The party drove around Kingston and were enthusiastic regarding its natural beauties.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

BLOOMFIELD. The regular meeting of the Bloomfield women's institute was held in the town hall, Wednesday, with 35 members present, the president in the chair. Routine business followed the opening exercises. Fifty dollars was voted to the Library Board for new books, repairs, etc. A number of new reference books have been added to the Library on housewifery, sewing and kindred subjects. The programme was short, an instrumental duet, one of Mirandy's philosophical monologues, as narrated by Dorothy Dix, and the story of a Surprise Luncheon Club, with emergency menus and receipts. The roll call, "a refreshing drink" brought a good response. Sandwiches and tea were served by the committee for the day, and plans were discussed for entertaining Wellington and Gilbert's Mills Institutes in July. Collection amounted to $2.70.

WEDDINGS

Fairbrother-Jordan. A pretty wedding was solemnized at 4.30 on Saturday afternoon at the United Church parsonage, Brockville, by Rev. F. W. Wooten, when Esther Lily, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jordan, Malorytown, was united in marriage to Mr. Almon Marshall Fairbrother, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Fairbrother, Vestal, N.Y. The bride was becomingly attired in white georgette crepe, with picture hat of white crocheted milan straw, and carried a bouquet of pink ophelia roses with mauve sweet peas. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Fairbrother left for Binghamton, N.Y., via Utica, the bride travelling in a white flannel suit. They will tour Central and Southern New York and Pennsylvania. After September 1st, Mr. and Mrs. Fairbrother will be at home in Windsor, Que., where the former is employed as a chemist with the Wood-and-Pulp Process, Limited.

THE SHIELD

God, give me laughter for a buckler
Lest to the blows of Life I yield,
When my head is bowed to press of fœmen
Lord, give me laughter for a shield.

Grant me will to fight if not to conquer.
Strength to keep my spirit from eclipse,
And let me hold at midnight and at noonday,
The shield of laughter on unshaking lips.

There is none so strong can overcome it.
Black rage, red scorn or serpent guile,
Magic lives in weakest defenses—
Even in a little twisted smile.

In the duck and through the murk of conflict
Fighting on against the driving spears,
More flags will rally round to laughter
Than ever owned the sovereignty of tears.

Though I have no armor that is trusty,
And nothing but a wooden sword to wield
I shall go down fighting and not craven
If, Thou, Lord, give laughter for a shield.

The Editor Hears

That Ottawa is celebrating its hundredth anniversary this summer and has, on the advice of one of the committee who put on the Kingston Historical Pageant in September, 1924, engaged the John Rogers Company to train the men and women who will take part in the spectacle. Programmes of the Kingston pageant and clippings from the British Whig, Kingston, giving an account of the splendid scenes were, at the request of the Ottawa committee, sent to them to assist them in arranging their pageant. Bytown, now Ottawa, Canada's capital, was not even a village when the corner stone of the present St. George's cathedral was laid, Kingston at that time being for nearly one hundred and fifty years a white man's fortress.

That in spite of the warning of the note in the social column of the Whig's Woman's Page we are constantly having unsigned items sent in to its editor. These (unless we know the information contained in them to be correct), must go into the waste paper basket. We want news but we cannot publish it unless we can verify it. Will our contributors please remember this?

That Ireland has two definitions of the meanest man, the man who "would steal the coppers from a dead man's eyes" (the coppers being placed there to keep the lids down) and the man "who would steal the cross of an ass," it being a well known fact that the small donkeys have a black cross on their shoulders, said to mark them for the beast ridden by Our Saviour. But Detroit, Mich., says the meanest man lives there and that he stole the crutch of an old woman of eighty-one years. Her home is at the Salvation Army Headquarters and the poor old soul had to be assisted home to the kindly care of that institution, for while she was getting a frugal meal, her crutch was stolen by something calling itself a man.

Mixed Accounts—"G.O.K." In Your Daily Budget

By Olive Roberts Barton. I love this story of a senator's wife. She told it herself at a Washington luncheon. She had trouble keeping her accounts straight, and quite often had to call upon her husband to sweeten up her overdrawn checking account at the bank. "You really should keep an expense book," said the senator finally one evening as he handed her her pass book balanced to date, the discrepancy filled, and ready for a fresh start. "I believe that if you would keep an account of everything you spend it would help you to keep your bank balance on the right side of the ledger. There's nothing like system."

"But I do," said his wife. "I do keep a daily expense account. I'll go and get it right now."

The book was produced and the senator wiped his glasses and opened it.

"Very good," he said. "Very good! So much for servants, so much for foods, so much for clothes! That's the ticket!" He read down two pages and finally came to the item, "G. O. K.—fifty dollars and seventy-five cents!"

He turned several pages and "G. O. K." met his eyes five times to the tune of various amounts. "If it isn't a secret, Jane," said he cautiously, "would you mind telling me just what G. O. K. means?"

"Well—it means 'God Only Knows,'" said Jane desperately. "I don't know where all my money goes to. I just can't keep track of it, with the children after me every second for something. I hand out money a dozen times a day and I can't always be running for my expense book."

"Will husbands who think their wives are using their money for fire-lighters kindly tune in?"

Hamilton has granted increases in salary to the police, effective July 1st, averaging seven per cent.

AUNT HET

"I never knowed what made Cousin Ben look so discouraged until I tried to cut one of his wife's pie crusts with a fork."

To Erect New Hospital. Renfrew Council, at a special session, decided, by the mayor's casting vote, to construct a forty-bed hospital on the site of the old building, destroyed by fire. Tenders will be called for immediately and a start made on the work within a week. It is hoped to have the building rushed to completion within two months.

If a man is troubled with chronic indigestion it is a waste of time to try to convince him that the world is growing better.

Women's Health

Is protected and charm assured this NEW way of solving their oldest hygienic problem; true protection; discards like tissue

SCORES of women's disorders are largely traced today to old-time "sanitary pads," insecure and unsanitary.

Eight in 10 better-class women today employ "KOTEX."

Wear lightest gowns and frocks without a second thought, any day, anywhere.

NO LAUNDRY. Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads!

Deodorizes. Ends ALL fear of offending.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." No embarrassment.

In fairness to yourself, try this new way. Costs only a few cents. Twelve in a package.

Shampoo Powders Bad For the Hair

Most shampoo powders, and prepared shampoos, contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and is greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use).

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified coconut oil shampoo at any drug store—it is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified. Beware of imitations—look for the name Watkins on the package.
