W. M. S. LOSSES. The Presbyterian W. M. S. has suffered two severe losses during the past month. The wonderfully enthusiastic and inspiring corresponding secretary Mrs. Fred Ross has passed on—carrying off her work in bed after fracturing her hip. She was suddenly and unexpectedly called home. Mrs. H. R. Horne, 1st vice-president is moving to Moose Jaw, where her husband has accepted a call. Her wise counsel and never failing tact and courtesy will be sorely missed. The members are confident that others will come forward to take their places, but those who have worked with these two outstanding women, feel that their loss is irreparable.

The mark of a good party man is a ditto mark.

That Toronto's Winter Fair and Horse Show is the event of the week for the Toronto society and many beautiful gowns will be seen on the ladies who will go to see the very beautiful horses.

That as the result of the efforts of a woman botanist who died a few months ago the Natural History Botanical Department of the British Museum has gained many very valuable specimens from all parts of the world, this benefactor to natural science being Miss Lillian Suzette Gibbs, who during her adventurous lifetime made journeys to the unexplored parts of Fiji, Borneo, New Guinea and Australia in search of new plant life.

Major Stetham was born in Kingston, Ont., and trained at the Royal Military College. He entered the militia in 1903, and the permanent force in 1910. He served in France with the Royal Canadian Dragoons and also with the Machine Gun Corps. He was stationed at St. John's, Que., for a time before coming to Stanley Barracks. The Editor Hears

That at a meeting of the Ottawa Women's Canadian Club held on Friday, Mrs. Charles Thorburn, who will be a visitor in Kingston this week, congratulated Her Excellency, the Lady Byng of Vimy, on being given the honorary degree of LL.D. by Queen's University on Thanksgiving Day.

That the boys and girls who are on the look out for winter birds may have the good luck to see a horned lark. There is a good touch of yellow on this bird and his cousin, the prairie horned lark, who has yellow at his throat. They will be sure to see the slate grey nuthatch who has two black bars at his eyes a white breast, short legs and a long bill. He creeps along the trunks and branches of the trees and later on when his food is frozen he will be glad of some sunflower seeds and if his friends take the trouble to tie a piece of suet to a tree they will earn his gratitude. The downy woodpecker will share his breakfast from the suet that will not freeze.

That Mrs. H. P. Plumtre, who was for several years on the staff of Somerville College, Oxford, where she had previously graduated, taking final honors in modern history, political science and political economy will be a candidate for the Board of Education next January. Her voluntary services include the presidency of the Ontario Red Cross Division of the Toronto League of Women Voters and directorship on the Educational Board of the Social Hygiene Council of Canada. In accordance with the wishes of the delegation, Mrs. Plumtre said: "I don't pretend to think that it is easy work or pleasant work to take an elective position, or submit one's self for election in a public way. Social service was part of the fabric of modern life, and it seemed to her that men and women serving on civic committees and boards were themselves engaged in the very highest type of social service work. To undertake such public responsibilities was not to go outside the work of the church, but rather fulfilling its teaching. Mrs. Plumtre is the wife of Canon Plumtre, rector of St. James' cathedral, Toronto.

If man of his own volition practices virtue, then virtue is as natural to man as wickedness. Everything that is kind and grins at the locksmith isn't love.
