The Automobile Club Has Mapped Out a Drive Of Fifteen Miles Covering City For Tourists

One Hour and Five Minutes to Cover the Route, Which is to Be Published in Booklet Form.

The Kingston Automobile Club, with the view of showing our public buildings, parks and other points of interest to visitors, has mapped out and logged a drive covering about an hour's time (not including stops), and travelling a distance of fifteen miles. The suggestion has been advanced of having a sight-seeing bus at $1 a trip for the route. A tour specializing on the industrial activity of the city may also be drawn up. The course is to be published in booklet form for the convenience of visiting motorists.

The route is as follows: Beginning at the Market Square, first are seen the City Hall and the British Whig building. Passing along King street will be seen the Customs House and St. George's cathedral. Turning up Johnson street brings one past the Masonic Temple. Out Wellington and Lower Union streets brings the visitor past the Court House and the Frontenac jail. Turning north along Barris street shows the Dairy School and Chalmers church.

The Collegiate Institute is reached by turning up Earl street. By going out Albert street to turn to the left along Union street west, brings one past the Richardson Stadium and Victoria school. Going to the right along University avenue shows one Queen's University, Ban Righ hall, the bowling green, and the Harty Arena and on Stuart street the General Hospital. By going out King street the motorist is shown the militia headquarters, the penitentiary, the warden's residence, the prison farm, the village of Portsmouth, the Church of the Good Thief, Rockwood Hospital and the Golf Club.

By turning north along the forty-foot road the Mowat Hospital is reached. By coming to Union street west again and then the penitentiary road the prison farm is seen, and the new women's prison. Going south to King street again and into town there are passed the college power plant, Macdonald Park, the I.O.D.E. cross of sacrifice, the Murney Tower Museum, the Richardson bathing pavilion, the Yacht Club and the Macdonald monument.

A turn up Earl street and then north along Sydenham street brings one past Sydenham street union church, the Hotel Dieu, the First Baptist church, and near Cooke's Union Church. Turning up Brock street will show St. Mary's Cathedral, then north along Clergy street will bring into view St. Andrew's church and Queen street Union church. Going east down Queen street will display the Armouries, the artillery park, St. Paul's church, the first parliament house of Upper Canada and the city utilities plant. Going north along Ontario street will show the Tote de Font barracks, the La Salle causeway, the Memorial Arch and the entrance gate to the R.M.C. Currie Hall, the Fort Frederick museum and Fort Henry, from whose hill one of the finest views in Canada can be obtained.

The distance covered is fifteen miles and the time 65 minutes.

BELLEVILLE Y'S MEN'S CLUB PAYS A VISIT

To the Kingston "Y" Club and is Entertained on Wednesday Evening.

Ten of the members of the Y's Men's Club of Belleville were the guests of the local Club at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening. After supper an excellent musical programme was given by the music committee, of which Ernest Madrand is the convenor.

Numbers were contributed by Miss Jean Douglas, Miss Marion McFadyen, Donald Roughton, Keith McKinnon, Harry Underwood and Ernest Madrand. The community singing, which was led by Harry Underwood was exceptionally fine, and the visiting young men entered into the spirit of the evening. Charles E. Burbridge, Montreal, an excellent entertainer, who is visiting in the city for a few days, gave three or four exceptionally fine numbers. He had a song in which he included many of the names of the visiting Y's Men, and it made a decided hit. His piano numbers were well received.

R. C. Sidenius, general secretary of the Belleville "Y," and Steve Licence, the president of the Belleville Club, thanked the Kingston members for the excellent evening's entertainment, and extended an invitation to the Kingston Club to visit Belleville in the near future.

Capt. Ruston, a member of the board of directors of the Belleville "Y," spoke of the service which a club like the Y's Men's clubs of Kingston and Belleville could render to the under-privileged boy.

Milton Harlow, the general secretary, and "Hal" Elliott, the president of the local club, told how pleased the Kingston boys were to have their Belleville friends visit them. A vote of appreciation was extended to Mrs. A. Fair and the members of her committee, who prepared the supper.

Detroit police arrested a New York man and seized drugs valued at $74,000.

LOCAL MAN INVENTS DEVICE FOR BATTERIES

Which Will Do Away With Trouble Caused by Corrosion.

Persons interested in storage batteries will be pleased to hear that a non-corrosive terminal for their batteries has been perfected by Mr. Leo W. Cochrane of Kingston. Persons having to do with storage batteries having trouble at some time or other met with considerable annoyance due to a formation of a green substance, commonly known as corrosion, usually found around the positive post of their batteries. This corrosion in a short time completely destroys the terminal and the battery ceases to function. All sorts of remedies have been suggested to overcome this trouble but nothing to give satisfactory results has been found. By the application of this new device all danger of corrosion is completely done away with.

Mr. Cochrane has been in communication with some of the larger storage battery manufacturers and the latter claim that patented schemes have been developed to meet this trouble, but owing to their high cost and difficulty in attaching and detaching, they have never become a practical improvement. In connection with this new idea Mr. Cochrane says it is so simple that anyone can install one or take it off a battery in a few seconds. It is composed of such materials that absolutely no corrosion is possible as its parts contain nothing that is attacked by the storage battery electrolyte.

The simplicity with which it is installed or removed from a battery will be a great incentive for its adoption by persons who have anything to do with storage batteries. This device is being patented by Mr. Cochrane.
