550 IRISH PEOPLE ARRIVE IN CANADA

To Join Husbands and Fathers—Conditions Here Good, Says W. J. Galbraith.

Conditions in Canada are in a prosperous state, judging from the statement made by Mr. W. J. Galbraith who arrived in Kingston from Belfast, Ireland, on Wednesday. Mr. Galbraith came over on the steamship Doric, and on that boat he said there were in the neighborhood of 550 people of the working class coming from Ireland to Canada. Quite a number were women and children on their way to Canada to join the husbands and fathers who had gone ahead, and who had found conditions favorable enough to allow them founding a home and sending back money to bring out their families.

Mr. Galbraith visited in Canada five years ago and on this trip finds himself more and more impressed. The beauty of the Canadian autumn is something, the like of which, Mr. Galbraith has never before experienced. Another feature of this country which the visitor remarked was the gigantic size of the railway engines. The trip from Montreal to Kingston was made over the C. N. R. behind one of the new type engines which were recently built at the Kingston Locomotive Works and Mr. Galbraith has nothing but praise for the Canadian railroads.

When questioned regarding conditions in Ireland, Mr. Galbraith replied that conditions there were very peaceful at the present time. The main topic under discussion was the report of the boundary commission which was expected to be announced very soon. Free State ministers seemed to be fairly certain that territory now in northern Ireland would be transferred to their government, while many Unionists in Ulster were disposed to believe that the town of Newry might pass to the Free State but that part of Donegal would be added to Ulster territory.

The Free State had placed a tax of 33 1-3 per cent against certain imports from Northern Ireland, England and other countries, he said, but the Free State Government had met with deficits, while in Northern Ireland, without a tariff, the Government declared a surplus.

Mr. Galbraith mentioned a number of the social and educational reforms that have been enacted in Northern Ireland under Sir James Craig's Government and he feels that conditions are steadily improving. A bill has been passed restricting the hours for the sale of liquors on week days and the closing of the public houses in Belfast on Sundays which the traveller from Ireland says are having good effects in the lessening of the number of police court cases. There is a strong sentiment against any further restrictions to the liquor trade, however, as it interferes with the revenue derived by the government.

Unemployment is prevalent in Ireland, and the shipbuilding and linen industries are not in as prosperous condition as they have been at former periods. At the same time however an optimistic spirit prevails, and Mr. Galbraith said that in some trades the people were more prosperous than at any other time in the nation's history.

FUNERAL OF PROMINENT CHESLEY PHYSICIAN

Late Dr. J. J. E. Downing Borne to C.N.R. Train—Burial in Kingston.

Owen Sound Sun-Times. The body of the late Dr. J. J. E. Downing, for twenty years physician in Chesley, was borne to its last resting place Friday, after a short but impressive service, conducted by the Rev. Roy Geiger and Rev. William Smith at the municipal blocks of buildings. The house was thronged with sympathizers, and the street lined with cars. Many, unable to gain admittance, waited outside until the casket appeared, borne by eight pall-bearers, almost all professional men. They included doctors, lawyers, bankers, and merchants. All the ministers of the leading churches were present. Forest Lodge No. 393 A. F. and A. M. formed a guard of honor for their late comrade, and walked in procession to the C. N. R. station, where the casket was entrained for Kingston, the native home of the doctor. Dr. Downing, who was a graduate of Queen's University, and a physician of noted skill, died quite suddenly on Wednesday, Sept. 30th, from heart failure. His sister, Mrs. Stewart, widow of the late Dr. Stewart, kept house for him for some years.

THE ABRAMSKY, LIMITED REBUILDING SALE

Is to Open on Friday—A Business That Has Grown Greatly.

Starting on Friday, Joseph Abramsky & Sons Ltd. will open a gigantic "fifteen days" rebuilding sale which promises to smash their prices in furniture to atoms. Owing to the fact that their business has grown to such an extent within a comparatively short space of time, it has been found necessary to make room for the continuing growing business, and an addition of 5,000 feet will be made to the store space. A large two-storey addition will be made to the already fine store and when completed will be one of the finest of its kind in this section of the country.

In order that the building may be proceeded with, it will be necessary to dispose of a portion of the furniture overcrowding at the present time, and the firm has decided to conduct a fifteen days' rebuilding sale. Unheard of values will be offered to those who visit the Abramsky store during this period and entire satisfaction is assured those who seek genuine bargains in high-grade furniture.
