OTTAWA RIDEAUS DEFEATED BY QUEEN'S ON SATURDAY 27-17

Intercollegiate Played Up to Best Form to Triumph Over Famed Capital City Team—Queen's Seconds Defeated Belleville in O.B.A. Fixture—Western University and Queen's Girls Tied.

Queen's did well in the triple-decker basketball bill on Saturday night at the Queen's gymnasium, winning two games and going into a lead in another. The senior team defeated Ottawa Rideaus by the score 27-17 in one of the most interesting and exciting games of the season since the intercollegiate defeated Belleville in an O.B.A. fixture 25-24 and the girls tied with Western University in a very effective also and Intercollegiate Game.

Belleville's hard-fighting basketball crew gave the Queen's seconds a hard run in the O.B.A. fixture and it was only after a hard, close game that the Tricolor was able to come through with a 25-24 victory. There was good basketball served up in this contest and the fans were treated to thrilling work.

The Girls' Game.
Playing the first half under Spalding rules and the second half under the intercollegiate rules, the Queen's girls and Western University girls tied for the honors in an exhibition game which proved to be highly interesting. The crowd was asked to show, by applause, when the two styles had been played, to show which they preferred. When the opinion was asked, however, there was a draw on the question.

R.M.C. THREATEN TO JOIN O.H.A.

Are Quite Disgusted With Way Things Have Turned Out in the Intercollegiate Series.

The Royal Military College will in all probability enter the intermediate O.H.A. series next winter where they will at least be assured of playing a few games during the season, it has become known. This season has been a very unsuccessful one so far as the Red and White are concerned and they have played exactly three games.

In the intercollegiate series, intermediate section, the R.M.C. team has been waiting around practically the whole winter to play somebody. They defeated Queen's in the local group and were ordered to Montreal on Saturday to meet Loyola. The cadets prepared to go to Montreal and on Friday noon left for the Canadian Metropolis.

Hardley had they started on their trip had been received that Loyola had been disqualified for playing ineligible men and there would be no game. However, on arriving at Montreal arrangements were made for R.M.C. to meet Bishop's College, which had been defeated by Loyola.

The game was played on Saturday afternoon, R.M.C. winning by 2-1. Things went all right until after the game when an official from Loyola came forth with the news that Loyola had been reinstated and they wanted R.M.C. to stay over and play them. Here was a pretty mixup. The R.M.C. team had gone to Montreal, had played what was supposed to be the eligible team and then discovered that Loyola were still eligible. The cadets refused to stay over unless given a certain guarantee so they came home on Sunday morning.

Of all the mixed up hockey, the intercollegiate takes the cake and teams are becoming so disgusted that they are talking of quitting altogether. R.M.C. insists that they are "fed up" with the intercollegiate, and they have good reason to say so, and it is no secret that there has been talk up around Queen's for some time past with regard to pulling out of intercollegiate hockey. A story was also prevalent to the effect that McGill would gladly relinquish its place in intercollegiate hockey.

Here it is the eighth of March and only one game has been played in the junior intercollegiate series in this group between R.M.C. and Queen's. It's a pretty mixup all round and it is no small wonder that teams are talking of drawing out of the C.I.H.U. altogether and getting into a league where they will at least have a few games for their trouble and expense of fitting out hockey teams. This college spirit sentiment is not holding out.

Intercollegiate hockey is not a drawing card anyway and the day for hockey as an intercollegiate sport is fast slipping. Real live action is needed in the intercollegiate Union with regard to its hockey or there will be no teams in the college series. Queen's would be far better off in the O.H.A. series and there is not the least shadow of a doubt that R.M.C. would be too. R.M.C. may not have a powerful team but they would at least have the satisfaction of participating in a few games and having something to play for.

LOCAL JUNIORS OFF TO TORONTO

Meet North Bay in Memorial Cup Series To-night and on Wednesday Night.

