NEWS OF THE FARM

Alfalfa and Weeds—Silage for the North—Horses Will Be Wanted—Good Outlook for Hogs.

During the war when it was almost impossible for farmers to obtain any outside help the Ontario agriculturist became accustomed to operating his hundred acres alone. There was little attempt at hand hoeing and perennial weeds such as twitch and sow thistle got a big start. The present grow-more-alfalfa campaign should help remedy this condition. This crop requires a minimum amount of cultivation and makes such rank growth when well established that it chokes out practically all of the worst weeds. In the grain farming districts of the West, where it is sometimes impossible to identify a cereal crop from the road side on account of the over growth of thistle and mustard, alfalfa and other legumes such as sweet clover, have been found very effective in dealing with this menace.

Big Milk Flow.

According to the fortnightly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture the milk flow this winter is the largest on record. In Eastern Ontario, particularly, the output is much ahead of other years on account of the excellent harvest of 1925. Feed was never more plentiful. From the townships of Mountain and Winchester in Dundas, 90 tons of whole milk were shipped daily during January, the bulk going to a condensery. This is double the output of a few years ago.

Silage of the North.

Dairy farmers in Northern Ontario have been rather seriously handicapped by the fact that no satisfactory crop has up to the present, been found for putting into the silo. It is impossible to grow corn economically in these districts, sweet clover is not popular and other substitutes hitherto have not been altogether satisfactory. Tests conducted by W. G. Nixon, at New Liskeard this winter, however, have demonstrated that red clover may be used for this purpose. The stuff ferments nicely and while rather dark and strong in flavor, it is eaten readily by live stock. It compares very favorably with corn silage in nutritive value, with nearly double the percentage of protein and fat. Furthermore red clover is one of the most easily produced crops in the North Country. It grows like a weed and yields of over two tons to the acre are common.

That conditions are again returning to normal along the concession lines is indicated by a report from Agricultural Representative S. B. Stothers of Haron County. "Off hand," he says, "I know of ten different farms that have changed hands in the past few months, and while no record figures have been reported values are satisfactory." A few years ago there was a different tale. Half of Ontario was for sale at bargain prices but there were no takers. Last year, however, when the values of agriculture products began picking up buyers again entered the market. At the present time, farming not only offers a good living but it is possible where initiative and determination is shown to also make a fair interest on the investment.

Horses Will be Wanted.

It now begins to look as if the long predicted demand for good heavy horses was about to materialize. For the past ten years supporters of the Clydesdale, Shire, Percheron and Belgian, have been making dire forecasts. A famine in good horseflesh was spoken of freely. During the war the Allied armies absorbed all the smaller chunks but the real drifter was passed over. Motor trucks and tractors took his place. With prices of all agricultural produce soaring there was little attempt at checking the cost of production. But the after war depression wrought a change. Farmers and townpeople desired to produce stuff as cheaply as possible. The tractor and truck, it was found, were not always economical. In a farm of small fields, or where the ground is hilly it was discovered that old Dobbin, fed on cheap oats, would do the work better and more cheaply. For short hauls in the city, too, with constant stopping and starting, the dray horse did the work at lower cost than the truck. As a result of these discoveries and the change in financial conditions in the whole country the demand for heavy horses has increased. The enquiry, however, has come too late as there are not enough animals of the right type to go round. The latest reports from the Live Stocks Records Association at Ottawa show that there were more sales of purebred heavy horses last year than for some time past. Prices have advanced and will probably continue to advance until the young stuff now coming on in greater numbers is old enough to be put to work.

Good Outlook for Hogs.

Of the principal countries supplying bacon to Great Britain, states L. G. McQuat, Dominion Live Stock Branch, Canada is the only one to register an increase during the past year. Foot and mouth disease cut down the number of swine in Great Britain itself, and also in the two principal countries to Great Britain, Ireland and Denmark. The greater demand from domestic markets has prevented United States from exporting as much pork as was shipped out of that country a few years ago. If producers in Canada will turn out the right type of bacon hogs, states Mr. McQuat, and make some effort to even up the volume from month to month there should be an even better outlet for bacon in Britain in 1926 than there was in 1925.

Canadian Hen Leads.

Apparently there is something in our hardy northern climate which just suits the hen. According to a synopsis of egg laying contests held throughout the world, The Canadian hen leads anything in the Northern Hemisphere but is beaten by Australian birds. Fifty-six contests were held in Canada, United States and Europe last year. The average of the Canadian contests was 172.2 for 365 days, United States 164.4 and 171.1 for Europe. South of the equator 10 contests made an average of 200. White Leghorns led the Canadian contests with Barred Rocks next followed by Wyandottes and Rhode Island Reds.

Only 1862 men are employed on the telephones of London, while there are 7,051 girl switchboard operators. Two tons of imitation pearls were used in Culver City, Cal., to fashion costumes for movie actresses in a huge "pearl ballet" dance. How pleasant the world would be if only the right people had an inferiority complex. Vacuum cleaners are now being used to groom horses.
