Tests for Finals Held by Ontario Athletic Commission Here for This District.

The Eastern Ontario sectional school meet, under the auspices of the Ontario Athletic Commission was held at the Richardson Stadium Saturday afternoon before a very large crowd. The meet was successful in every way, much credit being due to T. A. McGinnis, whose work and interest in the boy athletes was repaid by seeing the youngsters do so well in all the events.

There were twenty track events and seventeen field events and the competition and sportsmanship shown by the boys was very fine. Several times fine examples of gameness were given, the work of Gordon Leggett of Brockville being worthy of special mention. He was competing in the running high jump and on his second jump, injured his right ankle, which was seriously injured some time ago. Despite this great handicap, Leggett pluckily stayed in the event till there was but one other jumper but him left. He was suffering great pain from his injury and again gave it a bad wrench. His athletic director realized that th boy's ankle was giving him great pain and ordered him to stop. While being helped into the dressing room, Leggett fainted from the pain. Belleville lad who won the event was heard to say "It was a great deal of luck and the other fellow deserved the win, as he was the better jumper." Sportsmanship is a great thing athletics and there be no finer example of it than was shown at the meet Saturday after Belleville and Trenton high schools stood out prominently at the meet. Belleville won first place in ten events and a number of seconds while Trenton took first honors in four relay races and other events. The work of Harold Buck for K.C.I. was very good. Buck showed fine form in the races and should prove to be a runner of coming fame. Each only daughter, Helen Abbott, special prizes were won as follows: Silver cup donated by Mr. H. In asking support for Mr. Reed. Mr. Clark said he considered protection a hindrance and that it was to the interest of the farmers to support those who had pledged themselves to a lowering of the tariff.

Mr. Thurston's Address. Mr. Thurston set out to prove that party politics was hindering Canada's progress. - Canada's national debt had been increasing ever since Confederation, and of things went on the same much longer she would be sold under the hammer. Canadians individually were successful. They came of the best stock, they could take jobs away from workmen of other nationalities if they desired, they had been successful in the late war. Yet collectively Canadians were a failure. The speaker had studied Hansard for years back and he declared that the old parliamentarians had neglected Canada for the interests of party. He himself! was out as a Canadian citizen and he believed party interests should be altogether forgotten at the polls.

Mr. Thurston denied the charge that the Progressives are camouflaged Liberals. The votes in the House showed that, of the 49 votes taken in the last three years, the Liberals and Progressives had voted together 16 times, the Liberals and Conservatives 15 times, with 18 mixed votes. Nor did the Progressives dodge vot-

Next the 'speaker took up the tariff. Under a tariff policy Canada must buy goods from foreign coun-tries to raise a revenue. The money would have to be sent to foreign markets rather than to the manufacturer at home, where it would help employment. Illustrating with boots and shoes, Mr. Thurston said that in 1923 $315,000 was collected in customs on foreign shoes, while, at the rate of two pairs of shoes per person, over 17 million dollars was paid to local shoe manufacturers, whose pay-sheet totalled 16 millions. Protection, he claimed, was an appeal to the selfish interests of humanity. Intermediate Collegiate running High protectionists refused to debate the tariff on the platform. He also claimed that the stock of certain steel firms was four times as high as in 1921, so that the present tariff did not hurt this industry.

It would lower the cause, as soon as the American firms as little at they liked, and pulpwood was the bread and butter for some people in rocky districts. In time the American plants would come north and American money with them, but the profits would go out of the country. Mr. Thurston believed it in the interests of every Frontenac pulp owner to fight the
