

"The Town was Burned Three Days Later"

(1) The Wolf's Headquarters, which survived the burning of St. Joachim, prior to the taking of Quebec, P.Q. (2) The second house to survive the burning by Wolfe. (3) An old church with very beautiful and rare interior at St. Joachim, P.Q.

Some parts of the world seem to have been created merely as slates for the pencil of history. On some of these slates the copy once written has been allowed to stand for a little, and then expunged to make room for fresh text. On others the original text has been of such import that Time has only served to fix the text more indelibly, the "scans" more vividly, as when painters of old varnished their pictures to bring out the colors and "fix" them.

Now there is not a reader but can bring to mind without the slightest effort on his part dozens of such "slates" in Canada. A million romances... to run serially, or each an entity in itself... might be swept from these earth-slates of the Dominion on to the printed page, and still leave a million more untold. And so it is that we learn to come back to the original slate, the land itself, with its endless tales. The best short stories of this year and every year, past, present and to come.

Such a tiny slate is the little village of Saint Joachim, a few miles from Quebec city. It begins in water-reads, lush from the toying waters of the St. Lawrence takes a couple of steps upward and spreads out into a plain on which some scattered farmhouses of ancient habitant type and a church have been flung as if by way of illustration. Then the plain steps up suddenly into a low bench and the bench in turn spreads out levelly for a little way and then suddenly leaps with vim into giant Cap Torment, two thousand feet high, its head in the clouds and its feet eternally ablaze in the mighty river.

his troops at Saint Joachim, approved of it in the main, but thought that he must add a line here and there which would add to the picture as a whole.

And though you may not think it, the touches that Time has added are the human interest touches. He tells that one of the houses, the low white one with the tall and stately Lombardy poplars, resembling Greek columns, in front, was "Wolfe's headquarters."

So, too, here at Saint Joachim, Time brings out a French oil painting of Saint Louis de Gonzague and pointing to the eyes, says, "Tears were seen to fall from these eyes three days before the burning of Saint Joachim." The picture then hung in the workroom of Monsignor Laval. Saint Joachim at that time being part of the vast seigneurie belonging to the eminent Laval. "On seeing those falling tears," Time says, "the people were deeply troubled, wringing their hands and saying that something terrible was going to happen to them." And, there on the margin of the old manuscript in Time's own handwriting is the illuminating line, "And the town was burned three days later."

MISSION AFFAIRS ARE HELD AT DELTA

The Bands of Three Churches Enjoy a Programme—A Parlor Tea. Delta, April 15.—The Mission bands of the Baptist, Methodist and Anglican church met Monday evening, in St. Paul's church to enjoy a programme, each band supplying some number that was much enjoyed. Rev. Mr. Davies and Rev. Mr. Keough gave addresses commenting on the splendid work that the children are engaged in. Miss Elina Steele sang a solo, as did also Master Johnson Forsythe, a trio of young girls sang and recitations were given, a missionary pageant was splendidly given by several young girls of St. Paul's, and Rev. Mr. Boyle, rector, contributed a pleasing solo. Lantern slides were given on the missionary work.

IN THE MORNING HER TONGUE WAS COATED HAD BAD TASTE IN MOUTH

Miss Pearl L. Zinec, Barrs Corner, N.S., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with my liver, and used to get such dizzy spells I would have to sit down while I was doing my work. In the morning, when I used to get up, my tongue was coated and I had a bad taste in my mouth and often times, throughout the day, I was troubled with pains in my stomach. I suffered in this way until a friend of mine who had used your MILBURN'S Laxa-Liver Pills told me of having taken them, so I decided to try them, and I can truthfully say that they certainly did me a lot of good. I cannot recommend them too highly to all those who suffer as I did."
