AMUSEMENTS
 What the Press Agents Say About Coming Attractions

"NO, NO, NANETTE."
 In "No, No, Nanette," which will be presented at the Grand Theatre Saturday for two performances, matinee and night, Hyman and McLintyre are reported to be placed in positions of real advantage, for the display of their combined talents, by appearing in the leading roles around whom revolve continuous laughter, for it should be borne in mind that "No, No, Nanette" possesses a well-defined plot, and an extremely farcical one at that, while the musical and dancing numbers by a company of fifty are never allowed to disturb a story, fraught with amusing incidents.

SPLENDID PROGRAMME AT CAPITOL THEATRE

"Charley's Aunt" No Match for Chaplin's Latest, "The Man on the Box."
 Many of the doctors of the city were called upon to attend to persons suffering from aching sides today as a result of the first showing of Syd Chaplin in "The Man on the Box." Last night's audience at the Capitol suffered from too much laughter at the situations that were screened before them in this comical story and to say that the picture scored a wonderful success, would be putting it very mildly indeed. As good as Syd Chaplin was in "Charley's Aunt" he is fifty per cent. better in this picture, which has more amusing situations rolled into it in one hundred feet of film than "Charley's Aunt" did in the whole story.
 Posing as a gardener to be near the girl he is in love with, Chaplin executes some of the cleverest comic acting seen on the screen. In the living room scene where he makes frantic signs to his brother behind the girl's back to try to tell him his assumed name of Goldfish, is one of the best acted comic scenes ever seen on a local screen and again in the billiard room where Chaplin, posing as a maid, again signals to his brother to come outside, there is plentiful cause for merriment. "The Man on the Box" is everything that has been said of it and then some.

ENTRIES CLOSED IN MERCANTILE GROUP

At Least One More Team Required to Fill Out the Junior City League.
 Five teams were entered in the Mercantile League and two in the Junior City League section at the meeting of the Mercantile and City Junior League on Thursday night and indications are that a third team will be secured for the Junior City League in this section. Only two clubs have thus far entered, but it is surprising that at least one more team has not already entered. In a city the size of Kingston there should be the material, but the one to gather a team together and take command cannot be found.
 Up to last night there were four teams in the Mercantile section, the Printers, Plumbers, Bankers and Wholesalers. Tanners entered the race last night with a team and will round out a strong League for the summer months from which some good baseball should result.
 Wholesalers brought out the plea at the meeting last night that only three players of last season were available for the team and Manager Dodd asked for permission to draw from the retail trades. There was strong opposition to this, but it was finally decided that Mr. Dodd be allowed to submit a list of players to the League for consideration before final permission is granted.
 As a result of the fact that only two entries were made in the Junior series, applications will be received from any club during the next two weeks. It is hoped by that time to have a third team in the League. It is rumored that a team from the vicinity of the Collegiate Institute will be entered. This will be good news if such a team enters.
 N. Morrissey, of the Tanners' Club was elected third vice-president of the League last night at the meeting. Messrs. W. L. Hammond and W. Fowler were appointed to represent the League at the Eastern Ontario branch of the O.B.A.A., which is to be held in Brockville on April 24th.
 The next meeting of the League will be held on April 29th, when it is hoped the entries in the Junior series will be completed and the schedule drawn.
