The Kiwi and the Cock-Chafer. "I do wish," said Nancy, "that we could find the door to Mister Snoopsy's cave."

"So do I." shivered the little Wriffet, who had lost his shadow.

But whatever else he was going to say will never be known. For they had come upon a most peculiar cou- ance." ple who were having a most peculiar conversation. The peculiar couple consisted of a cock-chafer and a kiwi bird. The peculiar conversation consisted of the following remarks:

"Such big feet," the cock-chafer was saying. "I never saw such big feet on a person your size. And as for tail, tee, hee, hee! Why, you haven't a hair-I mean a feather." "Have a care, you little shrimp," retorted the kiwl bird. "My tal! bothers me not. I do not miss it because I do not eat with it. As for my feet, I dote on them. In Kiwi Land it is not fine feathers, but large feet that make the fine birds. Now I wish to sleep. Begone! But come back at a quarter to twelve-for

The Vacant Chair

TODAY you are alive -- well -- happy. What of Tomorrow?

Suppose that you are called suddenly and tomorrow your chair is vacant? What of the days that will follow?

Will your vacant chair spell a double tragedy to those left behind? You cannot avoid the "summons" but you can avoid the lack of foresight which would leave them unprotected.
