

SUSPENDED SENTENCE FOR RECKLESS DRIVER

Case of Edward Phillips, Gananoque, Before General Sessions of Peace.

Edward Lewis Phillips, of Gananoque, charged with reckless and furious driving, at the General Sessions of the Peace, pleaded "guilty," and was given suspended sentence of one year, on condition that he would pay the costs of the court. The case arose out of an accident which occurred in this city on April 2nd of this year, in which Mr. Ross Bryant was injured.

Mr. W. M. Nickle, who was acting for Mr. Phillips, pleaded "guilty" on behalf of his client, and asked that the court show leniency in view of the fact that the prisoner was a married man, had two small children, had served overseas for three years, and that he had never appeared in any court before on any charge.

Crown-Attorney Rigney said that he was willing to leave it to the discretion of His Honor, and he did not want to press the charge unduly, but he wanted to impress it on the public that people in charge of motor vehicles must exercise the greatest care, and that if they did not, a penalty would have to be imposed. In view of the circumstances stated in this case, he expressed himself as agreeable to a suspended sentence.

Judge Madden thought that if a suspended sentence was granted that Phillips should pay the costs of the court, as it was through his act that the expense of calling a court was incurred. Mr. Phillips said that he was willing to do this, and was allowed to leave the court under suspended sentence.

Paris lingerie is perfection. Of beautiful material in subtle shades, always hand made and perfect in line, it is as irresistible and as distinctive as Paris frocks. Here we have two samples. One is a combination outfit of orchid colored crepe, embroidered in white with a tracery of black, and bound with fine net. Perfectly flat knife pleats alternate with plain sections and take care of every bit of necessary fullness. The other is a smoking outfit of novelty silk in shades of blue and orchid, trimmed with wide ruchings of blue taffeta silk. The loose coat fits over a tailored pajama suit.

A printed chiffon jumper costume, left, and a light weight jersey, right, with skirt of silk—both for summer.
