According to the despatches being sent out from Toronto, quite a stir has been created in that city over the question of whether or not the police constables who attend the sittings of the City Council, should be allowed to sit down. At present they have to stand for hours and hours while the members of the council discuss various matters, and one of the members of the Council moved a resolution, in an endeavor to let the constable rest while the council is in session. The council took no action, awaiting a request from the officers of the law, in regard to the matter.
