The Age of Youth

In Youth is the best time to insure, as you then secure the advantage of the lowest possible premium, and your good health guarantees you unlimited opportunities in the choice of plans. Every dollar invested in insurance saves the money in the surest possible way and provides a guarantee fund to give comfort and happiness in advancing years.

Confederation Life Endowment contracts are wonderful incentives to saving and to success, and the small deposits afford benefits altogether out of proportion to the amount deposited.

When the Endowment period ends, you may draw out the full proceeds of the policy in cash, or you may select another option—you have a very liberal choice. And in the meantime you have received the insurance protection guaranteed over the term of the policy.

Then, the Total Disability Benefit which guarantees, in case you are totally disabled, to pay you a Guaranteed Monthly Income during disability and keep your insurance in full force free of cost, and the Double Indemnity Accident Benefit which guarantees double the amount of the policy to your heirs in case of death by accidental means, make the contract an ideal one from your point of view.
