VERSES AND REVERSES.

The Spice of Life.

I think Mary Miller's a beautiful girl,
 But that isn't all—the kid's bright!
 She changes the taste of her lipstick each day—
 It's like kissing a new girl each night!
 —Charles S. Whiting.

Shut and Open.

A secret is kept pretty well,
 Though what is what you may be seeking,
 But there's no doubt that blood will tell
 And likenesses are often speaking.
 —Mrs. Ruth Hayes.

Suspicion.

Is it a sign, or is it not,
 And one that needs attending to,
 That, when a cashier buys a yacht,
 He means to be a skipper, too?
 —R. F. Johnson.

A Friend in Need.

I take my problems all to Joe;
 It is some contribution!
 But Joe's an expert chemist, so
 He knows the right solution!
 —Fred Cruse.

Between the Lines.

Florina: "Say, Temus, has yo' ebber had yo' palm read?"
 Temus: "Ah sho' has! 'Bout ten, 'leben times, ah has."
 Florina: "Golly Temus! Yo' sho' am a well read pubson."
 —Myron W. Johnson.

From Our Children's Garden of Curses.

Mother told her little three-year-old boy to show grandmother his tongue.
 "Yes," grandmother said after looking at his tongue, "your stomach is out of order."
 "Pshaw," he answered, "My stomach ain't no telephone."
 —Mrs. C. E.

Try This On Wife!

Rosen: "Dobbs sprang a new albino on his wife when she picked a blonde hair from his coat last night."
 Baker: "Denied it was a girl's, eh?"
 Rosen: "Not at all. He blamed it on his careless barber."
 —Edward H. Dreschnack.

THE MUSIC DEPARTMENT.

Cheap.

Marion: "The way he sang just won my heart."
 Violet: "Take my advice, dearie, and don't let yourself go for a song."
 —Francis P. Okie.

You Bet.

One song he liked to sing, he said—
 "Ye Banks and Braes o' Bonnie Doon—"
 But when an awful scold he wed,
 Egad, he sang another tune!
 —John H. Isaacs.

The Rift.

Though I knew music oft would stir
 The very heart and soul of her,
 She had no sense of harmony,
 For she played fast and loose with me.
 —Olive Bessie Cook.

Retaliation.

The Johnsons have a saxophone,
 The Smiths have bought a new trombone;
 A phonograph beguiles the Flynns,
 Revenge is sweet! We now have twins!
 —Paul Augrain.

Reimons.

Gerson: "If your wife has stopped going to concerts and spends her time at home listening in the radio set will soon pay for itself."
 Burton: "That's the way I figured, but I find she wants to buy the sheet music of everything she hears."
 —Rhea Block.

CULTIVATE LEISURE, ADVICE TO GRADUATES

Principal Taylor Tells McMaster Students Not to Work Too Hard.

At the annual commencement at McMaster University Tuesday night the convocation address was delivered by Principal Bruce Taylor, Queen's University. He urged the graduates to develop their individuality and not to overwork. "We don't live to work," he said. "No one is complete unless he has a fine, genuine strain of idleness in him. We don't want to work so hard as to shut off the wider possibilities of living. I think there is a tendency here to standardization all round. Men think you ought to belong to Rotary, or Kiwanis, or the Elks, or something like that and if a man stands off he is regarded as curious. To be yourself you need a certain amount of leisure."

More business tends to be a habit, perhaps without a purpose. That is not a virtue. It is a far greater virtue to sit still and do nothing. What is needed is method, to economize time.

He advised his hearers to work before breakfast, from six to eight and to get out of the "verandah habit of rocking, rocking, rocking, and interminable talking." He also urged them to read plenty of good literature and to have some hobby which would distract them on occasions from the ever-pressing cares of life.

HASTINGS LIBERALS PREPARE FOR BATTLE

The New South Riding Ready to Repeat Performance of West Hastings.

Belleville, May 21.—Liberals of the new Federal riding of South Hastings, made up of the southern parts of the present West and East Ridings of Hastings Tuesday effected organization at a meeting which was attended by over 300 people from all parts of the new constituency. Included among those attending were a large number of women. The meeting was enthusiastic, and Hon. Duncan Marshall, chairman, predicted another great Liberal victory in the new riding similar to the West Hastings turnaround.

The officers elected for the new riding were: President, W. A. Fraser, Trenton; first vice-president, Mrs. A. S. Collins, Belleville; second vice-president, T. J. Corrigan, Tyendinaga. Executive—Belleville, Mrs. E. J. Butler, Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Trenton, Mrs. St. Louis, M. Weaver, Frankford, Mrs. O'Malley, D. Ketcheson, Sidney, Mrs. George L. Ketcheson, Sam Nicholson, Stirling, Mrs. McGee, R. Meiklejohn, secretary, R. D. MacAulay, Belleville. Treasurer, Charles Richardson, Deseronto.