The Kingston juniors, O.H.A. champions, left to-day at noon for Toronto where they meet North Bay in the Memorial Cup series tonight and Wednesday night. The players were all in good shape and hoped to handle the North Bay delegation the same as they did Owen Sound if they possibly could do so. Knowing little or nothing about the North Bay team except what they had picked up from rumors, the locals are meeting the Northern champions tonight as an unknown quantity but it will be the same condition of affairs for the Northerners. Tonight's battle will tell which has the edge and it should be a great old ding-dong affair.

The new O.H.A. champions figure that they will have strong opposition from the Men of the North, however, and will be at their best tonight to gain an edge. McKelvey and Voss will be a hard pair for the Northerners to get through while on the forward line Hartley, Patterson and Reid will be able to go better than ever, having by this time become accustomed to the Toronto ice. If Taucher stays up to his usual form, there will be a veritable stone wall for the North Bay sharpshooters to plink at and they will find him a hard man to beat. Macpherson and Molson will again do the subbing.

The Northerners are being hailed in Toronto as a great team but there should be more backing the locals this time than there were in the last game. It is to be hoped so, at any rate. There is great interest in the game tonight and no doubt there will be a greater rush than ever for the scores. The Whig will again give the service on the progress of the game

SPORTING NOTES AND COMMENT

And once again we wish the juniors the best of luck, this time in their series with North Bay.

Referring to the series between North Bay and Kingston to-night and Wednesday, the Toronto Star Weekly says: "In North Bay the fans will see one of the strongest clubs that ever came out of the North in action. They defeated a real strong outfit when they beat Iroquois Falls in the N.O.H.A. finals, winning the round by 12 to 10. The North Bay youngsters have a real husky outfit, and will shape up well against the Kingstonians when they meet them. It should be a battle royal from start to finish, and another of the bumper crowds that has been attending Andy Taylor's ice palace lately should be on hand to see these two smart junior teams perform. The second game will be played Wednesday night, the total goals on the round to count."

Queen's showed her prowess on the basketball floor by defeating the Ottawa Rideaus, Dominion champions, quite handily on Saturday night. The opening few minutes was much in favor of Rideaus, but in the last half the Ottawa team did not do so well.

The Jock Hartly Arena, it is stated, will close its doors next week at the very latest. It is quite possible that the tournament held recently will be played over again, owing to the fact that objection has been raised to the playing of a certain player by one of the clubs in the tournament, and then there may be a County League play-off.

The Kingston City Hockey League will not be finished out this season. A review of the season, giving all the doings of the League, might be considered a good thing by some fans, but it is perhaps better for all concerned to save ill-feeling among those who made up the League, officers, etc., to let the season be forgotten. There have been difficulties and there have been things done that did not please some while others have found matters running quite smoothly. However, it is hardly worth while to lose friends over a City League hockey game or any number of games and the best thing for all concerned to do is to forget anything that has been unpleasant, smile and forget it. The road through life is only travelled once and the real sportsman will carry no grudge. One of the officials of the Frontenac Regiment Club displayed a very fine sporting spirit on Saturday night when talking the thing over. While he insisted that his team had not fared according to Hoyle this season and reviewed what he considered were injustices, he was sport enough to conclude with the remark, "It's all over and there are no hard feelings." Considering the extent to which he believed his club to have been wronged, this official showed a very fine spirit which might well be followed out by others.

It is just possible that the Verona and Sunbury seniors will settle their hockey debate at the Arena this week or next. There is skating slated for to-night and Tuesday night, the Carnival is on Wednesday and if the juniors come through there is a possibility of a game here Friday, so that next week, Monday or Wednesday at the latest, the County Leaguers should be able to decide the championship of their League.

It will not be long now till the fans will be turning their attention to Kingston's baseball prospects for the coming season. Another two months and the baseball "bugs" will hold the centre of the stage.

and local fans are again invited to reap the benefit of it.

ALLAN CUP DATES.

