WESTERN CONDITIONS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Premier Dunning Estimates Crop at Over 400,000,000 Bushels.

Western Canada is counting on 1926 for a bumper year. There is an intangible optimism in the air throughout the prairies and on the Pacific coast that is based largely on the splendid crop outlook but there are other indications of reviving business. A few of these noted by a Whig representative during a recent trip in the west was that an executive of one of the largest insurance companies in Canada reported that very little money was outstanding on insurance policies and that business was improving all the time. In every city there is a progressive building programme being carried out and new houses and commercial buildings are going up all the time. Many new sections are building up in Winnipeg and the same can be said for nearly all the western cities. The manager of a big departmental store in one western city said that sales showed an improvement of about 10 per cent. for the last two months of this year and that the other months held their own or were an improvement over last year. He attributes this partly to the fact that owing to the operation of the wheat pools the farmer gets his money in several payments and at different times in the year and so cannot spend it all at once. Also he believes that because of the bad crops during the past few years that the farmers and townspeople have learned thrift and have practised it and are now reaping some of the benefits. A dealer in ladies' clothes in Vancouver after a trip to Montreal and Toronto reported that he found his trade in Vancouver was brisker than trade in the two eastern cities. These facts all indicate that things are on the mend in the west and that commercially prospects are much brighter than they have been for a long time.

It is generally known throughout Canada that crop conditions are better than they have been in many years. The rains in June did a great deal of good and in most parts of the west there is enough moisture in the ground to last till near the end of July. The season is advanced in nearly all parts and at the end of June, wheat was headed out and standing 30 inches high in parts of Saskatchewan. All kinds of estimates of the crop are heard but Premier Dunning of Saskatchewan when asked his opinion in this connection smiled and said that the main fascination about farming was the glorious uncertainty of everything. After enumerating a number of the things that might happen to the crop before harvest he said that with the prospects at the end of June it would seem that no unforeseen calamity occurred the crop would be over 400,000,000 bushels of wheat. It is generally felt in the west that the price will not fall below $1.00 a bushel. According to crop experts the yield this year is expected to be fully 200,000,000 bushels above that of last year and at the same time the American crop is said to be below the average so that prices are expected to remain firm. The amount of grain carried over from last year is also less than average.

OBITUARY

Late Mrs. Taylor. The funeral of the late Mrs. Henry H. Taylor took place Monday morning, from her late residence, 381 Johnson street to Cataragui cemetery, in charge of the James Reid firm. The pall-bearers were W. Vince, H. Sharpe, W. Linton, P. Lemmon, S. Saunders and P. Payne. Rev. Canon FitzGerald officiated.

Mrs. John Brennan. The death of Mrs. John Brennan 23 John street, occurred at her home, Sunday evening. The late Mrs. Brennan was fifty-nine years of age, and had been a resident of Kingston for some time. She was a lady of very fine disposition and was highly regarded by all who knew her. The funeral will take place Tuesday afternoon from her late residence to Cataragui cemetery, in charge of John Cornelius, undertaker, with the Rev. Mr. W. E. Kidd officiating.

BEER STRENGTH TO GO UP.

And Hence a Deserted Brewery May Resume Business.

Now that manufacture and sale of light beer have been legalized in Ontario, with prospects that the alcoholic content will be increased in order to give the beverage more strength, plans are well under way says an Ogdensburg, N.Y., paper, to reopen the old McCarthy brewery located on the bank of the St. Lawrence a few miles above Prescott. This property was originally a flourishing institution but it has been closed for many years. It is a landmark on the river bank and for years has been a sight familiar to tourists who make the river tour. Years ago McCarthy's ale was famous in Canadian circles. The property some years ago passed into the hands of the firm of James Richardson Ltd., who disposed of it a few weeks ago.

Kenneth VanVliet, manager of the Warren Harding branch of the Peninsula State bank, Detroit, has returned to Detroit after a two weeks holiday with his parents at Cresay.

AT ST. GEORGE'S CATHEDRAL.

Rev. W. E. Kidd Pays Tribute To Late Mrs. Katharine Lyman. Before beginning his sermon in St. George's cathedral, on Sunday morning, Rev. W. E. Kidd paid the following tribute to the late Miss Katharine Lyman.

