

$208 AND TABLET FOR MOWAT SANATORIUM

To Be Given by Depot Regiment of the Canadian Mounted Rifles.

A check for $208 and a suitable tablet will be presented to the Kingston Health Association at their next meeting for the Mowat Sanatorium. The money is a part of the balance from the regimental and canteen funds of depot regiment Canadian Mounted Rifles, C.E.F., "C" squadron of which was recruited in Kingston.

The committee of which J. F. Howell of the Howell Lithographing Co., Hamilton; Harry Birkholder, Hamilton; and C. Bain, a prominent merchant of Hamilton, were trustees, was unanimous in its decision to divide the money equally between the sanatoriums at London, Toronto and Kingston. The check came to Major Allan Stroud, who was commander of "C" squadron, this morning and the presentation will be made by him and several former members of "C" squadron.

William George Butler, a resident of the Capital for the last three years, and formerly of Perth, died Wednesday in his sixty-first year. Brockville will have an Old Home Week, July 18th to 24th. It is twenty years since one was held.

A WORD TO BRIDES

By Cynthia Grey.

Many a good luscious batch of divinity fudge has been ruined by too much stirring, little bride! And many a good husband has been ruined by too much nagging from even so beloved a creature as a bride!

If you must nag, at least be consistent! Don't raze him for not slicking up, and then proceed to give him the same w. k. juicy fruit for adorning his manly physique and scraping the old razor blade over the manly jowls!

You see, brides dear, you have been told so much about the knavish deeds to expect from spouses! Your little shell pink aural appendages have been stuffed full of Old Wives' Tales.

You have read and you have heard and you have seen that once a man catches a street car he doesn't run after it, and once a man gets a girl he will not exert himself to keep the skin she loves to touch.

And you have read and you have heard and you have seen that some husbands lose interest once the girl is theirs and proceed to cast amorous orbs at other frails.

Brides, do have a little plain horse sense, even nothing but colt sense if you can't achieve the full-grown variety—but do have some!

Make up your mind to the fact that of course he isn't always going to be the image of John Barrymore or Rudy Vaseline or Lord Chesterfield.

He likes to smuggle down into that old patched smoking jacket or furs around the cellar in those abominable old trousers just as much as you like occasionally to put on that faded old kimona when you give your face a clay pack or wash your hair.

It's really a tribute to your understanding and the dear intimacy that makes him free to do what he pleases when near you!

And by the same token when he gadding goes with you, of course he's going to put a gardenia in his buttonhole and wear a shine on his patent leather shoes that will knock you for a goal.

It's proud of his wife, he is, proud of her silky marcel, her white throat beneath the pearls, the dear little self she is all swathed up in her gorgeous Mandarin cape!

He's dressing up for you and no other frail in all this wide, wide world!

CO-EDS TAKE TO THE DERBY

WOMAN KILLS DEER WITH ARROW

Bows and arrows of the type used by English yeomen centuries ago were the only weapons carried by Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Rounseville of New Orleans on a hunting expedition in Louisiana. Mrs. Rounseville killed a 130-pound buck, however, sending three shafts home from a distance of twenty yards.