Ottawa, March 8.—A revised schedule for the eastern Allan Cup play-off was issued here by Silver Quilty, president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association, as follows:

March 12.—At Montreal, Ottawa district vs. Quebec champions.
March 15.—At Ottawa, return game.

March 17, 19.—Ontario Hockey Association champions vs. University of Toronto.
March 20, 22.—Winners of above two series play-off to decide eastern champions.

No Pro. Ball Team.

Hamilton, March 8.—There will be no professional baseball in Hamilton. The men interested in the team have followed the lead of London and dropped out. There is no intention of proceeding, and George Orme, who was to pilot the Hams, has been notified that his services will not be required. The secretary, A. Eason, said that the local officials were not satisfied with the results of a meeting held two weeks ago. Another session has been arranged for, but London or Hamilton will not be represented.

To Report to Reds.

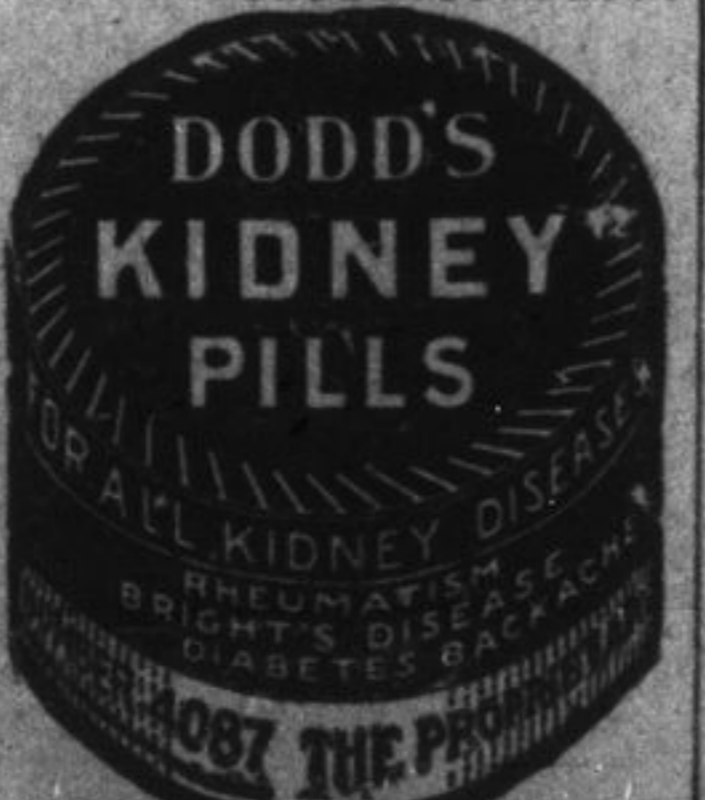

Cincinnati, Ohio, March 8.—Wally Pipp, first baseman, purchased recently from the New York Yankees, wired that he would report at the Reds training camp Monday. He was reported holding out for a share of the $20,000 purchase price.

Dempsey May Fight.

Chicago, March 8.—Jack Dempsey has hinted that he may appear in Chicago shortly in a match for the defence of his heavyweight title, provided the law legalizing boxing is ratified in the April election. He would not confirm or deny a report that he has been signed to meet Gene Tunney late this summer.

Males are funny. They can't understand a thing if both are talking at once.

Well, it's safer to talk about the weather. Nearly everybody agrees on that.

ANOTHER TIE IN COUNTY LEAGUE

Verona Defeated Sunbury Juniors on Saturday to Step into First Place Also.

The County of Frontenac Junior Hockey League underwent a terrible upset on Saturday afternoon at Verona when the supposed champions were defeated by the Verona team by the score of 3-0. It had been stated that the Sunbury team had won the championship when they had beaten Cataragui the second time and Battersea had lost to Verona but a game that had been postponed was evidently forgotten. Had this game affected the standing, it was to be played over, and as Verona still had a chance, if they won that game, Secretary Blacklock ordered the game played with the above results. The win for the Verona juniors caused a big stir. Sunbury juniors