"I would like to say a word in tribute to one of our members who passed this week into the rest of the Paradise of God, Miss Katharine Lyman. With her passing our cathedral parish has lost one of its most active members. Until prevented by her illness, she was an active worker in the Church Woman's Aid, and in the Woman's Auxillary, especially as the hospital visitor and secretary for junior work in the diocesan Auxillary. In all these societies she gave liberally of her time and ability, and her works were blessed with success. Her faithful attendance at the services of the church, her faithful use of intercession for the spiritual life of the parish, made her a great strength to us all. Now that she has passed from the church militant, may she have peace and rest in the Paradise of God and may light perpetual shine upon her."

During the offertory, the organist played "Blest are the Departed" from "The Last Judgment" (Spor).

QUEEN'S ARCHIVES.

An Interesting Course of Lectures Are Put on in Ottawa.

An interesting course of lectures is being held at the Dominion Archives, Ottawa, by Dr. McArthur, the Douglas professor of Colonial and Canadian history of Queen's University, Kingston, the only chair in Canada, says the Toronto Mail and Empire. The first occupant of the Queen's chair of Colonial and Canadian history was Dr. W. L. Grant, now the principal of Upper Canada College, and he was succeeded in the chair by Prof. J. L. Morrison, now of Armstrong College, England. A number of Queen's students are in attendance, as well as a few from other universities who desire to take advantage of the opportunity. The present course was established in the summer of 1922 by Prof. Morrison, and this is the fourth session. It is now a part of the regular instruction provided by the department of history at Queen's. Dr. McArthur, who was at one time on the staff of the Dominion archives, and who accordingly is peculiarly fitted to handle this work, explained the method of operation with regard to his classes.

QUEEN'S STORY TOLD BY PRINCIPAL TAYLOR

At Enjoyable "Sing-Song" Held Sunday Evening in Convocation Hall.

Convocation Hall was crowded with students and visitors at Sunday evening's sing-song to hear Principal Taylor tell the story of Queen's. As evidenced by their hearty applause, the students enjoyed the address immensely.

Dr. Taylor ran over the unique history of the local university from the days when the Scottish element in Canada decided on training their ministers at home, rather than sending them on an eight years' trip to Scotland, down to the opening of Ban Righ Hall. As he went along, he illustrated with the portraits of the principals, chancellors and professors and the brass tablets that hung upon the walls around him.

The university's small start (ten students, a principal and one professor), the financial struggles of the early days, especially when the legislature withdrew its grant and the Commercial Bank failed, the fight under Grant against amalgamation with Toronto, the era of building under Gordon, which has been continued under the present administration with the doubling of the endowment, were interestingly gone into. "The tall that swings the dog," said the principal speaking of the General Hospital. The cost of medical education is getting so immense, that the day may come when it will be separated from the university, thought the speaker, and when the doctor, considered as a public servant, may be remunerated by the government. He spoke gratefully of the assistance given Queen's by the Ontario Legislature. She could not have existed without it.

Referring to great personalities in the university's history, he spoke of Dr. John Watson, as one of the great figures of Queen's, of Dr. Cappon, as a remarkable influence in the teaching of English, and a man of strong views, of Dupuis, the mathematical genius, and of Dr. Douglas, the very generous benefactor of Queen's, who carried the university's debts during the war years, when the cost of maintenance went on, but the registration dropped, as well as helping the hospital, the endowment fund and making a new library possible.

Concluding with the characteristics of Queen's, Dr. Taylor mentioned her daring policy. She was the first in all Canada to start a medical course for women, to initiate extramural work, co-education, and bankers' and accountancy courses. Her commerce course had been copied by both McGill and Toronto. Her liberty of thought was another trait. To challenge a Queen's professor for teaching evolution, was absolutely inconceivable. Queen's is a free university. The vital thing is the search for truth. He hoped that honesty of thought would continue to be true of her.

Queen's students of today were heirs to a worthy heritage and owed a debt to those who had gone before.

W. T. Miller presided. A students' orchestra, not only assisted in accompanying the singing, but contributed a very pleasing selection.

Next Sunday evening, the students will hold their third annual church service, taking over that at the First Baptist church. A request was made for volunteers for the choir.
