The man never lived who didn't at some time in his life expect to invent something that would make him rich.

The Editor Hears

That the Girl Guides are preparing for their tests and later the public will have an opportunity of attending an exhibition of these interesting productions. Cooking, sewing and all sorts of useful crafts are learned by the guides and their friends will be asked later to cooperate with them in making money for their summer camp.

That Sir Henry Drayton speaking at a session of the executive of the National Council of Women urged the members to assist in the sale of "Made in Canada goods." Mrs. Charles Constantine, Kingston, read a paper on the Yukon in its early days that was listened to with absorbed attention. At the close of the session Mrs. Ninan C. Smilie was presented with a life membership.

That beauty baths and beauty parlors are being forsaken by English society women for health clubs which are springing up in numbers in and around London. Realizing that health and fitness bring beauty, they are joining clubs which provide gymnasium, Swedish exercises and artificial sun baths.

That George Stockbridge, the successful gardener of the C.P.R. Kingstontonians and their visitors from April to November, says the annual in his garden never were more promising and he expects a wonderful show of bloom from them this year. Already pansies are beginning to show life and the buds that have lain dormant under the snow and ice are opening to March sunshine even on a frosty day.

That flowers appeared on the market in open wagons on Saturday. The florists are preparing a great show of flowers for Easter, the season when we all like a flower in our homes. The churches, the hospitals and our shut-in friends should be remembered at this season. Don't let all the flowers we buy be for ourselves.

That the robins were joined on Monday morning by a flock of bronze grackles whose hoarse note was heard by the worshippers returning from the early Holy Week services. Looking upwards they saw the beautiful black and bronze plumage of these handsome birds gleaming in the tree tops.

That one of the most interesting of the services held in St. Mary's Cathedral in connection with the mission held during the past two weeks was the blessing of the babies on Saturday afternoon when the large church was filled with mothers and the babies they had brought to receive God's blessing at the hand of the missionary.

SEASONABLE RECIPES

Creamed Sardines. One box large sardines, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon paprika, triangles of crisp toast, 2 hard cooked eggs, parsley.

Remove skin and bones from sardines. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add milk, stirring constantly. When mixture boils add salt, paprika and lemon juice. Add whites of eggs finely chopped and sardines, whole or broken as preferred. Keep over hot water. Arrange toast on a hot platter, cover with creamed fish and sprinkle with yolks of egg forced through a ricer. Garnish with sprigs of parsley and serve.

This makes a most attractive looking dish as well as an unusually delicious one.

Grape Fruit Salad.

Two green peppers, 1 cup grape fruit pulp, 1-2 cup minced celery, slice onion, 2 tablespoons nut meats, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1-4 teaspoon salt.

Cut peppers in halves lengthwise. Remove pith and seeds. Remove pulp from grape fruit. Drain. There should be 1 cup of fruit after draining. Use juice in the dressing in place of lemon juice. Rub bowl in which salad is to be mixed with slice of onion. Mix sugar and salt and sprinkle over fruit. Let stand a few minutes and combine celery, nuts and grape fruit. Pour over French dressing and fill peppers with mixture. Sprinkle with paprika and serve on a bed of lettuce.

LIFE'S GOLDEN RULE.

If only thoughtless people Would take a little heed. And think about their neighbors. Their troubles, and their need! It never just occurs to them That, in their selfish way, Maybe they've dimmed the sunlight, And darkened someone's day.

If only busy people Would linger for a while And stop to do a kindly act. Then pass on with a smile. The world would be a warmer place, If only, now and then, We all would stay to think a bit About our fellow-men.

INDIAN WOMEN KNOW MORE THAN WHITE WOMEN

Indian girl though she is, and the ward of a Methodist woman missionary, aged 71 years, Miss Frances Nickawa of Vancouver delights in Paris gowns, touches of gay color and short skirts, but clings to long hair.

"Since I have been about the world," said Miss Nickawa, interviewed in Montreal, "I have seen the chic, smart things the girls in France know, but which few of the Indian women out west have seen. Consequently, those of our tribe in British Columbia don't long for beautiful costumes. What they do want, though, is that the white people should learn to appreciate their talents. I say, very emphatically that I do not yet find the white people educated to the merits of the North American Indian. That is why I go about singing folk songs of the Crees and trying to make the white race realize more fully that we, like them, are, after all, made by the same God."

Good Advice. "He is all the world to me. What would you advise me to do?" "See a little more of the world." London Mail.
