That in spite of the hurry and rush of some of the larger cities of the United States Canadian woman travellers say that the courtesy of the men is very noticeable. Such a thing as a man allowing a woman to stand in a street while he sits in a motor car is unknown in the cities of the New England states and the humblest man would stand aside and let a woman, be she young and attractive, or elderly and the reverse, proceed him into a car. They are careful not to come into a room where women are with their hats on, and in many little ways show that their mothers have taught them the fundamentals of good manners. A little incident which occurred near the gate of Rockwood hospital some months ago would be unlikely to have its counterpart amongst these kindly people. Three young men were waiting for a car and as it approached, three ladies came up, also intending to get on. Two of them were much older than the gay youths, but nevertheless these young men calmly got on the car and allowed the ladies to follow after they had waited some time, while the gallant youths were buying tickets. If the young men had turned their heads they would have seen the amused smile exchanged by their fellow passengers at their expense.

That some small boys have found what they consider to be an excellent use for the lid of the ammunition box of a German cannon. They have used it as a base for the baseball teams that play in Victoria Park. Just think how enraged the haughty Germans would be if they knew that Canadian children used even a part of their dread implements of war as a plaything.

That a motorist from California, who spent a night at the Kingston motor camp at Lake Ontario Park, said to a Kingstonian that it was one of the best he and his party had stopped at. Plenty of water and the splendid view of Lake Ontario, and the opportunity to go in for a swim after a long hot day's driving are among the attractions of this camp.

That the city Sunday schools are still having almost daily picnics at Brophy's Point. Generations of Kingstonians have yearly enjoyed these picnics and a monster one for grown-ups is suggested for Old Roy's Week.

That there are always strangers in our midst who are lonely. Some of them say so often and while you are sorry for them you dread asking them to your house lest they bore you and your friends with a recital of their real or fancied wrongs. But we can always hold out the hand of good fellowship to them if we Choosing a Clock. "What kind of clocks shall I choose for the different rooms in my new home?" asks a Bride Reader. It is wise to put considerable thought into this question, for clocks are not only expensive, but last a life-time, and it is at least one of the minor tragedies of life to choose one which eventually fails to please the eye.

There are two points to be considered in selecting a clock: the size of the room for which it is intended, and the general decoration and color scheme of that room. It would not be appropriate, for instance, to stand a Grandfather's clock in a very small room. Small clocks look best in small rooms.

If your room is furnished in mahogany, a mahogany clock will make a harmonious choice. Or, if your room is furnished with "period furniture" such as imitation Adam or Sheraton (straight, column-like lines), then a clock with formal lines is a good choice.

Wall clocks, like the antique Willard "Bango," or the wood-case clock with picture at top, are perhaps most effective in a room furnished completely with Colonial pieces. Although now-a-days the tendency is to combine the antique and modern styles of furnishings wherever an artistic effect can be achieved. I once heard an interior decorator say, "One just has to feel a room—one should know how to decorate it from instinct, just as one intuitively knows what clothes best suit oneself." So, if you would test the suitability of a certain sort of timepiece in some particular room, ask yourself this question: "Will it stand out from the rest of the room with unpleasant insistence? Will it signal 'the eye against the will?' Or will it be modestly harmonious with its surroundings?"

Bronze clocks are especially effective in rooms which have a strong note of brown in the color scheme. Small gilt clocks, silver clocks, or tiny marble clocks, are best adapted to use in the boudoir. On the other hand, the massive clock is out of place in the upper rooms of the house.

A clock is a possession which I do not believe in just going out and buying. It is a thing that one should fall in love with, more or less accidentally. I would rather use the nickel dollar clocks all over the house, for a while, than buy several handsome clocks impulsively—and then regret it!

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time; however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and state.

of the buying committee not much could be decided on till the next meeting. This will be held August 11th and the programme is to be furnished by the Bath Musical Club.

"TITLE" TO WED BOY

Much has been said about American girls who marry titles, but here is a "title" that is going to marry an American boy. She is the lovely Princess Bertha Cantacuzene, whose father, Prince Cantacuzene, is stationed at Washington, and she will marry Bruce Smith, Louisville, Ky., thus becoming Mrs. Smith. However, her mother was an American woman, Clarissa P. Curtis of Boston.

WEDDINGS.

Saylor-Redden. The marriage took place at Oshawa on July 5th at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Bell, 488 Simcoe street north, of their niece, Miss Jennie May Redden, only daughter of Mr. C. H. Redden and the late Mrs. Redden of Kingston, and Mr. James Wilfrid Saylor, "B" Com., eldest son of Mr. George Saylor and the late Mrs. Saylor, of Trenton. Rev. C. W. De Mille, B.A., B.D., performed the ceremony.

The house was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers, while a path of white decorations led to the bridal arch. The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a French creation of kitten's ear crepe, with veil of white tulle, studded with silver brilliants, and held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a corsage bouquet of opheelia roses, lilies-of-the-valley and maiden hair fern. Mrs. J. W. Milne, of Toronto, aunt of the bride, played the wedding march. Miss Laura G. Fraser, B.A., cousin of the bride, was bridesmaid, and was attired in a gown of Lanvin green georgette, with gold shoes and stockings. Little Gloria Rogers, Oshawa, and Madeleine Davy, Toronto, cousin of the bride, were flower girls. Masters Harry and John Davy, also cousins of the bride, acted as pages, wearing white suits. John was ring bearer, while Harry very gracefully carried the bride's train. Mr. George Slade, Toronto, was groomsmen. Mrs. Milne rendered a piano solo during the signing of the register.

Mr. and Mrs. Saylor left on a trip to Buffalo and other American points, and will take up their residence in Oshawa.

Among the guests at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Redden and Mrs. A. M. Fraser, of Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Davy, of Oshawa.
