What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

THE ORIGINALS
IN "STEPPING OUT"
Just as we love to hear old melodies, so do we like to see old faces again. The Originals, that brilliant troupe of soldier-funmakers, who have with them many of the original Dumbells, will be back in Kingston on Friday and Saturday at the Grand Opera House, with their latest and biggest fun show "Stepping Out," headed by those ever popular favorites, Gene Pearson "The Male Galk Curci," and "Bob" Anderson, Canada's clever character comedian, a native of Lancashire, with Alan Murray, Leonard Young (The Duchess), Bertram Langley, Jerry Brayford, etc. The company, as before, is under the management of Percy Campbell, and directed by Leonard Young.

"Stepping Out" opens up with a reunion of the officers of the Battery and from the time Bob Anderson enters as John Willie Shuffbottom, the piece is one continuous roar. Gene Pearson plays the role of Madame Helena, an opera singer, and is the most convincing operatic star we have seen for many a long day. "Her" singing of "Love Will Come Back," is a treat and her gown is a delight to the eye. There are two acts and four scenes in "Stepping Out," all of them uniformly clever and suitably staged and lighted.

Till "The Originals" come again with fresh tunes and new laughter their performance of "Stepping Out" will be remembered by all who witness it as a scream from start to finish. To let the audience get a fresh hold on its shaking sides, a few serious numbers such as the "Soldier's Monument" and two or three musical classics are brought into the programme for diversion, but for the most part the dozen performers, comedians, all, are merciless. The seat sale is now open at the box office.

SHAW'S "SAINT JOAN"
AT GRAND APRIL 22.
Kingston Theatregoers are to have the rare privilege of witnessing Gene, Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," which B. C. Whitney will present at the Grand Opera House, Wednesday, April 22nd, matinee and night. Like those of her dramas, with which it is worthy to rank, "Saint Joan" will be read with pleasure by the student and the lover of dramatic literature for its own sake. It is a play that will live because in it the author escaped from the trammels of the purely local and personal aspects of his theme and has infused it with those universal and timeless qualities that mark all great dramas. He deals with the eternal virtues and the primal emotions—the human groping after the divine, patriotism, self-interest, courage and fear, and the faith that conquers death. He ignores the letter of history to capture its spirit, and portrays the protagonist of the play and her friends and enemies, not as they appeared to themselves and each other, but as they really proved in the light of their actions and consequences. He has painted an unforgettable picture of the Maid of Orleans, and, as played by Miss Julia Arthur, the portrait takes on the animation, the sentence and the reality of life, and is by right inscribed in theatrical annals as one of the most noble and inspiring realizations of a role which the stage has ever seen. No man or woman holding the finer graces of life in due regard can afford to let "Saint Joan" depart without doing it homage.

MIX CAPS ANOTHER CLIMAX IN PHOTODRAMA
Every artist has his masterpiece. There is an apex in all our careers when we reach or attain the best that is in us. The same rule holds true among motion picture stars. Like the rest of us mortals they have their limitations. But every rule has its exceptions. For years the public, the exhibitors and the dramatic critics have been saying "so-and-so" is Tom Mix' best picture; it is the apex of his career; it would be unfair to expect one man to produce another such film, etc. But every new Mix production sees these same people eating their words or repeating them. Tom Mix goes on making bigger and better pictures. Take the current season's production by this star if you want examples.

Mr. Mix started the season with "The Last of the Duanees," from one of Zane Grey's stories. It was hailed by public and critic alike as the greatest Western photo-play ever produced. His next picture was "Teeth," and although he shared the starring honors with his horse, Tony, and his dog, Duke, he again scored a tremendous hit.

Now comes "The Deadwood Coach," a picturization of Clarence Mulford's celebrated novel, "The Orphan," and after seeing it we are almost tempted to make the oft-repeated prediction that it is Tom's best, and we never expect to see him produce one quite as good again.

