Happenings in Kingston 78 Years Ago; Review of An Old Copy of The Argus

A copy of The Kingston Argus, of date the 10th October, 1848, a weekly newspaper published for some time by Dr. John Stewart, has been sent to The British Whig by Miss Laura Begg, 6 Indian Road, Edgewood, R.I. The paper contains news and advertisements that will interest any who like to do things into happenings in the Limestone City back in the past century. The newspaper proprietor of to-day would rejoice at the bulk of advertising in this copy of The Argus. One of the first notices that struck the eye of the reviewer was about the steamer Beaver (Capt. M. Bell), which plied between Kingston and Bytown (now Ottawa) every Tuesday and Friday on the arrival at Kingston of the lake mail steamers. This boat left Kingston at 9 a.m. and arrived at Bytown at noon the following day. The Rideau canal was then in operation and served as a link between Lake Ontario and what is now Canada's capital. All mail from the west came by way of Kingston. Then another notice tells of the steamer Magnet of the Royal Mail Line, running between Kingston, Cobourg, Toronto and Hamilton every Tuesday and Friday evening. The propeller Earl Cathcart ran between Amherstburg and Lachine, touching at intermediate British ports on Lake Erie, Lake Ontario and the River St. Lawrence.

Liquor Advertisements.
A sight of the liquor advertisements would rejoice the hearts of the opponents of the O.T.A. Many stores were in the liquor trade. Robert Allen announced himself as "wholesale and retail wine and spirit dealer, grocer and baker." J. Mowat & Son announced the sale of "100 barrels of whiskey." "Superior whiskey from the distillery of Ritchie, Ford & Jones, Simco, Long Point, continually on hand and for sale low by H. and S. Jones of Kingston," read another advertisement. William Holditch announced "for sale or to let the Sydenham brewery," showing that the Loughboro village was not as dry in those far-off days as now. Thomas Flett, Adolphustown, advertised the sale of a lease of a brewery at Hay Bay, in the midst of a fine grain-growing country.

Other Advertisements.
There are various advertisements of patent medicines in the copy of The Argus. The chief one was Dr. Townsend's compound extract of sarsaparilla, which was guaranteed to cure consumption. One of the large drygoods advertisements was that of Kerr, Waddell & Co. Mr. Waddell has the father of Mr. Halloway Waddell, Lower

Local News.
The local news notes a bazaar to be held by the ladies of the Free Church (Chalmers) in the new stone building recently erected at the corner of Wellington and Brock streets. The Argus records that the provincial fair of 1849 will take place in Kingston on the second Tuesday of September.

Female Attire.
In another editorial Dr. Stewart says: "We are inclined to think that the female attire of the present day (78 years ago) is upon the whole in as favorable a state as the most vehement advocates for what is called nature and simplicity could desire. It is a costume in which they can dress quickly, walk nimbly, eat plentifully, step easily, loiter gracefully, and in short, perform all the duties of life without let or hindrance. The head is left to its natural size; the skin to its native purity; the waist at its proper region; the heels at their real level. The dress is one calculated to bring out the natural beauties of the person and each of them, so far as we see, fair play." (If the doctor could only have visioned the girls of to-day.)

UNUSUAL PROGRAMME FOR THE OTTAWA CENTENARY

Ottawa is to celebrate its Centenary in a right royal manner and citizens and visitors who are in the Capital from August 15th to August 28th are assured of the biggest two weeks of entertainment in the history of the city.

A score or more committees have been working for weeks to see that there will not be a dull or unoccupied moment in the whole time, and they say they have succeeded beyond expectations. The programme is a most elaborate one but the factors which loom largest are probably the stampee, Crestore and his band, the historical pageants and the military night. But these will be by no means the only events as there will be something doing in every part of the city and merriment a-plenty is assured.

OBITUARY

The Late Miss Sara GILL.
The death took place early on Saturday morning of Miss Sara GILL, a long time an invalid following a stroke. She was a native Kingstonian for years a teacher on the public school staff and much beloved and esteemed. She was a gracious and sweet little lady, gentle in disposition and manner. She had just started to enjoy superannuation when she was afflicted. She was a sister of Mrs. W. H. Wormwith, with whom she lived, and Rev. Frederic GILL, D.D., Arlington, Mass. For years she was an active worker in Queen Street United Church. Her many loving deeds and tender regards for those in sorrow or distress makes her demise to be deplored.
