The Editor Hears

That Mr. Fred Berry has sung in the Protestant Episcopal Church of the Ascension, at Stillwater, Minn., for fifty years and says the more people go to church to-day than they did when he was a choir boy. It is good to hear from someone who isn't a pessimist about the hold religion has on the men and women of to-day and who can speak from experience. Mr. Berry is evidently not one of those who drearily tell us the world is getting worse. Do those people who are always mourning about the terrible place the poor old world is do anything to make it better?

That Miss Emily Warren, the English artist, whose visit to Kingston will not soon be forgotten, was one of those to have the honor of having her pictures in miniature, in the Queen's Dolls' House.

That the vogue for satin slippers in hues contrasting to the frock or of deeper shade is echoed this week by Mrs. Elsie Ferguson in her crepe frock in orchid and violet with which she wears violet satin pumps.

That Kingston will be very gay this week with two balls, the Horticultural Society's dance and the Shriner's Charity ball. To give us a more beautiful Kingston and to aid crippled children are two worthy objects and the people who will dance gaily at these two balls will feel that they are doing it in a good cause.

That the Rev. F. C. Ward-White, vicar of St. Albans cathedral, Toronto, who was in Kingston recently, was for thirteen years rector of the first church established in Lunenburg, N.S., when it was colonized in 1760 by the Latherans who had fled from persecution in Germany. The first rector was Rev. John Baptiste Mpreau, who preached in German, French and English every Sunday. The settlers were given land and arms by the British government and many interesting relics are to be found in this quiet spot where time moves but slowly. The most beautiful old furniture is to be found in the isolated homes that dot the rugged coast.

That Paris tells us that a man's Tuxedo, called "smoking" by the French, provides inspiration for the novel group of suits for afternoon and evening wear. A velvet jacket, in black or violet, tops those fog evenings, which are worn with a skirt or matching broadcloth. A short gilet, or vest, of velvet or ottoman, over a blouse of white crepe de Chine, completes the man-like illusion, while a jabot and ruffles of lace contribute the only feminine touches. The "smoking" for afternoon is developed in navy blue woolen, with both the jacket and skirt braided in black silk, as in the evening "smoking," a vest of the same material as the coat is worn over a white crepe de Chine blouse.

ON SHIPBOARD.

The first day out he asks with savagery "At what hour, air (or madame) would you care To 'save your breath'?" You answer carelessly— "No dreaming that your words will prove a snare— "At six," or "seven-thirty," as "at eight!" But having once declared to him the hour, He knock will rouse you like the hand of Fate, Upon the moment! No known earthly power Can stay his hand or tempt him to delay. No need to doze and sleepily to cry, "I've changed my mind; Oh, please, please go away!" He'll have you bathed—or know the reason why! Exact, unwavering, faithfully on time— He makes you know why England is sublime! —Roselle Mercier Montgomery.

EFFICIENT HOUSEKEEPING

By Laura A. Kirkman.

TOMORROW'S MENU

- Breakfast: Omelette, Cereal, Broiled Slice of Ham, Pop Overs, Coffee. Luncheon: Spanish Omelet, Wholewheat Bread, Fruit Salad, Cookies, Cocoa. Dinner: Potato-Leek Soup, Escalloped Oysters, Brown Rice Croquettes, Peas, French Dressing, Cranberry Pie.

New Dishes This Week. Potato-Leek Soup: Cut one bunch of leeks in thin slices crosswise and cook in two and one-half tablespoons of butter for 12 minutes. Now add one quart of cold, sweet milk and set the soup over rapidly boiling water to cook, covered, for one hour. At the end of this time, add three cups of left-over cooked and cubed potatoes, two tablespoons of butter, a pinch of salt, a dash of pepper and two and one-half tablespoons of flour mixed to a paste in a little cold, sweet milk. Stir, and continue to cook till thickened, then serve at once.

Corn Fritters: Chop one can of corn, drain off excess moisture, and add the beaten yolks of two eggs, one teaspoon of salt, one cup of bread flour previously sifted with one-half teaspoon of baking powder, and, last, fold in two stiffly-whipped egg-whites. Drop by teaspoonfuls into a hot pan in which either a little bacon fat, or butter is sizzling. Cook till brown on the under side, then turn and brown the reverse side before draining a moment on crumpled brown paper. Serve hot.

Baked Apple Pudding: Into one quart of bread crumbs stir one-third cup of melted butter. Mix well. Now into a buttered pudding dish place a layer of sliced raw apples (you will need one quart of the sliced apples for the entire pudding). Follow with a light sprinkling of ground cinnamon and brown sugar, then add a layer of the bread crumbs. Repeat these layers till the ingredients are used. Having a bread crumb layer come last. Dot with additional butter and moisten with one cup of boiling water. Slip the dish into a moderate oven to bake for one hour. Serve hot with a brown sugar hard sauce flavored with vanilla extract, or else with the following: Delicate Hard Sauce: Cream one-third cup of butter, rub in one cup of white powdered sugar and flavor with a few drops of lemon juice or one-half teaspoon of vanilla extract.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Kirkman, in care of the "Efficient Housekeeping" department, will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if a personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question. Be sure to use YOUR full name, street number, and the name of your city and province. —The Editor.

WEDDINGS.

McGills-Purvis. On Monday at 5 o'clock in the morning, the marriage was solemnized in St. Mary's cathedral of Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Purvis, John street, and Charles Howard McGills, Montreal, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald John McGills, Montreal. Rev. Father Doyle performed the ceremony. The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father, wore a smart frock of pencil blue georgette, with a bodice of platinum cut velvet. Her hat was trimmed with gold and she wore gold shoes to match. Her bouquet was of Ophelia roses with sprigs of heather. The bridesmaid was her sister, Miss Kathleen Purvis, who was frocked in powder blue and wore a hat to match. Her flowers were pink roses. The best man was Mr. Douglas McGills, Montreal, a brother of the bridegroom. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McGills left for a wedding trip to Toronto and Buffalo, N.Y., the latter wearing a costume of bokora cloth and a seal coat. The out-of-town guests were Mrs. John M. Smylie, Toronto, and Miss Jessie McGills, Montreal.

Peterson-Carey Wedding. At the home of the bride's parents Mr. and Mrs. William Carey, 3 York street, Kingston, Mr. James L. Peterson of Nanapan, and Miss Ethel May Carey was quietly married on Friday evening at seven o'clock. Rev. A. F. Ball officiating at the ceremony.

Engagement Announced. Mr. and Mrs. John King, Tweed, announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Miss Marguerite to George Wilfred Larmour, son of Mr. Martha Larmour, Tweed. The marriage will take place in February.