The reasons we are tempted to do this despite the lessons of the past are that it really is the most ambitious production Mr. Mix has ever appeared in and William Fox, Mr. Mix' boss, has spared no expense in making it. Next to Tom's acting, which shows an altogether new character, the scenic beauty of the film borders on being stupendous. Never were such "shots" of the beauty of our country thrown on the silver-screen.

Flashing through these beautiful panoramas is the usual Tom Mix action in double measure. From the moment Tom becomes an outlaw known as "The Orphan," after the brutal murder of his father, and the tragic death of his mother, thrill follows thrill with almost bewildering rapidity.

Gun fights, Indian fights, hold-ups, chases, captures, and a love theme that moves one to tears as it progresses through what seems a hopeless course.

A sweet little girl from Boston, played by Doris May, cultured and refined, and a Western outlaw with a price on his head. Bringing them together seems an impossible task. But it is done in an amazing manner. Mr. Mulford is without a superior for weaving plots that don't insult our sense of logic and in "The Orphan" he extended his imagination to the breaking point with exceptionally good results.

"The Deadwood Coach" will open at the Capitol Theatre for a run of three days beginning Thursday.

Against Training Schools Employing Pupil Nurses For Fee.

London, Ont., April 15.—Miss E. Dickson of Toronto was elected to the presidency of the Ontario Graduate Nurses' Association, which at its concluding session last evening changed its name to the Ontario Registered Nurses' Association and arranged to hold the next meeting in Belleville.

The convention, after a discussion of unemployment conditions among private duty nurses, passed a resolution "that the inspector of training schools be advised that certain training schools are known to employ pupil nurses for special duty in violation of regulations and collect a fee, when graduates are available."

Other resolutions were adopted, calling upon the provincial fire marshal to institute fire drill in hospitals and training schools, and protesting against continuance of the practice of providing cots for nurses in patients' rooms, thus keeping the nurse on duty 20 hours a day.

Kiwanian Bowlers at Belleville. Thirteen hold Kiwanians motored up to Belleville on Tuesday afternoon to bowl against the Belleville club. They report that they had a very good time, which is a gentle way of saying that Kingston did not win.

At Belleville a bazaar was in progress at St. Michael's Academy and the Kiwanians had supper there, with excellent club singing and an address by the president of the Peterboro club. It was announced that the annual charter presentation night of the Belleville club would be celebrated on Friday, May 15th, and an invitation was extended to the members from Kingston to come in force. Mr. Blake Halladay, governor of the Ontario and Quebec Kiwanis district, is to speak.

After the dinner the teams went down to the bowling alleys, and some good games were enjoyed, with Belleville getting somewhat the better of the play. The two Kingston teams were Messrs. S. Driver, George VanHorne, E. Smithes, J. Newlands and A. Minnes, and Messrs. W. Sowards, B. Booth, G. Bowden, D. McKnight and W. Macnee.

A return game has been arranged to be played in Kingston after the evening meeting on Monday, April 17th.

The cause of the fire is unknown. The loss is already estimated at from a quarter to half a million dollars.

MEN AND HORSES

How closely related is man to the more intelligent of the animals is seen in many of the ailments to which both are prone and the remedies to which they answer.

Doctors and veterinarians are oftentimes surprised to learn of the similarity of their methods of handling the ailments of man and horse.

Spains, burns, scalds, scratches and many other minor injuries, many everyday ailments, too in men and animals take the same course, and both answer immediately to the same treatment—Absorbine.

Absorbine was first discovered by a very close student of the horse, W. F. Young, and by him, devoted to his cause. Its very exceptional benefits, however, were promptly seized upon for the human race and, in a similar form, the preparation is sold all over the continent today as Absorbine Jr. It is used for men, women and children everywhere as a positive germicide—a germ killer—and a prompt and certain healer of all cuts and burns. It is useful not only for all the purposes served by ordinary disinfectants and embrocations, but as a mouth-wash and for anything else where a germicide is needed. Don't wait until you are sick. Get it in the house today. 25c. at your druggist's.
