the hearts of the audience on their first appearance. The tragedy centres around the poisoning of the father of Dr. Vanka Sergevitch by the father of his lady love, Olga, which was alleged to have been done by a mouldy shredded wheat biscuit. A dual personality played by J. W. Thornton and W. W. Darling, in the part of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde, was splendidly done, and L. C. Mather made an entirely charming Olga. Everything is straightened out by the appearance of the father who has been dead for seven years and who it appears stole the shredded wheat biscuit in the first place. But the main effort of the evening, which certainly was crowned with success, was the fantastic drama in verse, "Wyde Harold," written by Major E. de L. Greenwood, R.E., formerly adjutant of the R.M.C. The scenery was exceptionally good. The stone walls of Sir Mortimer de Windward Les barons' hall were most realistic, and their arched bearings, a great coat of arms with the motto, "Treat 'em Ruf," was flanked by shields and armor. The story of "Wyde Harold" (H. C. Fair) caught by Sir Mortimer's (G. G. Simmons) soldiers, gorgeous in red and gold uniforms, and sentenced to be hanged, rescued by his lady-love the baron's lovely daughter (J. F. Acer) and finally turning out to be a person of consequence and wealth, is all told in verse, and the up-to-date slang introduced amidst the old world setting made a most amusing burlesque of this well thought out play. G. L. Foster as the Lady Eustacia, the mother of the lovely "Toots," Harold's "only girl," brought down the house by her splendid acting. "Harold" was an ideal lover in a gorgeous green costume and plumed hat. Between the acts the illustrated songs, "Dear old R.M.C.," by J. E. Birks, showed some of the saddest moments in the life of a recruit, and the sergeant (H. C. Lane) who drilled the four unhappy recruits, must by his clever impersonation have awakened painful memories in the minds of the ex-cadets present. P. C. Fair was accompanied. "The Broken Friendship" by G. L. Foster with A. R. Saunders and C. H. T. Rompel "in the hard parts" was excellent. At the conclusion of the play there was a loud call for "author," and Major Greenwood, who had come from Montreal for the "first night" of his play, appeared amidst deafening applause. He congratulated the cast on their performance and said that to them went most of the credit of the success. Refreshments were served between the acts and at the conclusion of the programme a short dance was held which ended at midnight. A box for contribution to the Bernardo Home was in the entrance to the room. Among those present were Major-General Sir Archibald and Lady Macdonell, Major-General and Mrs. J. H. That the early spring, which in spite of setbacks seems to be on its way, makes us think of gardens. This year we should make a special effort to make the town beautiful, for we expect to have many old boys and girls come back to Kingston this year. In June, when Kingston is at its best, there will be the centenary celebration of St. George's cathedral, which many old members and their descendants will be present, and in August some of them will come back to join the hundreds of others who will spend the first week in their home town. Many of them come from towns where the gardens and lawns are especially well kept. Don't let them say: "Well, Kingston is a dear old place, it has everything to make it beautiful, but why don't the citizens take a little pride in their gardens?"

That help is being sent to the stricken areas in Illinois and Indiana. TOMORROW'S MENU: Breakfast: Grapefruit, Cereal, Hash, Coffee, Muffins. Luncheon: Purée of Beans, Vegetable Salad, Wholewheat Bread, Marmalade, Tea. Dinner: Ham-Spaghetti Dish, Spinach, Orange Salad, Steamed Date Pudding, Hard Sauce, Coffee.

New Dishes This Week. Ham-Spaghetti Dish: Put two tablespoons of ham fat or bacon fat into a saucepan and, when melted, add one tablespoon of minced, raw onion; let simmer till the onion is yellow, then add one tablespoon of flour, one and one-half cups of canned tomato-juice, and a pinch each of salt and pepper. Season with two or three drops of Worcestershire sauce if liked. Stir till smooth, then add two and two-thirds cups of cooked spaghetti. When the spaghetti is warm, add one-half cup of finely-chopped mild American cheese, reduce heat to moderate (intense heat will toughen cheese) and stir till the cheese is melted. Then serve this mixture on the same platter with broiled sliced ham.

Butterscotch Cookies: (Contributed by Mrs. M. P.) Cream together two cups of brown sugar and one-half cup of butter; add two beaten eggs, one tablespoon of cold water in which one teaspoon of baking soda has been dissolved, then four cups of ordinary bread flour which has been previously sifted with one teaspoon of baking powder. Stir in one-half cup of desiccated cocoanut and one-half cup of chopped nut-meats, and form the dough into a roll. Slice thin slabs off this long roll, and place these flat on a greased baking pan. Bake about eight minutes in a hot oven. (It is perhaps better to let the roll stand overnight before slicing and baking). Hungarian Goulash: (Requested by "A Constant Reader"). Slice one large peeled onion and brown it in three tablespoons of bacon fat; then remove the onion slices and put into the same fat one pound of lean veal and one half pound of lean beef, both cut small. Brown these meat-cubes, then remove from the frying pan and place them in a glass or earthen baking dish; pour over them three cups of boiling water and season with one-half teaspoon of paprika. Put on the cover and bake in a hot oven for one and one-half hours. Now add to the casserole six small white onions peeled, six tiny balls cut out of raw carrots, and six turnip balls, all of these vegetables having been previously fried for a few moments in hot fat before being added to the meat in the casserole. Season all with one teaspoon of salt, a tiny bit of bay leaf, one whole clove, and one Chilli pepper, minced. Add a thickening paste made by mixing together one cup of cold water and two heaping tablespoons of flour. Also add one cup of boiling water to the dish, again cover, and cook one hour longer before serving.

At St. George's Mission. Much to the regret of the people of St. George's Mission Sunday School, Montreal street, last night was the last time for seeing the beautiful and select scripture pictures and the very instructive lectures accompanying them, which they have had for the four Sundays during Lent. They have given much pleasure to about one hundred people, and the grown-ups enjoyed them as well as the children of the Sunday school. Efforts to secure an international salmon treaty between Canada and the United States will be made immediately by government authorities on both sides of the line.

A feature of the Toronto celebration was the presentation by the various city chapters of their latest contributions to the War Memorial Fund of the Order. The Order started to raise a fund of $500,000 after the war, to provide bursaries for the children of Canadian soldiers, and to this amount, of which $400,000 has already been raised. The Toronto city chapters during the past five years have raised $55,000. Kingston's contribution is $6,000.

THE SCARLET TANGAR. The flame went flitting through the wood; The neighboring birds all understood. Here was a marvel of their kind; And silent was each feathered throat To catch the brilliant stranger's note. And folded every songster's wing To hide its sober coloring. Against the tender green outlined, He bore himself with splendid ease. As though alone among the trees. The glory passed bough to bough—The maple was in blossom now. And then the oak, remembering The crimson hint it gave in spring. And every tree its branches swayed And offered its inviting shade; Where'er a bough detained him long. A slender, silver thread of song Was lightly, merrily unspun. From early morn till day was done The vision flitted to and fro. At last the wood was all alone; But, ere the restless flame had flown He left a secret with each bough. And in the fall, where on is now, A thousand tangars will glow. —Mary A. Poynter.
