Addresses At Queen's Convocation
By Statesmen And Educationalists

Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden Addresses Graduates—Hon. W. F. Nickle Was Forcibly Reminded of 4.4 By the Students Who Sang a Parody.

The eighty-fourth convocation of Queen's University which took place on Wednesday afternoon, was an event which will long be remembered by the hundreds who were present on that occasion. Every available seat in Grant Hall was occupied, and the convocation was one of the best on record.

The proceedings opened at three o'clock, with the academic procession, led by the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Laird Borden, chancellor of the university, and Principal R. Bruce Taylor. The members of the trustee board and the staff of the university, as well as representatives of the permanent force, of the Royal Military College and other bodies, occupied places on the platform. The chairman of the day was Canon W. F. Fitzgerald, rector of St. Paul's church.

Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, M.A., D.D., LL.D., who was the first speaker, traced the history of the university from its foundation and told of the part which Queen's men had played in the development of Canada, and other countries. He told of the college, which had a small beginning, and has risen to be one of the most important seats of learning in the dominion. He also dealt in detail with the suggestion of Premier Ferguson, who stated that it was the intention of the Ontario government to cut down the grants which for some years have been given to Queen's.

Honorary Degrees.
The degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon Rev. David Williams, Best, pastor of the Bowmanville Presbyterian church. Dr. Best, who is a graduate of Arts and Theology of Queen's University, has occupied a high position in connection with the work of the Presbyterian church. Dr. McFayden who introduced Mr. Best, referred to his work in connection with the Presbyterian church, and also told of the service which he is rendering in the community where he has lived for some years.

The degrees of doctor of laws was conferred upon Hugh Wallace Bryan, principal of the Renfrew Collegiate Institute, who is also a graduate of Queen's University, and Alfred Tennyson De Lury, the dean of the Faculty of Arts of Toronto University.

Dr. Taylor, who presented Mr. Bryan for the degree, stated that he had graduated from Queen's in 1893, and during his student life at the university he had a great part to play in connection with the organization of the student government. For a time he carried on the duties of registrar of the university, which were then taken over by the late G. Y. Chown. Since leaving Queen's he has been principal of the Renfrew Collegiate Institute and all have learned to love him. Dr. W. S. Dyde placed the hood upon the new doctor of laws.

Principal Taylor, when referring to Dean De Lury, stated that he had graduated from Toronto University in 1890, the same year as did himself from Glasgow University, and had accepted a position in his Alma Mater in 1892. He had gradually risen until 1922 when he was appointed dean of the Faculty of Arts, a position which he now holds. Dr. Dyde placed the hood upon the shoulders of Dr. De Lury.

Chancellor's Address.
The chancellor, the Rt. Hon. Sir Robert Borden, addressed the graduating class, and he impressed upon them many things which will be of vital importance to them in their new life after graduation, when the first time many of them will be thrown up against the world.

The degrees were then conferred upon the graduates, many of whom were unable to be present, but nevertheless their names were read out and their diplomas will be forwarded them in due course. The M.A. degrees were the first to be awarded, after which followed B.A.'s, (with honors), and B.A.'s (pass) and bachelor of commerce. The M.Sc.'s, B.Sc., (with honors), and B.Sc., (pass) were then conferred. Dean Arthur L. Clarke, of the Faculty of Applied Science, and Dean Matheson of the Faculty of Arts, placed the hoods upon the successful candidates.

The valedictory address was given by James Andrew Walker, B.A. The awarding of the medals, fellowships, scholarships and prizes was the next item on the programme, after which the Hon. W. F. Nickle, attorney-general, who is the chairman of the trustee board of the university, gave a brief address. When Mr. Nickle was rising the students sang "How Dry We Are" to the amusement of Mr. Nickle, as well as the large gathering. "How are you old 4.4," a voice started from the gallery and great laughter followed.

Dr. A. T. De Lury.
On behalf of the three men who received honorary degrees, Dr. De Lury thanked the senate of Queen's University for the honor conferred upon them. He stated that it was a very important day for the graduates who for the first time in many cases were stepping out to make their living. He stated that he had the opportunity of meeting Dr. Byrn when he attended the School of Pedagogy in Toronto. Rev. Dr. Best had been well-known by the speaker for the work which he had done among the young people of his congregation.

In closing the dean said that he saw in the presenting of the honorary degree to a member of the University of Toronto staff, a fine feeling of desire for co-operation among the two colleges, and he was certain that his colleagues had the same feeling.

Address to Graduates.
The Right Honorable Sir Robert Borden, when rising to address the graduates, assured the audience that he would only take a few minutes to say what was upon his mind. He assured the graduates that he was pleased to be present on such an occasion. The young men and women who received their diplomas were standing on the threshold of active life. He advised the students to continue to hold the Queen's spirit aloft.

