QUEEN'S DEFEAT K.C.I. TEAM 5-1

Won Round by 8-4—Now Meet R.M.C. Juniors in Next Round of Group.

Queen's slipped it over the Kingston Collegiate Institute junior intercollegiate team at the Arena Monday night by the score of 5-1 and won the round by 8-4, the teams having tied 3-3 in their meeting a week ago. As a result of their victory, Queen's will now meet R.M.C. Juniors in the next round of the group. The period scores of last night's game were 2-0, Queen's running in three goals in the last.

The Tricolor showed much more condition and back-checking last night than they did in their previous game while the Collegiate lads on the other hand, did not seem to possess the same spirit that led them out of a bad hole in the first game, when they came back and tied matters up after being three goals down. At times last night the Collegiate boys showed plenty of dash and good rushes and Tommy Boyd, though he was sometimes far off the nets, worked his way in for some terrific shots. He was about the most consistent rusher that the Blue Shirts trotted out and he played great hockey.

K.C.I. tried hard but they did not have the same punch or ginger about their play. They were inclined to bunch up and the long passes that the Tricolor worked against them, caught their defence cold and had it not been for the remarkable work of "Mike" Gibson in the K.C.I. nets, the score would have been much larger. Time after time he turned back shots that were labelled as good for goals. "Gib" McKelvey and "Bud" Macpherson being disappointed by him several times when they had nobody to beat but him.

"Gib" McKelvey and "Bud" Macpherson were the outstanding players of the Queen's team and McKelvey time after time uncorked some great rushes. He worked well on the defence and though his body-checking was at times a little heavy, he was very effective and was successful in warding off the attacks of the Collegiate boys. Macpherson displayed some lightning stickhandling at different times and on one effort notched a pretty counter all alone in the last period. McDowell and Baker were hard workers for the Tricolor while Baldwin played his usual fine game.

Queen's undoubtedly had the edge in condition last night and in the third period it was plain to be seen that they were going much stronger than they had been going in the second period. They tallied in short order in the last frame and forced the play most of the time.

For K.C.I. the Gibson Brothers were very valuable and "Mike" in the nets played remarkably well. Tommy Boyd was a hard worker and back-checked well and Harold Buck did some neat work also.

A pretty pass from Macpherson to Baker, who was camped in front of the nets gave Queen's their first goal in the first period and McKelvey scored the second four minutes later. There was no scoring in the second session but two minutes after the opening of the third period Macpherson passed but another to McDowell for Queen's third score. One minute later Macpherson gave a pretty exhibition of stickhandling and beat the whole K.C.I. team for a counter and then the tide swung around and S. Gibson, on a pretty shot, netted K.C.I.'s lone counter. "Gib" McKelvey carried the puck down the ice and passed to McDowell for the last goal of the game. The teams were:

INTERMEDIATES IN ACTION WEDNESDAY

R.M.C. Meets Queen's in Intercollegiate Fixture—Should Be Fast Hockey.

Local fans are in for a hockey treat on Wednesday night when the intermediate intercollegiate schedule opens with R.M.C. and Queen's in action. There promises to be as much excitement as there was last year in this series and it is expected that there will be a large number out to see the teams in action.

R.M.C. has developed a speedy aggregation of players this season and with Rogers, MacDougall, Moison, Tremaine and others in line up, there is every indication that the Red and White will be able to put up a strong battle against the Tricolor. The boys have been practising hard and have their team play pretty well perfected so there is little reason for them to fear the opposition. They will be in there trying all the time and they are sure to serve up a brand of hockey to meet with the requirements of the fans.

Queen's has not been losing any time in rounding out an intermediate team. The drain on the intermediate squad for the senior and junior teams has been heavy but even at that the Queen's squad will be a formidable looking one and should be able to keep stepping with the fast R.M.C. outfit. The lineup for the team is not yet available but assurance has been given that it will be one to be feared.

The prices for this game have been marked down and the customers will be able to see the intermediate clash for 50c in the reserved section and 25c in the rush end.

TALK OF PRO. PLAYERS FORMING A BIG UNION

New York Hopes for a Change of Attitude Toward the American Clubs.

Officials of the New York club of the pro. hockey league claim to have been advised of a movement among the players of the league looking to the establishment of a players' union. The comparatively small salaries paid to players under contract to Canadian clubs are said by the New York club to be at the bottom of the threatened trouble. The New York club claims to have signed most of its players to three-year contracts at high salaries, and is, therefore, not apprehensive that its performers will become members of the organization. A capacity crowd in Madison Square Garden means box office receipts of approximately $30,000. None of the Canadian clubs can accommodate a crowd representing anything like as much money as that. What is bothering the New York and other United States clubs is the fact that, under the rule adopted long ago in the pro. league, territorial rights are clearly defined. Because they are not permitted, under the rule, to encroach on the territory of the Western Canada League clubs, they contend that the Canadian clubs are conspiring to block any attempts to strengthen the

SPORTING NOTES AND COMMENT

The intermediate intercollegiate clash on Wednesday night between R.M.C. and Queen's opens the local group and should prove to be a great attraction. The Red and White have a fast team this season and are hoping for a championship, while Queen's are placing their hopes in their seconds. Scores count on the round and both teams will strive hard to get a start in their first encounter.

