Mrs. Charles Sheard, Ottawa, entertained on Saturday at luncheon in one of the private rooms at the Parliamentary Cafe for the members of the Ottawa Women's Press Club and a few others.

Misses Jean Truscott, Isabel Palmer, Azelle Campbell and Mary Roberts took part. The old people were greatly pleased at the visit from the girls who were in charge of Miss Hilda Angrove.

Mrs. Edward L. Fortt, the Belvidere annex was the hostess of a charmingly arranged mah jong party on Saturday afternoon. The large living room was lovely with quantities of spring flowers and the dining room, where at the tea hour, Mrs. Norman Leslie and Mrs. Philip Du Moulin made tea and coffee, was gay with golden daffodils, a vase of the blossoms resting on the handsome lace cloth that centred the polished table and the color scheme being further carried out by yellow candles in silver sticks.

Miss Beattie Stewart, Alfred street, gave a tea and cup and saucer shower on Saturday afternoon for Miss May Mills, a bride of tawa, made tea at the effectively decorated table, assisted by Miss K. Edgar, Miss Alice Carleton and Miss Mabel Kennedy. Many good wishes for the bride-elect accompanied the pretty gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Preston, Brantford, are celebrating their golden wedding anniversary today. Mr. Preston is owner of the Expositor and a distinguished journalist. Twenty-eight children and grandchildren enjoyed the day with the beloved couple. We offer heartfelt congratulations.

LATE MISS IDA RONAN.

A Prominent Social Worker Passed Away on Monday.

LATE MISS IDA RONAN

By the death of Miss Ida Ronan, which occurred on Monday morning, Kingston loses a devoted woman worker and the less fortunate members of the community a sincere and faithful friend. As president of the Sodality of the Children of Mary, Miss Ronan organized a Poor Relief Society for the Roman Catholic poor and many of them will feel that they have lost a real friend. But it was not only among the members of her own church that Miss Ronan worked. She was for eleven years recording secretary of the Kingston Local Council of Women and of recent years was a vice-president. During the old days she was a most useful member of the Children's Aid Society, and during the war worked not only in the Red Cross but was secretary of St. John's Ambulance Society, a work which she performed most efficiently. On the unemployment committee she was a valued member, her advice, while always on the side of mercy, was wise and based on first-hand knowledge of the situation, and as a member of the Board of the Mother's Allowance her work was greatly appreciated.

Always gentle and with a quiet dignity all her own, Miss Ronan was beloved by many citizens to whom her death will bring a sense of personal loss.

That May seems to be following the example of March and coming in like a lion. And yet on the Saturday market the first of the white trilliums that make dritts of white against the green of the opening leaves, made their appearance, and the woods are showing many of the beauties of the Maytime.

That some people hail the coming of the "summer time" with joy. There are others who dislike it exceedingly and to whom it is the greatest possible inconvenience as it is at present. Of course much of TOMORROW'S MENU: Breakfast: Grapefruit, Cereal, Fried Eggs Coffee Cake. Luncheon: Baked Macaroni and Cheese, Lettuce Salad, Strawberries, Tea, Left-Over Coffee Cake. Dinner: Cream of Onion Soup, Minced Lamb on Toast, Boiled Potatoes, Asparagus, Fruit Salad, Bake Custards, Coffee.

Sweet Potatoes au Gratin: Cut six large, cold, boiled (and peeled) sweet potatoes in thin slices and place a layer of these in the bottom of a buttered baking dish; sprinkle with a little salt, pepper, and three tablespoons of brown sugar, dot over with bits of butter, and then repeat the potato-layer, the seasonings and sugar, and top all with buttered cracker crumbs. Bake till the crumbs are brown. Serve hot.

Creole Lemon Pudding: Begin by making this Lemon Mixture: Into a sauce pan put one-third cup of butter, three tablespoons of lemon juice and the grated rind of one large lemon. Let it bubble up a moment, then add one cup of granulated sugar and three beaten eggs and continue to cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture becomes thick. Now cool it and flavor with one-half teaspoon of vinegar. Spread six large slices of stale white bread with this lemon mixture and arrange them in the baking dish. Over these slices pour a mixture made by combining two beaten eggs with this would be done away with if the system was universally adopted and mail and railroads were controlled by it. The best way is to forget it, although when you don't get your letters until you get home from your office at mid-day you are apt to recall it unpleasantly.

That this is the season for rummage sales. Many have been held and others will be held shortly. The rummage sale is arranged to make money and at the same time to make it possible for people who are not in good circumstances to buy useful articles at a small cost. When the rummage sale does this it is fulfilling its original object and is a useful institution. But when a lot of absolutely useless articles are exposed for sale and sold to people who have not sense enough to refrain from buying them, the sale is an evil and certainly should not be carried on under the name of "sweet charity." People who send such things to a sale of this kind are largely responsible, for when the ladies who are in charge receive them they get rid of them in to sell them. The greatest care should be taken to see that no articles used during sickness in the home should find their way to such sales.

That Sir George Foster made it exceedingly plain that the peace of the world largely depended on the public opinion of the man and the woman in ordinary life. As he pointed out, the idea of settling differences by arbitration was a comparatively new one and the idea of settling them by force six thousand years old. Habit is a powerful force, whether it is a habit of thought or action, and even after the unspeakable horrors of the world's war it seems as if some people found it hard to get away from the idea that armed legions are the only argument. But surely the women of the countries who suffered will make every effort to make the glad day noted for a change of heart and the one which will fulfill Lord Tennyson's prophecy of the glad day when "the war-drums throb no longer, and the battle flags are furled in the parliament of man, the federation of the world."

FACTS ABOUT TEA SERIES—No. 6

Appearance of Tea No Guide

The only way to test tea is to taste it. Many people have the idea that a finely rolled and tippy tea is superior in flavour to a large rough leaf. In reality this is not of necessity the case. The altitude at which the tea plant grows determines the amount of essential oil and alkaloid theine in the leaf. The essential oil gives tea its flavour; the theine contributes the stimulating value. The only way to insure always receiving a uniform quality is to insist upon a skillfully blended and scientifically sealed tea like "SALADA" whose reliability, goodness and delicious flavour have become a household word.