SAYS BOY CONFUSED DRIVER

Occupant of Motor Car Suffered Fracture of Two Ribs.

In connection with the accident which occurred near Sunbury on Sunday, it is stated by a lady who was in the car that struck the lad that the party in the car were motoring to Sunbury and were just approaching the village when the boy was sighted coming along the road on a bicycle. The car was on the grade and the engine was shut off and the car allowed to coast down the hill. The boy on the wheel crossed the road three times confusing the driver, with the result that in order to save striking the lad, he had to force the car to the side of the road and in doing so struck a telegraph pole. One of the ladies in the car was injured when the car struck the pole, she suffering a fracture of two ribs.

Uncle Sam Keeps Watch.

Brockville, May 21.—That the United States Border Patrol is keeping close watch upon the movement of motor boats in this section of the St. Lawrence is illustrated by the experience of a Brockville man, who was chased by a revenue boat as he was making for Oak Point on a pleasure jaunt. The officers accepted his explanation, but warned him that he should report at Morrisstown before attempting to land at any place upon the United States shore in the vicinity.

Miner Killed at Galetta.

Arnprior, May 21. William M. Bludney, a Russian employed as a miner by the Kingston Mining, Smelting and Manufacturing Company, Limited, at their lead mine near Galetta, died on Monday as the result of a fall through an empty slope.

Ypres' Condition Very Grave.

London, May 21.—The condition of the Earl of Ypres, former Field Marshal French, was described today as very grave. He underwent an operation March 19th, but appeared soon thereafter to be improving.

Mrs. Madeline Forbes and little daughter Phyllis, of New York have come to Gananoque to spend the summer, and have taken an apartment with Mrs. Theo Parmenter. Mrs. Forbes intends opening a beauty parlor here shortly.

Patriarch of the Greek Orthodox Church, expelled from Constantinople, offers to resign to facilitate agreement to preserve patriarchate there.

Navigation of the Yukon River will open about the first week in June, when parcel post service will be resumed.

LETTERS To The Editor

A Plea for the Birds.

Kingston, May 20.—(To the Editor): Have you space in your valuable paper for a letter of protest and pleading on behalf of the birds?

My attention was called to an item in a newspaper headed "Bags Big Eagle," which proceeds to clap one Patrick Kurk on the back as "a big game hunter" for bringing down with his beautiful gun a beautiful eagle, which was fishing on the shore near Crofton.

A few years ago as I was passing along West Clergy street at dusk, I heard a soft unusual call in the tree above my head. Looking up, I saw an exquisite little owl. I talked to it and it talked to me. Next evening a newspaper item told how a certain individual, whose name I am glad to have forgotten, "brought down with a well-aimed shot" a rare and beautiful specimen of the owl family on Clergy street west. As the little creature was not more than fifteen feet from the side-walk, it was certainly amazing marksmanship!

Now we hear of a citizen passing his hours of recreation in shooting blackbirds in the centre of the city. A gentleman informed me that a friend of his was an eye-witness of this horror. As a quivering little bunch of feathers fell struggling to the ground, the mate in the branches above sent forth cries of terror and anguish that might have moved a heart of stone.

This morning we hear that the same citizen augmented by two others, are engaged in the same nefarious sport. I submit, is it fair that the sensibilities of our best class of citizens—and by "best class" I mean not blue blood, nor accumulated wealth, but God's own aristocracy, they who pray best, because they love best "all things both great and small"—I repeat, is it fair that such should be subjected to this unnecessary heart-anguish, to accommodate the hideous instinct for destruction which seems to possess some individuals?

At any season, unnecessary slaughter is murder, but in the nesting season (and who shall say that that beautiful eagle had not a mate and nest, as well as his little brother, the blackbird?) is aggravated murder.

A class of twenty-five boys, ranging in age from nine to fifteen years, comes to my house weekly for instruction in singing. They are not nobby-pamby boys, I assure you, but full of pep and the joy of life—manly boys. I have been delighted to notice their general interest in bird and animal life of which we often talk together before and after the lesson. What is going to be the effect upon these boys and their associates, when they find "respected citizens" slaughtering unkindly these very creatures we love to talk about?

If people generally would only realize that our present life is educating us for the life beyond, where, ("saith the Lord") "they shall not hurt nor destroy," surely the word "sport" as expressive of wanton cruelty and destruction, would be expurgated from our dictionaries.

