CHURCH PARADE OF THE P.W.O. RIFLES

Major the Rev. W. E. Kidd, The Late Mrs. James Trousdale M.C., Chaplain, Preaches in St. George's.

The annual church parade of the Harrowsmith, May the male choir was excellent, the familiar hymns being heartily sung and the offertory anthem, Kipling's "Recessional" given with good ef-

The preacher was Major the Rev W. E. Kidd, M.C., chaplain of P.W.O.R., who opened his sermon by welcoming his comrades to the cathedral, and, said, "Though speak to you as your chaplain yet it is not without the memory of the one who on so many former occasions delighted in addressing the regiment with which he was so long associated as chaplain. Your former chaplain and our late dean took special interest in all things military. He served with a devotion and an intense and bouyant attractiveness that will live in Major Kidd took as his subject the influence that a man's idea of God would have on his life both personally and nationally. "Have you ever asked yourself just what you believe about God? It is not ar easy thing to do, yet our whole life is colored by the type of our belief.' The idea that is brought before us to-day. Trinity Sunday is the threefold nature of God. The fatherhood of God, the Creator. What a story that tel's us of His loving care. But God's love did not stop there. He further revealed Himself to us in the human nature of Jesus Christ our Lord. In Him we see the supreme activity of love. There is nothing too great or too humble for Him to do to enlist us in His service. The of personality as in the Fatherhood God and the worship of God tha we say "Holy, Holy Lord God Almighty, which was and is to come.
