That Body of Yours

The Regular Thing.

One of our outstanding surgeons has been giving some wholesome advice to his brother practitioners. He points out that in accident cases where damage suits are likely to arise, or in regular practice where a physician may be sued for malpractice, a great deal of misgivings and self criticism will be saved the physician, if he has every case undergo and X-ray examination, where there is a possibility of a broken bone.

The attending physician may decide that the bone is not broken, treat it as a slight injury, with the result that the patient feeling that the bone is not broken, takes greater chances with it than his physician has advised. If trouble results therefrom, the physician may well be blamed for not making sure of his diagnosis by means of the X-ray. On the other hand if the physician is not known to the patient, and treats it as if it were a broken bone by using splints and so forth, the patient may later question the account and even the fact that the bone was really broken.

The physician therefore not only protects the patient by having the X-ray examination, but also protects his own name and reputation. Out in the country, many miles from an X-ray machine, some physicians feel reasonably sure of their diagnosis, and hesitate to put the patient to the nearest point where an X-ray examination can be made. Physicians are only human, and sometimes let the matter of the expense to the patient, sway their decision in a doubtful case.

It would be well, our surgeon friend reminds them, to think past this matter of expense to the patient, to the point of what the possibility of a mistake may mean to the whole after life of the patient.

This surgeon goes further and states that before long, judges in these damage or malpractice suits, would decide that it was an oversight on the part of the medical man if he did not have this test made. And not only should the X-ray be taken at time of accident, but in some cases it would be wise to have an examination made during the healing of the break to make sure that everything was all right.

As I've said before, the X-ray is a wonderful aid where it is needed, and it does seem a great mistake not to take advantage of it.

Large Conservative Rally.
Belleville, Aug. 27.—A big gathering of Conservatives of Northumberland, Prince Edward and Hastings counties took place yesterday at Presque Ile, twenty miles from here, and just south of Brighton. It was the annual picnic of M. E. Maybee, M.P. for Northumberland. The speech of the day was given by Senator Robertson, former minister of labor in the Meighen Government. Mayor Mikel, Belleville, and a number of prominent Conservatives were present. T. L. Church, M.P., Toronto; Hon. James Lyons, Major Belford, M.P.P., East Northumberland; Hon. J. R. Cooke and F. W. Bowen, M.P. for Durham, were to make addresses.

Couple Are Again Married After 41 Years' Separation

Peterboro, Aug. 27.—A unique wedding took place at Shiloh, in Northumberland county, when Mr. and Mrs. Fowler, aged respectively, seventy-nine and seventy-five were married.

Forty-one years ago Mr. Fowler left his wife and went to Ohio, where he obtained a divorce. He remarried and has one son. His wife died some years ago, and recently he returned to meet his former wife, who had remained unmarried and reared their only child. After a short time they were remarried.

Havelock School Teachers Deny Trouble With Board

Havelock, Aug. 27.—D. L. Fletcher, principal, and J. D. Brewster, assistant principal of Havelock Continuation School, refute the statements contained in a recent despatch respecting the local school situation, and say that "there never has been any trouble between the school board and the teachers, nor any question of the efficiency of the continuation school staff. Seventy-five per cent. of the pupils have been successful in the recent examinations, and every one is perfectly satisfied. The staff have all been re-engaged for next year."
