Good Milk
the Best of All Foods

THE best of all foods for a baby is the milk of its healthy mother. It must continue to have milk for the next ten or twelve years but, after weaning, this is the milk of the dairy cow, which is the best of all foods for growing children.

"The next ten or twelve years" we said. But milk is really the most valuable food all through long life, and the number of adults who drink it daily is increasing.

To collect the milk from hundreds or even thousands of dairy cows and place it—rich, fresh, clean, sweet, safe—on your doorstep, is the work of a modern milk plant such as ours.

Beginning at the selected farms from which our supply is obtained, constant care protects the milk while it is drawn into sterilized pails, then cooled in sterilized cans and swiftly transported to our plant, first to be tested then pasteurized, bottled and capped by machinery. It is then refrigerated and delivered to you fresh and cold.

All large cities and most of the smaller ones require milk to be pasteurized. Pasteurization is emphatically endorsed by every prominent authority on nutrition, by the American Public Health Association, and by public health officials.

No amount of money could buy better milk than ours for your family.