—ANNA B. H. DOBBS.

An Answer to Mr. Bell.

Hamilton, May 15.—(To the Editor): Re Mr. Ralph P. Bell's imaginary correction of my recent letter, may say that my figures were taken from the official Government Blue Book reports, which show the spread of expenditure in Canada for the manufacture and conversion of 1,400,000 cords of pulpwood into finished paper products in Canada would be $90,000,000 or over, so my figures are exactly correct, and well within the mark.

In fact we all get our figures from the same source, viz.: the official government reports, but if Mr. Bell tries to expunge the overhead, profits, etc., from them, and endeavors to manipulate the figures to suit his own purpose, then readers must conclude that it is Mr. Bell, and not Mr. Sealey, who is "glaringly inaccurate" and who displays either "a total lack of knowledge of the subject or the grossest sort of attempt at deliberate misrepresentation." Why not Mr. Bell come in and help us save that immense expenditure for Canada?

The dealers and middle men are the only ones in Canada to be affected, and they are pretty shrewd people, and can easily apply themselves to other profitable activity. Why not help organize the present United States purchasers of raw pulpwood into manufacturers and converters into finished paper products in Canada right now in preparation for the inevitable embargo that is sure to come?

The United States representatives on the Corlilian power development said to the Ottawa government the other day that they would invest in the development if they got the power to export.

