INTERMEDIATE CLUB HELD FIRST LIMBER

Bleeman, Former Well-known Player, Bill Evans, Twigg and Oothers on Hand.

The Kingston intermediates held their first workout of the season at the Cricket Field on Monday night but owing to the fact that the team representatives, four in number. went to Gananoque to attend the meeting of the St. Lawrence League, there was not as large a turnout as there would otherwise have been. However, there were about ten men on hand for the first practice and among those out were 'Monk" Sleeman, former well known Victoria and C.L.C. catcher, who figured in the local City League when baseball at the Cricket Field was a much bigger attraction than it has been for the past three or four years. Sleeman was one of the best catchers in this part of the country when he was with the Victorias and C.L.C. teams and he has plenty of baseball left in his system yet and will be found with the intermediates, very likely at his old position behind the bat. "Lofty" Gourdier worked out at his old post at first with Billy Evans at second and Fannon at short. Twigg covered third while McCullough, Lawlon, Blomley and one or two others did outfield duty.

The weather was a little too cold for brisk baseball but the players lost no time in getting under way and they sent the ball around the diamond at a lively gait. The next practice for the squad will be held tomorrow night and any who are desirous of turning out with the candidates for positions are heartily invited to do so. It is expected that there will be a squad of at least twenty to choose from as soon as the good weather draws more men out and there should be some lively stepping for positions on the team.

By AL DEMAREE (Former Pitcher, N.Y. Giants)

Chief Meyersfi former Indian catcher and famous slugger with the Giants, was a keen student of human He claimed, from his own experience as a hitter, that the batter subconsciously associated tremendous speed, sharp breaking curves, and the like, with the pitcher's physique. In other words, he believed it was easier to hit a pitcher of slight stature than one of gigantic mould.

He applied his psychology to Fer- Mass. die Schupp, a young and slender lefthander at that time. He prevailed on Schupp to wear four pairs of stockings to give his legs the necessary heft, and also to wear extra large sliding pads in every game he pitched, to give an outward indication of weight.

How much of Schupp's later success on the mound was due to Meyer's tip is problematic, but in 1916, Ferdie sprang overnight from a mediocre pitcher into a star, and led the league with an unheard of earned run average of 0.90 runs per nine inning game, and in 1917, pitched the Giants to the championship.

Led From Start.

In 1923, the Giants set a dizzy clip. They took over the top posiion right off the reel. And held it until the end of the season. In other words, they were at the head of the field all the way, a rather unusual happening in major league

Last year the McGraw clan reached the top of the heap after the first 10 days of the season. And it was never headed. In the last few weeks Pittsburg and Brooklyn seriously threatened the Giant stronghold. But neither could quite make the grade. Those early season victories helped to pull the Gothamites through. This year the Giants have started out to repeat their conquests of other campaigns. Under the well-known McGraw drive the team has been playing top-notch ball. So much so, in fact, that it already begins to look as if another Giant parade is in

The team has been getting plenty of hitting and the work afield has also been of high class. It has likewise been receiving good pitching. Jack Scott, Bentley, McQuillan, especially, having turned in a good brand of burling.

Play to Dope. In a word, the Giauts are living up to predictions made about them before the opening of the season. At least they have thus far. And judging from present indications no letup appears likely. When McGraw led his club to its fourth straight flag last year, a new record in major league baseball was set. Now it begins to look as though the Glants will shatter their own mark by chalking up five victories in

FROM THE OUTSIDE LOOKING IN

Joe Daley and his gang have lost a lot of time due to bad weather conditions, but with the fine weather setting in, they should make up for lost time. The players will be given plenty of practice work in preparation for their first game against the Petes here on the 20th.

The softballers are schedulel to start out to-night at the Cricket Field in the opening tilts of the schedule, and a good crowd is expected to be on hand for the engagement. It looks like a merry old battle between the Frontenac Regiment and the Hillcrests, the players of both teams being experienced in the sport.

The Mercantile meets on Thursday night for the purpose of drawing up the schedule and attending to other business. The Mercantile people are losing no time and expect to make a start just as soon as possible.

Dan Howley wasn't needed on Saturday for the Leafs to win twice over Newark. That's the way a good ball club should be-able to play without the main guy looking at them.

Speaking of baseball fans, one of the most interested followers of the game in Kingston is an eminent specialist, who finds time, even in the big rushes of patients to his office, to take time off for a few baseball games. This doctor's car may often be seen on the road to a County League game during the season also. "Baseball is a good rest for me," he says.

start the Giants have made in the 1925 chase plus the brand of pastiming they are exhibiting, the Mc-Graw crowd once again looms as the outfit to beat in order to cop the gonfalon in the old circuit.

HERE'S A MARK FOR THE LOCAL LADY GOLF EXPERTS.

Here's a Real One.

One of the most unique triple plays in history cropped up in the Southern League some few years ago.

Birmingham was playing in Atlanta and had men on first and second. Henline, now with the Phillies, hit a ball through the field. The man on second crossed third and started for home. Half way there he changed his mind, turned and ran back, only to find that the man who had been on first was roosting there. Meanwhile the outfielder had fumbled the

All three Birmingham players were sprawled upon the ground. Thereupon the third baseman took the relayed throw, touched all three runners and made a triple play-perhaps the only one of its kind in baseball history.
