Four-Fishing.

Miriam: "I wouldn't refuse George, if I were you, just because he builds castles in the air."
Caroline: "But, my dear, his are hot-air castles."
—Walter Cool.

Musical Exercises.

"I see in the papers," said the poor man's wife, "that rich men take their exercise to music."
"Poor men take their exercise to music, too," replied Bill the tollier, "to the chin music of the cussing foreman."

Saved!

The thrilling news had just been received that "Big Sister" was the proud mother of a darling little girl.

"Oh," said 'Little Sister' June, "I'm so glad it's a little girl and not a little boy."

"Why?" asked her father curiously.

"Because, Daddy," said June with a happy sigh, "I never wanted to be an uncle."
—Clara Alpers.

The Fun Shop Dream Book.

Interpreted By I. C. Litt.

R.G.H.:
If you dream of a sweet girl kissing you,
That means wife will soon be missing you.

J. G. M.:
Dream that the back of your neck needs a shave
You'll meet a Flapper who will not behave.

M. G. R.:
Dream that you bought a new car that won't go,
You will be stuck for two seats to a show.

R. E. L.:
Dream of a three-headed, six-foot hen,
Don't tell the world; it will show where you've been.

Improving Him.

Brother: "Your fiance is a good egg, Sis; he is white all through."
Sister: "He'll be better with a matrimonial yoke."
—L. Jones.

Wonders of Radio.

Blaker: "I see that they have received a message from Mars."
Meeker: "What was it?"

Blaker: "They wanted to know if there was anyone living on earth by the name of John Smith."
—Pauline Lipper.

Just because you have a flower-girl at your wedding isn't a sign that married life will be a bed of roses.

What Price Glory!

Barton: "I suppose that you will not want to go to the theatre with your old hat."
Mrs. Barton: "Of course not!"
Barton: "That's what I thought. So I only bought one ticket."
—N. Chaponet.

EIGHT THOUSAND TULIPS

In C.P.R. Station Bed Will Soon Begin To Bloom.

Mr. George Stockbridge, C.P.R. gardener, to whose constant effort the local station owes its striking summer appearance, is very busy these days and his thousands of plants are thriving under his care. The recent snowfall was worth hundreds of dollars to him, though he had been very much afraid that the frost was going to finish everything. His eight thousand tulips will begin to bloom about the first of May if the present weather continues. The color scheme will be chiefly red and yellow as before. The display will be even better than in former years. The tulips are planted at four-inch intervals in the beds. Around the borders are some bulbs which are about to bloom for their ninth season.

As soon as the tulips are past their best, Mr. Stockbridge will take them up and plant in their places the quantities of dahlias and small flowers which are sprouting now in pots and boxes in the attic and cellar of the station. The next flowers to follow the tulips will be the irises which are already nearly as far advanced as the tulips. There are about 300 iris plants which will put out about 40,000 blossoms in thirty-two colors. There is one iris root from which by feeding it different fertilizers Mr. Stockbridge has succeeded in developing seven shades of lavender.

He has one pot which is quite tropical in its products for it contains, lemon, orange, grapefruit and date trees. Mr. Stockbridge forces the sprouting of the seed by placing the pot underneath a 250 candlepower light which, he says, fools them through in half the time.

A Scenic Treasure House.

New scenic thrills await the tourist taking the trip up the Pacific Coast to Alaska. The ever-changing panorama of mountain and glacier scenery is primitive, rugged and unspoiled in its natural beauty.

Mountains, towering higher than the Alps, hold the onlooker spell-bound. Glaciers, compared with which those of Switzerland are insignificant, creep slowly down the mountainside, lacing the brown tones of the rock with their incomparable blue-green beauty. The Malaspino Glacier is fifteen hundred square miles in area—an irresistible force slowly grinding its way to the sea.

Rivers of every size and temper are to be seen from the tiny musical rill gurgling its way to join some larger, more torrential river, to the placid swift-flowing Yukon with its course within a few miles of the sea, but wandering twenty-three hundred miles to reach it. From June until September each mountain base is smothered in a tangle of wildflowers. Blue lupines, wild pink peas, huge bluebells, rosy-hued fireweed, areas of gold and white daisies and larkspur, blend into a riot of color.

