ANDERSON'S QUALITY - LARGER MARKET - SERVICE

The business that merely offers its products for sale will never get anywhere. Everything has to be positively sold. No one will buy from you simply because you wish to sell. People will buy from you only because you have something that will do them good in proportion to the price you charge.

Our aim is to keep you interested always in the superiority of the quality of the goods we sell and in the superiority of our service.

STRAWBERRIES

These will only last a few days, as they are suffering from the dry weather. Supply is uncertain, but during the week we will quote lowest market price subject to supply of suitable stock. We will be glad to give you all available information if you call or phone.

CHERRIES

Black Cherries should be fairly plentiful from now on. Samples so far have been fairly satisfactory. The first sour, early Richmonds, have started. These are about the best Cherries for pies. Use these and don't depend on Montmorencies, as there is only one third of the crop and prices are sure to be much higher.

Six Years Ago? Six years ago today, July 13th, 1920, the Meighen cabinet was re-organized to go to the country. It is interesting to know he has, today, announced his new cabinet for the same purpose. Will the date, "13," be again unfortunate for him?

Fine Fife and Drum Band. The Fife and Drum Band of the Kingston Orange Lodges made a decided impression at the big celebration at Belleville on Monday. It was by far the strongest fife and drum band there, and Kingston Orangemen claim that it is one of the very best in the Dominion.

Flooring Gave Way. Abram Bigford, an elderly farmer living near Bishop's Mills, met with a painful accident. He had gone into a loft over the summer kitchen of his residence when the flooring gave way. As a result he received a severe scalp wound as well as having his head, shoulder and back badly bruised. He is in bed suffering from shock.

Everybody was glad to get back again.

To Mark Historic Site. On Friday evening an important event will take place in Mattland. It will be the erection of a flag pole and a marker on Mrs. Jackson's lot in the east end of the village, this being the highest point within the former old French fort and on or near where the French flag flew when it was replaced by the British standard on the capture of the fort by General Amherst in July 1760.

Some Strong Talk. The air was blue in the police court this morning while the language that was used in an argument by two women was repeated as evidence. One woman charged another with using abusive and insulting language, and before the case had been finally disposed of, witnesses had told of the affair several times over, repeating what had been said. The accused admitted having used the language and was fined five dollars and costs.

Found Old English Penny. While excavating at the new Randolph hotel site on Monday, Mr. Honeysett of 33 Russell street found an old English penny bearing the date 1797. This old coin is about the same size as our Canadian one-cent piece but is a little thicker. It is not defaced in the slightest from its long rest in the earth, and the inscriptions on it can be read quite easily. On one side is the head of George III with his name in Latin and on the reverse is a figure of Britannia with the date 1797.

Orangemen at Tieborne. About 2,000 people congregated at Tieborne for the Frontenac County Orange celebration. There were oratory and music in abundance, while other forms of entertainment were not lacking. Despite the big crowd there was the best of order and no serious disturbance or accident marred the day. Lodges were present from as far south as Harrowsmith and from all northern parts of the county. The Kingston Pipe Band supplied music.

A Correction. The Whig makes the following correction in the sermon delivered by Rev. Edwin H. Burgess to the Orangemen of the city at Zion Church on Sunday morning. This is what Mr. Burgess said:

"The metropolitan bishop had jurisdiction over a whole province and the patriarch over several provinces. The Bishop of Rome was made Patriarch of the West and the Bishop of Constantinople one of the Patriarchs of the East. But the Bishop of Rome refused the title of 'Patriarch' so as not to be on an equality with the others and called himself 'Papa' from which we have the word 'Pope'."

They got involved in trouble with a stalled car, and when the conflict was over Miss Ella, McEwen had a bad gash in the side of her nose which cut a vein and caused blood to flow profusely. Another small cut was made in her forehead. Both of these wounds were caused by the breaking of the small mirror above the windshield. Her knees were also injured. Mrs. Paul got a hard knock on the side of the head which rendered her nearly unconscious. Mrs. McEwen was also badly shaken up. The injured were taken to Perth in another car and Dr. Blair dressed the wounds.
