The Editor Hears

That the milk bottles containing the price of a quart of milk are being taken from the doorsteps by sneak thieves. Some housewives have made up their minds to lay in wait for the suspected ones and catch them in the act.

That out of the confusion at the big Montreal fire came the hoarse voice of a parrot who was being carried to a place of safety calling, "Fire, fire, fire." Polly knew what was the matter and tried to help the situation.

That Clarence Park is found very attractive by the tourists and many visitors remark on the beauty of this square in the business section of the city where the scarlet cannas are blooming and say the shaven lawns and shade trees thrown into relief by the grey walls of the old stone buildings made a pleasant picture to take away with them.

That emancipation of the Turkish women has been made complete with the abolition of police power of censorship over dress. Hereafter women will be able to wear what clothes they like, abbreviated or transparent. Most Turkish women heretofore have retained a sort of Moslem outline in their dress. This is expected to be abandoned in favor of the more primitive outline disclosed by Occidental women. The new freedom, too, is likely to see the beginning of shingling.

That Lady Townshend, the widow of Sir Charles Townshend, the hero of Kut-el-Amara, has opened an hotel for working people in England which is the first of a chain of similar hotels she expects to run which will give good food and plain comfortable rooms at a moderate price. After all that is what the majority of people are looking for, and the man or woman who can give the public what it wants at a reasonable price is assured of success.

RIVER TRIP GIVEN PATIENTS OF MOWAT

Through the Courtesy of J. M. Campbell—An Enjoyable Time Spent.

On Thursday afternoon the patients and staff of Mowat Sanatorium were the guests of Mr. J. M. Campbell, who provided the steamer Brockville to take them to Georgina Island, one of the most beautiful of the Thousand Islands, which has been turned into a national park. Nearly two hundred people, including members of the Red Cross committee and some soldier patients from the Hotel Dieu, were at the wharf at one o'clock and Mr. Campbell was on hand himself to see his guests made a good start. Several members of the Kiwanis Club drove the Mowat patients to the boat, and when, through a misunderstanding, some of them missed it, they were motored to Gananoque and from there crossed to the island in a motor launch. The fresh wind whitened the blue water with flecks of foam, but the sun was warm and bright and the boat passed down the Canadian channel, through the Admiralty group of islands near Gananoque and on past Fiddler's Elbow, one of the most lovely spots on the river. An orchestra, provided from the canteen funds of Mowat hospital, was on board and played a delightful programme. Old airs that everyone knew and loved were played and sung by the merry party. The families of many of the soldier patients of Mowat Hospital were invited to this delightful outing and their presence added much to the enjoyment of the men.

The island was reached after a sail of three hours and here everyone disembarked to climb the hill to the pavilion where shortly tea was served. The staff of the Mowat, the ladies of the Red Cross and many private parties had provided sand-
