HARRISON BUILDING DAMAGED BY FIRE

loss to the bowling alleys is estimated at $15,000, which is covered by insurance and the damage in the other places below from water would be around $5,000 dollars

In one of these stores a policy for $500 insurance arrived only this morning

A policy was taken out for two months a few days ago: It was a lucky move on the part of the insured in this case

The Frontenac Bowling Academy, which suffered the heaviest damage, is owned by Pappas and Karis

Mr. Taylor, owner of the building, declared this morning that he was highly pleased with the work of the firemen and stated that they did wonderfully well to keep the fire within the upper floor

During the progress of the fire, the firemen were served with hot coffee by Mr. and Mrs. George Masoud

The fire was a hard one to fight and to add to the difficulties the weather was very cold, the water turning to ice very quickly

The lines and the buildings were covered with ice early this morning

It is understood that there is to be an investigation into the fire

The cause has not yet been determined. Police Chief Robinson made an inspection of the building after the fire

This is the second time in two years, less a couple of days, that a serious fire had broken out there

The big fire on Good Friday, two years ago, when the Harrison Furniture Company, was wiped out, will be recalled

WOODSWORTH WANTS NEW BANK SYSTEM

His Resolution Did Not Reach a Vote in House of Commons.

Ottawa, April 15.—Every session J. S. Woodsworth, Winnipeg Labor member argues before the House of Commons that the country should abandon its present banking system and establish in its place a new kind of national system

When the annual banking resolution came on yesterday afternoon it was received with no more than the usual mild degree of interest

No action was taken on it, the debate being adjourned when the House rose at six o'clock and it probably will not be heard of again this session

Mr. Woodsworth wanted the House to go on record as believing that the time had come when there should be a national banking system

He confessed that he did not expect this system to be established forthwith but that he would be satisfied to have his proposal referred to the committee on Banking and Commerce

Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, saw no harm in such a reference providing the country should not be put to the expense of the calling of witnesses who know nothing about banking

The Minister was himself satisfied with the existing banking system but he was not disposed to deprive Mr. Woodsworth of opportunity of talking further about his proposed system if such talk did not cost anything. Other members, including Hon. R. J. Manion, of Fort William, and C. H. Cahan, of St. Lawrence-St. George, were opposed to theorizing on the subject by committee witnesses drawing expenses witnesses drawing expenses from the Treasury

The adjournment of the debate prevented a decision as to reference of the resolution to the committee

Mr. Woodsworth's chief desire in the way of reform of the banking system appeared to be that of taking away from private corporations the right to issue money

He would have this privilege reserved exclusively to the Government