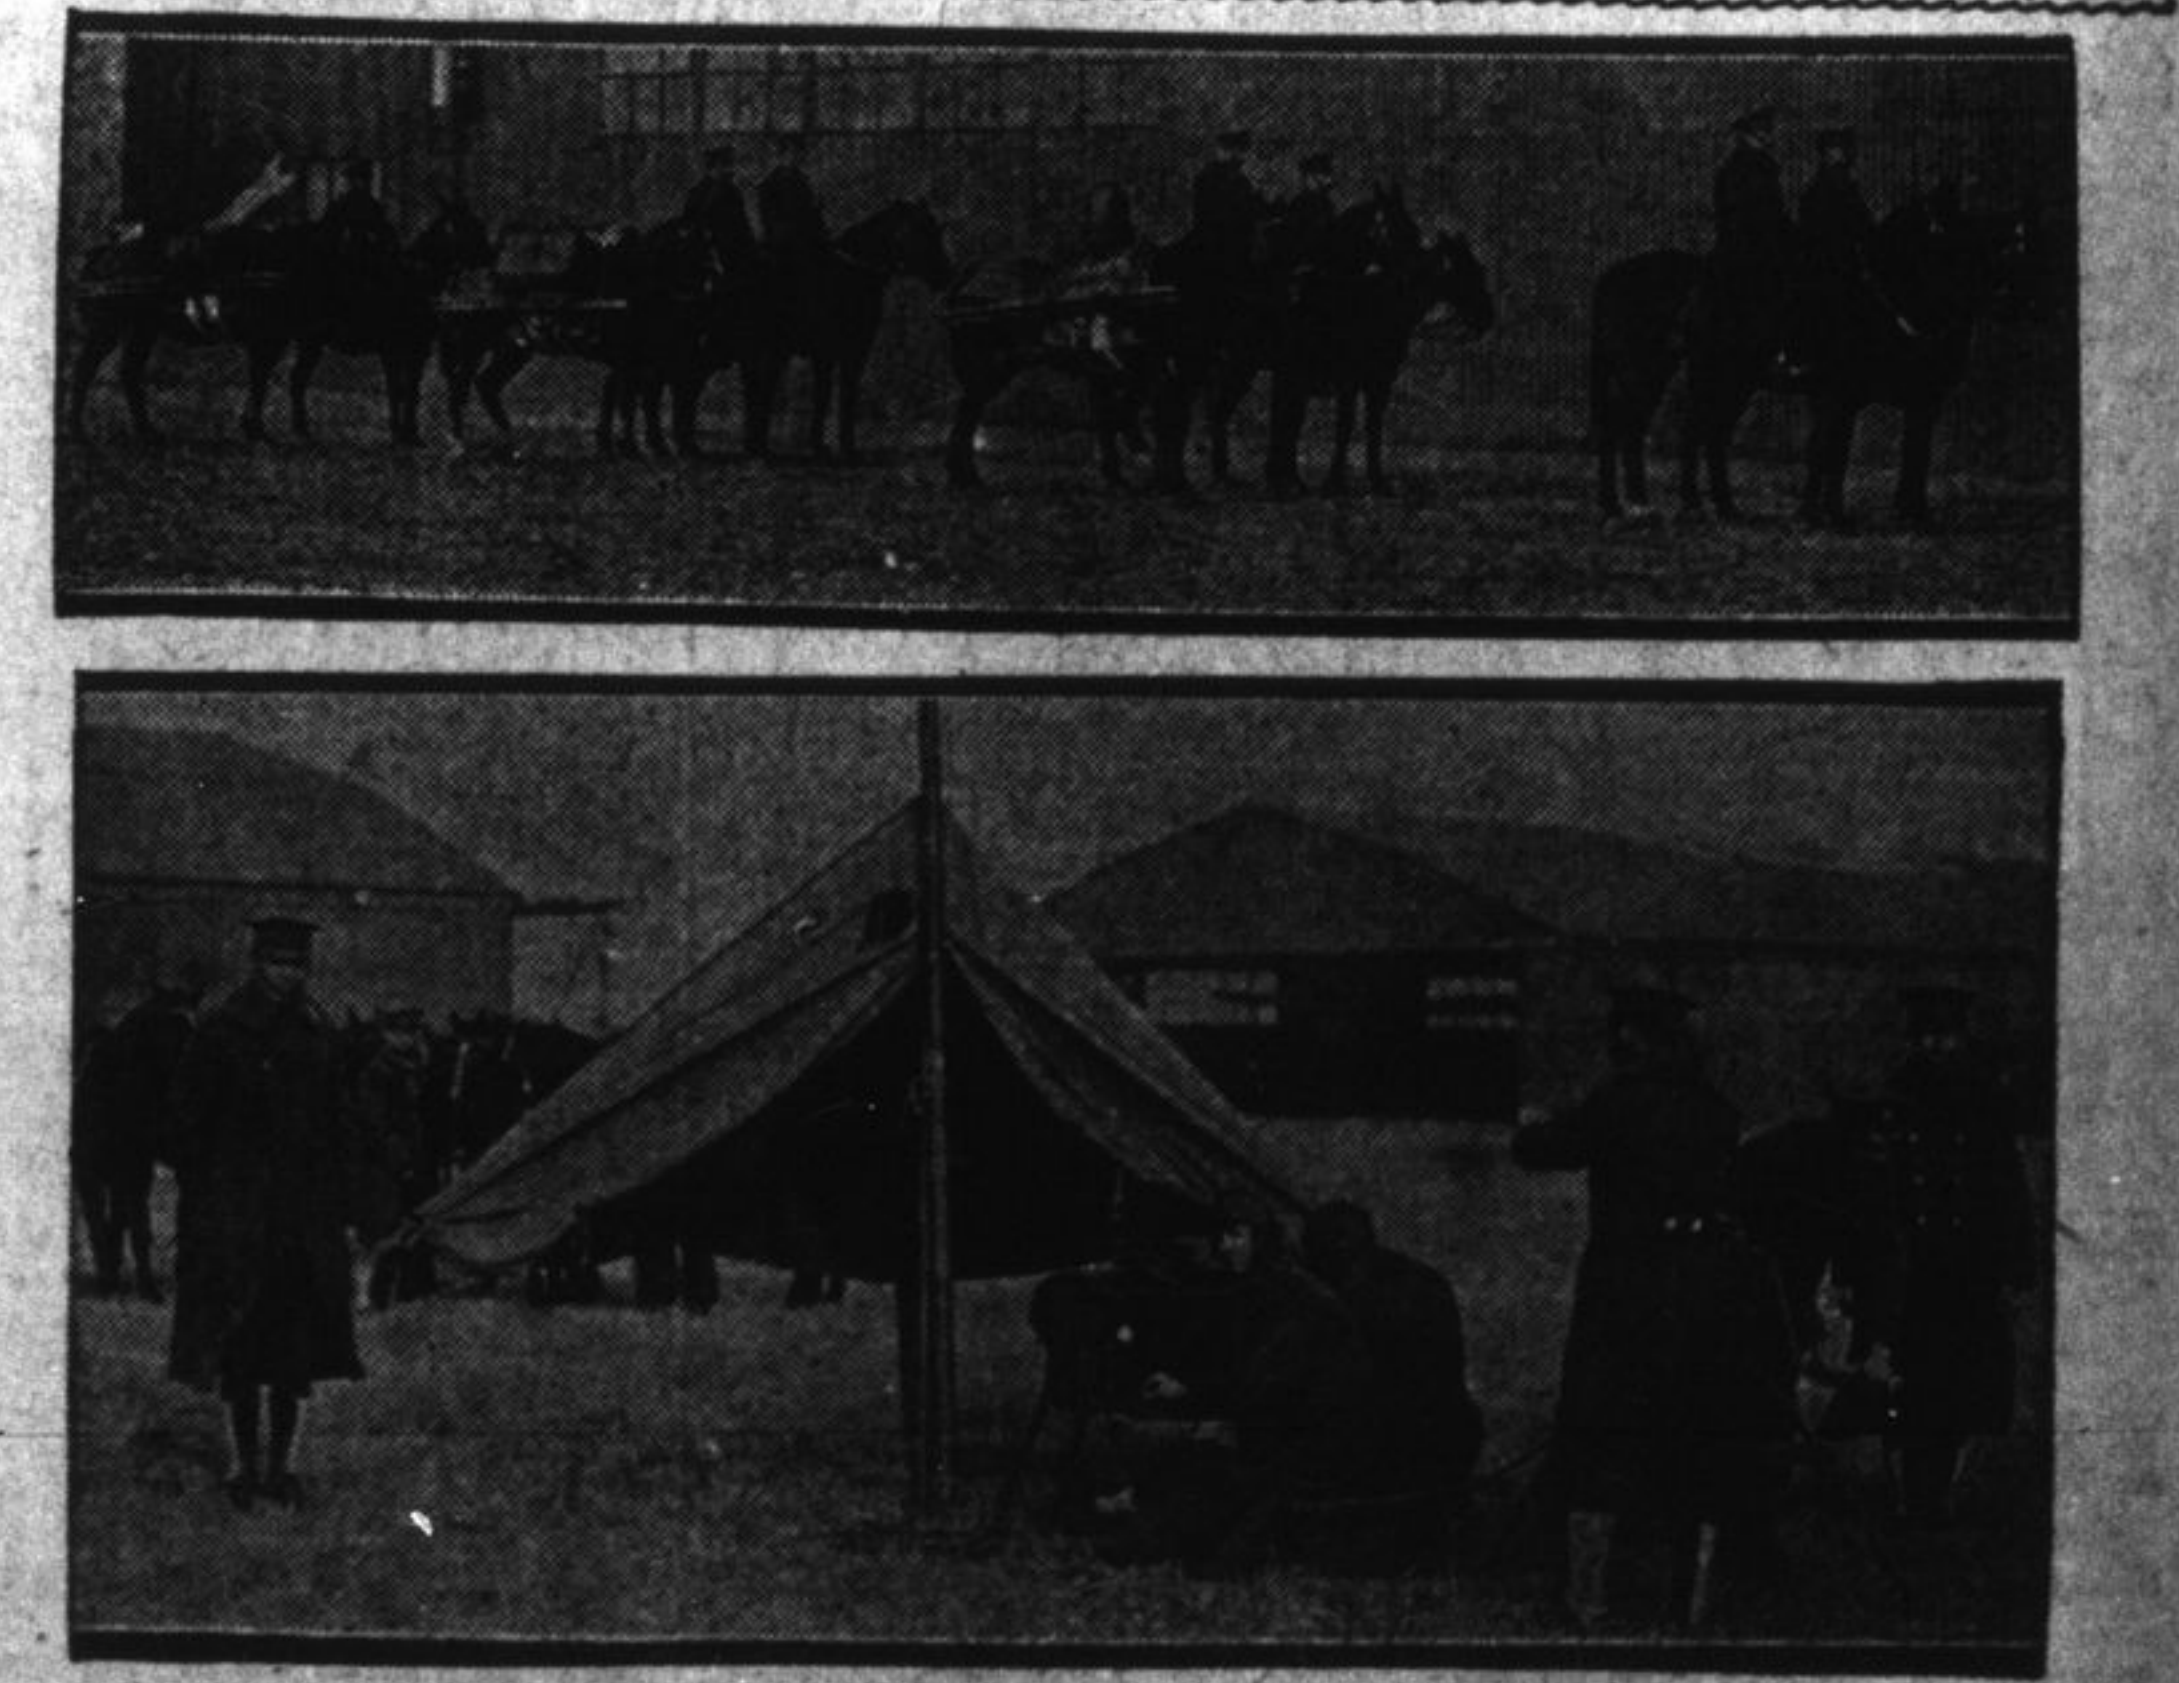

The Corlilian development would grind and further develop a very large part of our 1,400,000 cords now exported, so why not put the embargo on at once, for both power and pulpwood, and they will come and develop both here. They would probably expend $100,000,000 here in so doing, and start Canada booming as she ought to and will boom. This would largely help to remedy our unfavorable trade balance with the U.S.

Yours truly,
 —W. O. SEALEY.