The Northern Lights—misty fans of light, or a colossal arc spanning the earth like a huge rainbow from horizon to horizon, cast a mystic glow through the night.

In primitive Indian villages, grotesque Totem Poles biograph the superstitious beliefs of the natives.

Cities steeped in romance enhance the spell Alaska weaves for all who visit this lovely land. Juneau and Skagway—founded by the Russians, were used as supply bases by the early gold-seekers and still hold much of interest for the visitor.

Visit Alaska this summer—travel by Canadian National Railways to Vancouver and there board a palatial Canadian National Steamer for the five-day voyage through sheltered Scenic Seas, rugged magnificent marks every mile of the journey—luxurious comfort aboard ship completes the enjoyment of this most wonderful of boat trips.

Any Canadian National Agent will supply illustrated literature and full information.

Took Thumb Off.

While operating a sawing machine on the farm of John Bissonette, near Lombardy, Ernest Bissonette, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Bissonette, suffered a badly mutilated thumb when his left hand was drawn under the circular saw and the thumb was cut to the bone. The wound was so serious that it was necessary to operate and the thumb was amputated.

On April 18th, at Toronto, Richard Ferguson Green, eldest son of Mrs. S. B. Gearing, Pickton, and Ethel Maud Dale, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dale, were married. Because of ill-health, Miss Edna Farley, tax collector, Belleville, has resigned.

GANANOQUE

April 27.—The Oddfellows had a splendid turnout yesterday to attend divine service in Grace Methodist church. The Citizens Band accompanied them to and from church.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hubbard, Kingston, spent the week-end here with friends.

On Saturday evening a little after ten, a motor car bumper went through one of the large Wright dry goods windows. Luckily those in the path of the car were able to get out of the way in time, but the plate glass was badly wrecked.

Mrs. Charles Nuttall and baby, Montreal, are visiting friends in town.

Miss Annie Shiels who has been spending the past few months with Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Abbott, Hartford, Conn., returned home on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Adams and Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh, Kingston, motored down yesterday and spent the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baker.

Mrs. James Mullin, Brinston, is the guest of her aunt Miss Annie Shiels for a couple of weeks.

Miss Mary Dempster, R.N., supervisor of the Jewish hospital, New York, was winner of the first prize in a recent beauty contest conducted at the above hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Palmer and Mrs. Beerman, Brockville, were the guests of Mrs. Thomas Baker yesterday.

There is to be a meeting in the Lyceum this evening of those interested in tennis. Work is to be started at once on St. John's Court on Pine street. Tennis is becoming extremely popular in Gananoque now, and some of the boys and girls who arrived at the high school links a few minutes after seven Saturday morning found they were too late. There has been some talk of a court at the town park; also a bowling green there, both of which would likely prove very popular with a large number of our citizens.

Mr. and Mrs. James Kane and children, Kingston, motored down yesterday and spent the day with friends.

Owing to the beauty of the day there was considerable motoring on land and water yesterday. Arrangements are being made to accommodate the large crowd which promises to greet the Kingston Choral Society at the Lyceum of Wednesday evening.

Honors For A Member.

Members of Frack Lodge, No. 127, A.F. & A.M., Belleville, motored to Bro. John W. Preston's home in Murray, and gave a surprise in presenting him with his life membership certificate and also a comfortable chair. Bro. Preston has been a member of Frack Lodge for forty-one years.

Belleville council will be asked to grant $500 to the Agriculture fair and levy half a mill for park commission purposes.

The Taxpayer Benefits by Concrete Roads

CANADA CEMENT CONCRETE FOR PERMANENCE

Road building programmes must be planned to lessen the taxpayer's burden rather than increase it. Permanence; freedom from costly maintenance; easy and economical traction are needed. Concrete provides them.

Concrete roads pay. They are every day proving their ability to carry the growing load of motor traffic without the need of costly upkeep. They last—and all the while provide a safe driving surface that saves gasoline, tires and repair bills.

We need more concrete roads. They save money for the taxpayer and aid prosperity generally by reducing haulage costs.