In his words of advice, Sir Robert said that they would all meet the "lady of opportunity," and she would speak in many ways. He told them to get acquainted with the good friend "earnestness." In closing his remarks, the chancellor urged upon the members of the graduating class the necessity of taking an interest in public service. He said that our country will only be what our men and women make it. The chancellor told the students to have faith in their country and see that the ideal of civic duty is not found wanting.

Valedictory Address.
James Andrew Walker, on behalf of graduating class, spoke a few words of appreciation to the members of the staff for the interest which they had taken in the students. Mr. Walker stated that they had been striving years, as the students had seen the rugby team rise to the highest point of the rugby world and remain there. He referred to "Pep" Leadley, one of the graduates who should have been making the speech had he not been so bashful.

Mr. Walker referred to the fact that Queen's had been the leader in many advanced education, engineering, mining and medical schemes. He closed his address by assuring the members of the staff of their hearty appreciation for the manner in which they had tried to instruct those young men and women who were given their diplomas.

Hon. W. F. Nickle Speaks.
The dreary wall of "Nobody Knows How Dry We Are" from the back of the gallery set the hall laughing as Hon. W. F. Nickle, chairman of the board of trustees, rose to speak at the close of the ceremonies. But the attorney-general came back: "I am glad to see that my remarks at the last Arts' dinner were not wasted. I urged then that the student body take more interest in the public affairs of the country." Mr. Nickle was also honored during the afternoon with a special parody on "Christopher Columbus" and 4.4 beer.

Mr. Nickle spoke of the lasting influence that a professor could exert upon his students, illustrating with references to the outstanding men who taught at Queen's when the Kingston member attended. The speaker said he attended the opening of a new building at Western University, London, last year and had been much impressed with the splendid institution that was being built up there. He spoke too of Queen's development, from Principal Grant's daring but wise founding of the Faculty of Science back in the early nineties to the present enlargement of the medical school that was going to mean the expenditure of over a million dollars. He praised the fine spirit of co-operation which existed between the Queen's staff and the administration.

(A Barnyard Bit)
By Gertrude.
Ten little fresh eggs, all in a line;
One joined an omelet, then there were nine.

Nine little fresh eggs, wondering at Fate;
One got hard-boiled, then there were eight.

Eight little fresh eggs, trying hard to hatch;
One became a breakfast, six was then the batch.

Six little fresh eggs, hoping they would thrive;
One fell in an egg-nog, then there were five.

Five little fresh eggs, near the hen-house door;
One skidded from the nest, then there were four.

Four little fresh eggs, happy as could be;
One met a magpie, then there were three.

Three little fresh eggs, wondering what to do;
Cook made a custard, then there were two.

Two little fresh eggs, basking in the sun;
One bumped the other, then there was one.

One little fresh egg, feeling rather stale;
He blew up! There's the end to my tale!

The Bride's Father.
This is the man who got the hook,
The Bride's Pa-pah. Just take a look!

He seems like no great ac-ro-bat,
And yet be sure-ly must be that,
For all the lo-cal pa-pers sent
Re-ports to the great e-vent
Who told about the Bride's great charm
And how she came in on his arm.

To give him off a friend-ly slap,
And this ad-vice, "Buck up, old chap!"

The Best Man has no ner-vo-us cough,
For 'tis not he who's step-ping off!

TELLS DYSPEPTICS WHAT TO EAT

Avoid Indigestion, Sour Acid Stomach, Heartburn, Gas on Stomach, Etc.

Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble, say medical authorities, are due nine times out of ten to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach. Chronic "acid stomach" is exceedingly dangerous and sufferers should do either one of two things:
Either they can go on a limited and often disagreeable diet, avoiding foods that disagree with them, that irritate the stomach and lead to excess acid secretion or they can eat as they please in reason and make it a practice to counteract the effect of the harmful acid and prevent the formation of gas, sourness or premature fermentation by the use of a little Bisurated Magnesia at their meals.
There is probably no better, safer or more reliable stomach antacid than Bisurated Magnesia and it is widely used for this purpose. It has no direct action on the stomach and is not a digestant. But a teaspoonful of the powder or a couple of five grain tablets taken in a little water with the food will neutralize the excess acidity which may be present and prevent its further formation. This removes the whole cause of the trouble and the meal digests naturally and healthfully without need of peptic pills or artificial digestants.
Get a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any reliable drug-gist. Ask for either powder or tablets. It never comes as a liquid, milk or citrate and in the bisurated form is not a laxative. Try this plan and see what you want at your next meal and see if this isn't the best advice you ever had on "what to eat."
