The Editor Hears

That we should have a "save the blossoms" week. Just now the fruit trees in this part of the country are beginning to bloom and people driving in the country meet many cars that seem to be filled with branches of our fruit producing trees. Surely all of us know that the blossom gives the fruit and that in every bouquet of blossoms are the plums and apples that we long for in the winter. Of course the wild plums and wild apples are not so valuable and a few branches of these may be taken without much loss to anyone. But only those who know the difference between the cultivated fruit trees and the wild trees should venture to carry off the fragrant, lovely blossoms.

That the gardeners tell us that their gardens are being kept back by the nightly frosts. The sun is warm during the day but the frost at night retards the growth of the young plants while it is not severe enough to destroy them. The warm rain will be of great value.

That the weather of last week sent many people to the Kingston shops to make sure of their summer frocks. To anyone who compares prices of ready-to-wear women's clothes in Kingston and the same style in other places, it seems the greatest folly to buy out-of-town. The choice is perhaps not quite as large as in larger cities, but if one can get what they like and be sure it is becoming by trying it on, what more does any one want?

That on Saturday the market had a wonderful display of flowers and seedlings. No one need be without a garden this year for seedlings enough to produce a really successful garden can be bought for a small sum. But people who own their houses and grounds are recommended to plant more annuals. These flowers such as roses, delphiniums, columbine, the old fashioned pinks and Sweet William, foxglove, peonies and many other favorites, are ready to bloom early in the summer and while they need care, are most satisfactory and much less trouble than annuals.

That a New York editor remarks: "Dancing masters of the world in Paris have just excommunicated the Charleston, but a Montclair, N.J., flapper scornfully informed us six weeks ago, that her set considered it Old Stuff."

MENUS

Stewed Rhubarb. 4 cups rhubarb. 1 cup sugar. 1. Wash rhubarb; cut in 1 inch pieces—leaving pink skin on. 2. Mix well with sugar, cover and let stand 20 or 30 minutes. 3. Cook slowly, without stirring, until tender, either on the stove or in a covered baking-dish in the oven. Do up rhubarb now for use next February when it is a luxury. If you have plenty, use only the young pink stalks. If the rhubarb is green, a little pink fruit-colouring will make it more attractive in appearance to children.

Deep Rhubarb Pie. 1. Butter a bake dish; sprinkle with sugar and bread crumbs. 2. Use pie funnel; fill the dish with cut rhubarb and sugar and bread crumbs. 3. Cover with pastry scored to allow steam to escape. 4. Bake in hot oven, then reduce heat to thoroughly soften the fruit. Instead of bread crumbs, flour may be used to thicken the juices. Minute tapioca (about one tablespoon to a pie) may also be used.

Rhubarb Marmalade. 4 lbs. rhubarb. 4 lbs. sugar. 3 oranges, juice and grated rind. 2 lemons, juice and grated rind. 1-4 lb. walnuts. 1. Wash rhubarb; cut in one inch pieces. 2. Add fruit juices. Rind and sugar, boil gently 30 minutes. 3. Add walnuts, cut in pieces; cook 10 to 15 minutes longer or until thick. 4. Pour into sterile glasses and seal.—Canadian Cook Book.

Shop in Paris by Airplane. London women will shortly be able to make daily shopping trips to Rue de Rivoli instead of Bond street if they so desire. The Handley-Page company, of Napier, airliners, is arranging to provide special facilities for shopping excursions by airplane from London to Paris. Mildly will have the pleasure of leaving Croydon beginning at eight o'clock in the morning and arrive back in London at 7 in the evening, after a five-hour sojourn in the French capital. The special air excursion fare will be about $59. Including automobile conveyance between aerodromes and the business centers of London and Paris.

All verdure has been stripped from a seven-acre wood in England by an invasion of starlings. Millions of the birds killed all the small trees. Flinders street railway station, Melbourne, claims that nearly 300,000 persons pass through it daily.

An ensemble of blue and white that proved irresistible.

London's longest thoroughfare is Harrow road, more than three miles in length, while the shortest street is Shorter street, only 44 feet long.

Women's Lives

are relieved of a great hygienic handicap in this way. Positive protection—discards like tissue

THERE is now a new way in woman's hygiene. A way scientific and exquisite that ends the uncertainty of old-time "sanitary pads." It is called "KOTEX." Eight in every 10 better-class women have adopted it.

You wear sheer frocks and gowns without a second thought, any time, anywhere. You meet every day, every business or social demand unhandicapped.

NO LAUNDRY

Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, it banishes danger of mishaps.

Deodorizes, too. And thus ends ALL fear of offending.

You obtain it at drug or department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." Women thus ask for it without hesitancy. Costs only a few cents for a package of 12.
