M'GILL GIRLS DEFEAT QUEEN'S DEBATERS

In the Intercollegiate Event Held in Convocation Hall Saturday Afternoon.

McGill girls' debating team defeated Queen's girls' team here, on Saturday afternoon when they argued the negative of the question "Resolved that the Trend of Modern English and American Literature is Anti-Social." The debate, which was under the auspices of the Women's Intercollegiate Debating Union, was held in Convocation Hall and the audience was composed mainly of students of the university. Miss Belle Elliott, president of the Debating Club, acted as chairman. His Lordship Bishop Bidwell, Mrs. A. Kennedy, city librarian, and A. N. Lyter, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, were the judges. Miss Dorothy Dowseley contributed a piano solo to the programme.

For McGill the debate was skillfully presented by Miss Adele Langueudoc and Miss Maysie McSparran, while Miss Daisy Aspinall and Miss Jean Sargent dealt with Queen's side of the case in an equally capable way. The definition of "social" seemed to be the point on which the whole debate turned. The Queen's debaters chose the definition of anti-social as given by the Oxford dictionary, which is: "Opposed to the principles on which present society is constituted." McGill chose to take a wider meaning of the word "social" and their definition was practically, "all relations that a man has with his fellow man." For the purposes of the debate, it had been decided that by "modern literature" should be meant everything that had been printed since the beginning of this century.

The affirmative asserted that sex occupied a place in modern literature that was entirely out of proportion to its importance, and that the emphasizing of sex in such a way was undermining personal virtue and had a tendency to break up the family group. This, they held, was certainly anti-social. Modern literature also, according to Miss Aspinall and Miss Sargent, was attacking with destructive criticism, the economic, educational, judicial and political systems of the world without offering anything to replace them. The speakers produced many quotations from the present day literature to back up these statements.

The contention of the McGill debaters was that the sex complex in modern literature was really only a minor trend but that such books and plays as those of George Bernard Shaw, Galsworthy, H. G. Wells, Sheila Kaye-Smith and others of the same type, were really assisting the social condition of the world in that they showed up many present day social evils. Galsworthy's play "Strife" was particularly noted in this connection, as the Red and White debaters claimed that this play had brought about a new prison reform movement in England. That the really valuable modern literature, as opposed to "best sellers," was all of a social nature, was stressed by the visitors.

Kingston Township Auditor, Mr. C. E. Miller, of the city of Kingston, was appointed auditor for Kingston Township at a special meeting of the Township Council on Saturday evening.

Mr. Byron Gordon and Mr. Frank Purdy were both appointed to this position earlier in the year, but each refused to act.

SALTS FINE FOR ACHING KIDNEYS

When Back Hurts Flush Your Kidneys as You Clean Your Bowels

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness, and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink which everybody should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in trying to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Both teams scored one goal in the first period and second period, and there was no further scoring in the remainder of the regulation time. In the overtime period, Ganoque scored first and looked to be winners, but Kirby scored one of the prettiest goals seen in a long time when, just before the last over time period, he came down centre ice, pulled the goal-tender out of the nets and pushed the puck into the goal for the tying score. CONCERT AT NEWBORO.

Delightful Programme Was Given in the Masonic Hall.

Newboro, Feb. 8.—On Friday evening, Jan. 29th, a most enjoyable concert was given by the young people of the United Church, and many of the public school, in the Masonic hall. A game of "Living Chess," by thirty-two characters, ably played by Rev. W. Bromwick and Miss M. Gorstine was one of the finest items ever seen in Newboro. The gorgeous dresses and stage effects were beautiful. Interspersed by musical numbers, under the efficient guidance of Mrs. H. C. Brown, organist, and Mr. H. C. Brown, leader.

One of the most laughable events of the evening was a duet by Mrs. Smith, of Saskatoon, and Mr. H. C. Brown describing a foreigner and his teacher, learning to read English, which brought roars of laughter. Also the humorous quartette "Toothache," in which four characters vividly described the torments and pains of toothache, heads most suitable dressed for the occasion.

The tableaux of Miss Helen Kealey, in "Coming Thro the Rye" and "Annie Laurie" were most perfect. Miss Ads Holley gave a most amusing recitation, descriptive of a country courtship. The cornet solos of Bandmaster G. Pierce were masterpieces of so efficient a performer.

Mention must be made to the cornet and clarinet duets by Bandmaster G. Pierce and Master Reginald Warren. For so young a player, he shows great promise for a bright musical future.

The programme was brought to a happy close by Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party, numbering fourteen characters, dressed in old and quaint costumes. Miss Doris Carl played the part of Aunt Dinah to perfection. Miss M. Gorstine ably sang "Aunt Dinah's Quilting Party," the varied characters joining in the chorus.

"Being Nellie Home," as Mr. Jack

Thompson appeared on the platform dressed as a duke to take Nellie home, amid roars of laughter and much applause. All spoke in high praise of the enjoyable evening, hoping soon for the return of the Newboro United Church choir, to the Masonic hall.

Revival services have been held during the week by the Rev. W. Bromwick, ably assisted by Evangelists Mr. H. C. Brown and Mrs. Brown, in the United Church.
