PUZZLE PLAYS

The Play. There are two men out and runners on first and third. A double steal is staged. The throw to second beats the runner and he is touched with the ball by the man covering before he reaches the base.

The umpire calls him out. The runner from third has not reached the plate, when the man sliding into second is declared out. After the umpire has called the runner out, the fielder juggles the ball several times.

While the fielder is still juggling the ball, the runner from third crosses the plate. The runner slid into second with great force and Throughout the 15 rounds he rushed at McTigue like a wild bull. The champion used all his defensive tactics to stave off these rushes.

At times, flinging caution to the winds, McTigue traded punches with the hard-hitting Berlenbach and on one occasion had the so-called "Astoria Assassin" in bad shape.

McTigue, never a popular champion, passes into the discard. His going will increase interest in the light heavy class.

McTigue won the light heavy title by coercing Siki, the black Senegalese, to risk his title in Ireland on St. Patrick's day. That proved Mike's craft.

But the realization of his dream of managing the Cardinals probably knocks his other dream to smithereens.

As long as he was just a player, there was always a chance of his be-
