W.M.S. GATHERING

Enjoyed a Talk by Miss Esther Ryan on Her Work in

In Sydenham street Sunday school Dr. and Mrs. Harry A. Stewart hall on Monday afternoon the ladies Educational work in Japan to which identified with kindergarten work and has remained in that branch of education ever since. Native girls are trained to do the teaching the missionary acting as supervisor of the various departments. The little Japanese learn very early all about their small brothers and sisters in other parts of the world. This forming a very important part of their training. Bible study and the singing of hymns take up a large share of the curriculum and all the children attend Sunday school regularly. The Japanese are very anxious that their children may learn English and so they take advantage of every opportunity. There is a class for teachers and Mothers' meetings are held, where health talks are given and subjects of common interest are discussed. In this way many non-Christian women are influenced to become Christians. Two afternoons each week are spent in visiting the homes of the children and talking with the mothers, whose confidence is thus gained. The good done in this way is far-reaching and is bringing wonderful results. "In spite of the fact that the Japanese are highly civilized" concluded Miss Ryan, "Japan needs the gospel, just as much as do the countries where civilization is unknown, and there is just as large an opening in that land for the Christian Missionary as in any other part of the world."

A short, but delightful musical programme was given. Mrs. Edwin McClelland played with charming exression the "First Movement of the foonlight Sonata." (Beethoven), and Miss Lottle Sanders sang very sweetly two numbers, "Sunbeams," and "The Lilac Tree." Mrs. R. O. Jolliffe presided at the meeting and the closing prayer was offered by Mrs. H. A. Lavell. Tea was served at the close of the meeting. Mrs. W. Bloomfield had charge of the tea and her assistants were the epresentatives of the various auxillaries and circles of the United churches. Daffodils and tulips, the gift of Mrs. H. Richardson, brightened the tables, where Mrs. H. A. Lavell and Mrs. G. A. Brown poured tea. Mrs. W. M. Campbell took the small fee at the door.

Mrs. McClelland very kindly accompanied the hymns and Miss Lily Saunders played for the solo by Miss is the casual word of sympathy from the people they meet on the street. Those who really sympathize with them in their bereavement write or call to see them if they know them intimately. But there are many well-intentioned persons who have forgotten all about their troubles until they notice they are wearing black and then come to them in a public place and condole with them. To have things of this kind to face when you are straining every nerve to carry on and not let your own sorrow interfere with the work you are doing, is an added affliction instead of a comfort.

That the Women's Institutes of the province and of the dominion are holding annual meetings now and every day the reports come in to us from the fifty odd Institutes whose notes we publish in The Whig from time to time. To realize just what the work of the Institutes mean to Canada it is necessary to live in the country or to be one of the staff of the Department of Agriculture whose business it is to visit the Institutes. But the editor of this page, through whose hands the reports pass before they are published, has a pretty good idea of the aims and the work of the Institutes in the five districts from which The Whig receives reports, and she can assure her readers that they will receive many useful hints by reading the reports of what the exceedingly capable wo-

He has a breast of almost salmon pink with a brownish tint and the feathers on his back gleam bronze in the sunlight. He and his mate build in barns and other buildings, making nests of mud and straw plastered against the rafters. One of the most beautiful birds in flight is the swallow, swooping almost to the ground, then darting upward in pursuit of the insects he devours. He is well worth watching.