A New York writer in a recent article gives hockey a very bad name and tries to show it up to be the roughest game played. When criticizing hockey, one should not take the professional leagues alone for an example. Hockey as played by the pros. and amateurs is a great deal different and both sides of it should be pondered over.

Much credit is due to the men who started the juvenile league again. This league should be looked after and the "kids" given a chance to develop into hockey players who will be a credit to the city. Kingston has produced some great hockey players, but there will be a slump if the junior leagues are not fostered.

Belleville was quite chesty over its defeat of Kingston and seems quite confident that all is clear sailing now, at least as far as this group is concerned. With due credit to Belleville, it may be said that the opinion is that it will not go far, if it downs Brockville.

Local hockey fans who have been inquiring when the City Hockey League will get under way will be glad to know that the start of the second half of the schedule will take place on February 15th. From then on the City League will have regular dates until the second half of the schedule has been completed.

There are some who believe that the City Hockey League has done its work for the winter, but this view is not shared by all the fans by any means. It should not be forgotten that material must be made for next season again and the second half of the City League schedule will be valuable for keeping these possible candidates for next season on the go and, perhaps, bring out more. Kingston is starting right now to build up a formidable team for next season.

Speaking of next season, if the plans being formulated are carried out, Kingston fans, and perhaps fans in other centres, are going to see a big surprise sprung. There will be an entirely new system undertaken and there is every reason to believe that Kingston will have a team next season that should sweep all before it in the intermediate O.H.A. Here's wishing the new plan well.

All followers of sport are not particularly interested in hockey and those who follow the mat and ring game to any extent will find plenty of their favorite pastime on the 12th and 13th of this month, the occasion being the staging of the intercollegiate assault-at-arms at Queen's. The events are held every three years and local fans will have their opportunity again of witnessing these premier ring attractions. Those battles of three years ago have not been forgotten and more of their kind are anticipated.

It seems rather strange that Kingston should never have taken up the boxing game to any great extent. True, there have been some amateur boxers who donned the mitts for their own amusement and the entertainment of others for a short while and then gave it up, but the sport was never followed very seriously. Kingston sport followers seem to stick pretty close to football, baseball, hockey and basketball for their major sports.

Even with more snow than ever in appearance now, the local tennis enthusiasts are looking forward to great things next summer. It won't be so very long, when it's all boiled down, before the clubs will be thinking about getting their grounds, etc., in shape for the season. Tournaments with outside clubs would go well next season. Kingston has developed fast in tennis and with two good seasons salted away, there are some pretty fair players here right now.

U.S. teams. Apparently the clubs across the border do not even know the rules of their own league. There is not likely to be any greater success in efforts to organize a hockey players' union than there has been in any of the several attempts to organize a baseball players' protective fraternity. The aims and objects of both organizations are practically the same. New York newspapers labor under the delusion that good hockey players in Canada are desirous of becoming pros, that such is the chief aim in life. Clubs that have tried to sign some of them know otherwise. The New York Times says:

CHANGES MADE IN BASEBALL RULES

Sacrifice Flies Effective in All Cases Where Runners Advanced—Matter of Strikeout.

New York, Feb. 2.—Revision and clarification of the playing regulations, including extension of home run park limits and a more liberal application of the sacrifice fly rule, were approved by the joint rules committee of the major and minor baseball leagues.

Most of the amendments necessitated only slight modifications to meet possible contingencies, the outstanding change making sacrifice flies effective in all cases where runners are advanced a base. Hitherto a sacrifice has been allowed on a fly ball hit when a runner scored after the catch.

Revision of the pitching regulations to permit the use of resin was written into the rules, requiring that "under the supervision and control of the umpire, the pitcher may use, to dry his hands, a small, finely meshed bag containing powdered resin, furnished by the league." No application of the resin to the ball will be permitted, the committee announced.

Balls hit into grand stands to count as home runs in the future must travel 250 feet, an increase of 15 feet over the former limit. Major league parks, however, will not be affected by the change.

Coaching boxes at first and third bases were reduced to 15 foot rectangles; the rest space between double-bases was increased from 10 to 15 minutes, while winning home services as referees. "I have every confidence and faith in Charlie's handling this game," said Mr. Hyde. "His reputation for clean sportsmanship is above reproach. Despite the position he holds with the visiting team, and the importance of the contest, I know that the Tavistock players will ask no advantage of their coach under the circumstances."

Lightfoot officiated, and Tavistock won, but it was no fault of the Stratford man, for he handled the game
