THE HUMANE SOCIETY BOY SCOUT TROOPS CONTINUES ACTIVE PRESENT A CONCERT

Mr. E. O'Callaghan, Executive Commissioner, Toronto, Guest of Honor.

A concert was presented by the Boy Scout Troops of the city in Ontario Hall on Friday evening. Mr. Columbus Hanley acting as chairman and Mr. E. O'Callaghan, Executive Commissioner of Scouts for Toronto District, being present as the guest of honor. The programme took the form mainly of a demonstration of the work the boys are taught to do in the Scout movement, interspersed by vocal and instrumental solos, and selections by the Kingston Collegiate Institute Orchestra augmented by a number of the musicians from the R.C.H.A. band. Mr. Columbus Hanley, the chairman, in a few words regarding the Boy Scout movement, called attention to the fact that the boys and girls of to-day will be the men and women of tomorrow and he remarked on the splendid training which this movement gave boys to fit them for the positions of leadership and responsibility when they had grown up. The movement was non-sectarian, and non-military, he said, and it taught the boys orderliness, punctuality, self-reliance, resourcefulness and gave them a manly bearing. He asked that it be given more support by the citizens at large. Commissioner O'Callaghan, when asked to deliver a short address, spoke of the Scout law as one of the most wonderful codes that had been devised for a great many years. It ran the gamut of everything that was worth while in life, he said. There are 600,000 Scouts in the British Empire and 50,000 in Canada, this speaker informed his audience. Two special features which he spoke of particularly were badge work, from which a Scout often determines what his life work will be, and first aid, a very valuable knowledge which can be put to use nearly every day. Mr. O'Callaghan presented a silver cup, which he had donated for all round efficiency, to the Beaver patrol. To each member of the patrol he also gave a copy of the new Canadian Scouting Handbook.

The Kingston Scouts gave a first aid display and a signalling demonstration, both of which were followed with the closest attention by the audience. Four Toronto Scouts, who accompanied Mr. O'Callaghan on his visit here, contributed to the programme an exhibition of larriat swinging and fire lighting. Master Ross Burke sang very nicely and Edward Strachan played a pleasing violin solo. A camp fire scene of the 1st troop of Kingston Scouts where songs were sung and stories told, concluded the evening's entertainment. Present at the concert were the Kingston Girl Guides and the Sea Cadets as well as a large representation of the general public.

THE ICE MOVING OUT OF PICTON HARBOR

Funeral of Late Dorland S. Collier—Arthur Green Sells His Baking Plant.

Picton, April 24.—The ice started to move out of the harbor on Thursday and if this weather continues it will go very rapidly. The remains of the late Robert Jamieson, a native of Picton, who died at Guelph on April 16th, were brought to Picton for interment. Mr. W. J. Jamieson of Colborne is a brother and accompanied the remains here. Marsee Kemp, piano tuner, is in town and county on his regular spring trip. Arthur Green sold his baking plant on Catharine street, Messrs. Isaac and George Reilly of Hollister were the purchasers and have moved it to Hollister. Mr. and Mrs. George Hubbs have returned from spending the winter with their son and family in Florida. They are now comfortably settled.

Once there was a little boy named Alfred. He had a dog named Tige. He liked his dog very much. One day, as Alfred and Tige were playing in a field, some naughty boys came. They started throwing glass and stones at them. A piece of glass hit Tige. Alfred took him home to fix the sore. It began to get well, but Tige got in a fight with bigger dogs. One day he got badly hurt. Alfred, on hearing this from his friends, rushed to get the dog, but he was dead. Alfred took him home and buried him. One day he made a cross and printed on it "Tige My Pal." He drew the dog's head above this. Then he went out and got some wild flowers and put them around it. One day coming home from fishing he knelt down before the grave. He remembered the happy days he had had with Tige.
