GRIFFITH'S LOVE MAKING HAILED AS ACME OF ART

Raymond Griffith's love making to two girls at the same time, one of the high interest points of his newest starring comedy, "Hands Up!" constitutes the best acted scene in the memory of Clarence G. Badger, who directed this picture.

"I have seen all the great stars the stage and screen, but for finished artistry in pantomime I have never seen anything that equals Griffith's work in this scene," said Badger, "The fact that it is a comedy scene does not rob its of its unden-

"The scene is long, yet never for moment does the interest of the spectator lag and never once is a subtitle explanation necessary."

The girls who appear in this scene with the high hat comedian are Marion Nixon and Virginia Lee Corbin. In addition to these beautiful young women the brilliant cast includes Montagu Love and Mack Swain. The picture will open at the Capitol Theatre today.
