FIVE ARE ORDAINED IN ST. GEORGE'S SYDENHAM STREET CHURCH ANNIVERSARY

Rev. Northcote R. Burke Preaches in St. Paul's on Sunday Evening.

In St. George's cathedral on Sunday morning in the presence of a very large congregation, the Bishop of Ontario ordained to the diaconate five young men, all from the diocese of Ontario. They were Arthur Smith, B.A., a son of Canon Austin Smith and Mrs. Smith, Cataract; W. H. G. Swaine, son of Rev. W. G. Swaine and Mrs. Swaine, Bath; Northcote R. Burke, son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Burke, Kingston; John Brownlee, Kempsville; all of Trinity College, Toronto, and F. D. Douglas, L.S.D., Bishop's College, Lennoxville, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. S. Douglas, Odessa.

Archdeacon Dobbs presented the candidates for ordination, and the sermon, a most helpful and scholarly one, was preached by the father of one of the candidates, Rev. Canon Smith, Cataract. He spoke affectionately to the young men and welcomed them to the ranks of the clergy on behalf of the diocese. Rev. Arthur Smith, B.A., had the honor of being the gospel. The clergy present were Rev. W. E. Kidd, M.A., M.C., acting rector of the cathedral, Canon J. W. Jones, Rev. W. G. Swaine, Bath, Rev. J. C. Dixon, Rev. Hilary Smith and Rev. Prof. Morris, Trinity College, Toronto, who had come to Kingston for the ordination of some of his students. Prof. Morris preached at evensong in the cathedral.

Preached in St. Paul's. St. Paul's church was filled to its utmost capacity on Sunday evening when, after a few kindly words of greeting from Canon Fitzgerald, the rector, Rev. Northcote R. Burke preached his first sermon after being ordained to the diaconate. Mr. Burke is a Kingston boy and in saying how much pleasure it gave him to preach his first sermon after his ordination in old St. Paul's he said he had known Canon Fitzgerald since he was such a small boy that he did not know his name and called him "Mr. St. Paul." He took his text from the 95th Psalm, "O Come let us worship," and spoke of the beauty and appeal of the psalms, the great hymns of the Jewish church, which had been incorporated into the worship of the Christian church. Beautiful thoughts, beautifully expressed, fitting man's every need, were to be found in the book of the Psalms. Beauty and worship go together in the thoughts of the psalmist, who says "O worship the Lord in the beauty of holiness" and nothing can be too beautiful for God's House. Never was the call to worship more needed than today, and in this Lenten season it would be well if each one would ask "What would it mean to me if God was taken out of my life?" To some it would mean everything, to some very little. We come to the church to worship, "Men," as Theodore Roosevelt said, "can worship in the woods and the fields, but they don't." There is something in the atmosphere of the church that we feel. This dear old church where generations of Christians have worshipped calls us to worship with them. God misses us if we are not there to join in His praises. And He calls for a sincere worship, a worship from the heart, for we are worshipping Him who is eternal.

During the offertory the choir sang "O Worship the King." A great many of the members of St. James', Pittsburgh, and St. John's, Storrington, where Mr. Burke was in charge of the parishes during the summer, motored to Kingston to hear him preach his first sermon after being admitted into the ministry of the Church of England, and were among the worshippers in the crowded church.
