Passersby Have Narrow Escape

There were ironic Labor cheers and angry Conservative protests until several Laborites shouted: 'Hear what he has to say.' The House became silent, and Mr. Baldwin went on: 'Had I taken advantage of the war I might today have been a wealthy man, with my money in Government securities, or abroad, and Mr. Lansbury would never have known about it. All my life I have consistently refused to invest abroad. I have always been, for good or evil, in British industry. It is for that that I am being attacked tonight.'

SCARLET FEVER AT ELGIN.
