KINGSTON'S LEADING BEAUTY PARLOR Something New in Barbers We've reached the age where barbering is an art.

Callot's novel apron front.

Fauna model of silver and rose. It's a poor argument that has to be fortified by ridicule.

Chanel's shirred velvet cape.

SCISSORS OR NOT. If you're a bobette who has been wondering how you would look with one of those severe, mannish cuts; if you aren't bobbed, but are saying to yourself "to be or not to be?"; let me give you a word of caution.

It is idle to say today that short hair is passe. From time to time we have been told that the vogue was dying, but in actual fact we find instead new ways of scissoring feminine tresses. That the bob, in one version or another, maintains its place and is sponsored by Paris, does not for one minute mean that every modern matron and maid should hie herself to the barber's.

Nurses Graduate. The following nurses graduated at the Ontario Hospital, Cobourg, last week: Reta E. Varcoe, Rosemeath; Jessie M. Rowcliffe, Cobourg; Freda E. Langford, Niagara Falls;
