What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

AT THE GRAND THEATRE LAST TIME TODAY.

Bebe Daniels' newest Paramount starring production at the Grand this week, "Lovers in Quarantine," is an unusual picture—unusual because it is one of the few screen versions of famous Broadway stage successes to come up to the legitimate play for entertainment. And "Lovers in Quarantine," adapted by Townsend Martin and Luther Reed from F. Tenyson, Jesse's New York hit, "Quarantine," goes even further than that—it surpasses the stage play for fast-moving action, thrills and laughs.

Alfred Lunt, as Mack Josephs; Edna Gray, in the role of Pamela, Bebe's fickle and interfering sister; Edna May Oliver, cast as the girls' spinster chaperone; Diana Kane, Ivan Simpson and Marie Shotwell complete the cast of the production.

JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

STORY AT CAPITOL THEATRE.

Accredited as the most thrilling story of a conflict and love in the picturesque lumber country ever brought to the screen, "The Ancient Highway," which opens at the Capitol Theatre on Monday, seems destined to appear to popular fancy in an extraordinary way, for many reasons.

In the first place, it is a photograph of what many consider one of the best of the James Oliver Curwood stories. Its stellar cast features Jack Holt, Billie Dove, and Montagu Love.

The play gets its title from the fact that nearly all of its stirring romance and adventure takes place on a famous stream running through the quaint regions of Quebec known as "The Ancient Highway." It was filmed in a rugged locale, entailing the most severe hardships on the players and staff.

The central figure in the story is Jack Holt, who returns to Quebec, after soldiering and adventuring for years. He returns to pay an old score with Montagu Love, who had ruined Holt's father and caused his death, and who later paid assassins in China to kill Holt. In the years that have intervened, Love has become a profiteer millionaire and the

JUNIOR PLAYERS ARE URGED TO TURN OUT

Practices for the Junior O.H.A. Candidates Start Monday in Earnest.

All hockey players who are eligible for the Kingston Junior O.H.A. team are advised that hockey practices will be held for them every day next week, except Friday, from five until six o'clock, starting on Monday. Junior hockey players, especially those who are listed in the junior City Hockey League, are asked and urged to turn out for practice.

There has been some wonderful material uncovered in the junior City Hockey League this season and if those who are playing junior City League turned out a very strong junior O.H.A. team could be formed to represent Kingston. There is only one trouble about getting the players out. Many of them are too modest about their own playing and do not think that they could catch a place. These players are urged to Thirty thousand girls at least are captive," states Rev. S. S. W. Gently-Cackett, secretary of the Bible Lands Missions Society, who has returned to London from Syria. He added: "Girls are branded on the face to stamp them as fugitives who must be returned to their owners if they escape."

Girls about fourteen years old are taken into Turkish harems, and younger girls are farmed out to Arabs and Kurds to be kept until they reach that age, when they are sold to Turks, he said.
