THE GREAT BLACKSTONE
 Appears at The Grand Theatre On Saturday.

A hundred new and mystifying feats of illusion, representing the highest achievement in the magician's art, are part of the long programme of rapid fire entertainment and bewildering amusement that is offered by Blackstone, the world's foremost magician, who is booked to open a one night's engagement at the Grand Theatre Saturday evening, Sept. 5th.

able triumph in artistic presentation and beautiful design, comprising tons of magic paraphernalia and a carload of special scenery, in addition to a company of twenty artists and assistants. Some of the illusions and miracles that have helped to make him the world's greatest living entertainer, will be repeated in his present programme as well as several entirely new and novel effects.

Chick Mundell At Present Quarter With the M.A.A.A.
 The Montreal Gazette says that the M.A.A.A. rugby squad got down to a hard drilling on Tuesday, and that Chick Mundell was out playing at quarter. The Gazette says: "The chances of the local entry in the Interprovincial took on a decidedly brighter hue last night when Chick Mundell, Pete Mill, Clarrie Booth and Pean Bennett were all in uniform. Nick used Mundell at quarter, and it is the general impression around the association that the former Queen's player will hold down this position during the season. With the absence of Eddie Crane, who was married in Toronto this week, the local club lost the only reliable and experienced candidate that it had in view for the position. Mundell, however, seems to be the man for the pivot position. He played on the Queen's team when they were Dominion champions in 1922 and 1923, and last year coached the Canadian National team, provincial intermediate champions. His experience should just about "make" the M.A.A.A. back line."

 "Paths to Paradise," A Clever Crooks Picture.
 One of the finest programmes that has been arranged by the management of the Capitol Theatre is for the last time to-day.

The Paths News, the comedies, the Paemakers, the feature and the musical programme, specially arranged for the audience in a whirl of delightful entertainment. The feature picture, "Paths to Paradise" starring Betty Compson and Raymond Griffith is one that should not be missed by lovers of the screen story for it is one of the most thrilling and breath-taking pictures that has been shown at the Capitol in many weeks.

The Paemakers are something different this time to the usual run of Paemaker stories and should not be missed.

Miss Helen Corrigan greatly pleased in her singing of two well-known numbers, for which she is accorded loud applause. The Capitol orchestra under the direction of Paddy Burke, appears for the first time this season.

Strong for Queen's
 The Toronto Star says: "If Pep Leadley and Chick Mundell return to Queen's, as is reported, the dominion champions will be even stronger than they were last year when they swept everything before them. They have two coming back-field stars in Chantler and Voss, as well as Harry Battone, one of the brainiest players in game. What other club in Canada has a back division like that?"

 Comedy, action and romance are ingeniously combined in "Old Home Week," the new Paramount production starring Thomas Meighan, which will be shown at the Strand for the last time today. "Old Home Week" is something more than merely a vehicle for the exploitation of Mr. Meighan's magnetic personality and undeniable histrionic ability. It is a graphic representation of the small town in all its glory.

POST-GRADUATE COURSE.
An Attractive Feature for Queen's Rugby Players.
 Here is what the Ottawa Journal has to say about it: "Good old Queen's have tossed a jolt into Toronto. They announce that Mundell and Leadley will be back for post-graduate courses, and that 'Liz' Walker will also return to those dear old college walls once again. Varsity long had Charlie Gage and Mull Ritchie as contenders for the long distance scholastic championship, but now they have been outdone. With the thoroughness that characterizes everything that Queen's does, they are making the post-graduate course an attractive specialty. Who knows but that a chair of rugby may be established, and a fellowship thereto be awarded for frequent and successful endeavor on the gridiron? The college spirit is after all a dear and precious thing. Students bearded like pards hate to withdraw from the hallowed associations with headgear and oval. Apparently with Queen's football players that old phrase of Gladston's is paraphrased: "If graduation must come first, let post-graduation come last."

THE MUNICIPALITIES WANT SOME OF TAXES
Placed on Motors and Gasoline to Assist in Maintenance of Highways.

Toronto, Sept. 2.—In welcoming the delegates representing most of Ontario's cities and towns to the 27th annual convention of the Ontario Municipalities Association today, Mayor Foster of Toronto urged the meeting to consider proposals to the Government in connection with revenues being taken at present from municipalities.

The three cents per gallon tax on gasoline was stressed particularly by Mr. Foster, who said: "I think we should give an expression of opinion on the matter and give the Government something to think about." Mayor Foster also referred to the tax on soft drinks.

The Association carried a resolution moved by Harry James, Fort William, and W. L. Wilkinson, Niagara Falls, appealing to the Ontario Legislature for legislation whereby municipalities would participate in the apportionment of motor and gasoline taxes to assist in the maintenance of highway.

SO FAR UNSUCCESSFUL
In Locating Five Men in Disabled Seaplane.
 Honolulu, Sept. 2.—Search for five men in the disabled seaplane who left San Francisco on Monday morning to fly to Honolulu and were forced to drop to the water yesterday, when the gasoline gave out, has so far been unsuccessful. The last wireless message from the plane, announcing the exhaustion of fuel supply, indicated they were then only 300 miles from the destination. U. S. naval ships are searching the waters given as the seaplane's position.

Globe President Had No Desire to Remain Neutral

Toronto, Sept. 2.—In reply to a letter by John Lewis, the president of the Toronto Globe declares that Mr. Lewis, as acting editor, was not asked to maintain a position of neutrality during a general election. Nothing in the conversation between Mr. Lewis and the president, the letter states, indicated a desire on his part that the Globe should remain neutral during a general election.

Fatally Injured.
