A BRIDAL COUPLE SHOWERED AT ATHENS

Big Event at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Howarth—The High School Fund.

Athens, April 29.—The suburban home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Howarth was the scene of a happy gathering last night, when about one hundred and fifty relatives and friends tendered a shower to the daughter of the home and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Parish, the bride and groom of last week. The house was prettily decorated with evergreens, festoons of white and an immense white wedding-bell. Good-fellowship and mirth prevailed and music lent its charm, so that time passed rapidly. At a certain juncture, a witty song, composed for the occasion, accorded a welcome to the bridal pair, with sage counsel for "Jasper" and "Mary" as they are familiarly known. Following this the presents were opened and admired for their beauty and usefulness. In a neat speech the groom thanking all for their kind remembrances. MORE HUMORS OF HISTORY

By Arthur Moreland

No. 82.—Battle of the Standard.

A.D. 1138.—The supporters of Matilda were not idle. Ostensibly on her behalf, David of Scotland thrice ravaged Northumberland, and collected much plunder. On his third raid, the barons in their own defence joined forces and defeated David at the Battle of the Standard, near Northallerton. The following year, Stephen concluded a peace with David, whereby the whole of Northumberland, except Bamborough and Newcastle, was granted to the young Scottish Prince Henry.
