SPORTING NOTES AND COMMENT

Yesterday's game was a real quiet one. There was hardly a murmur from the crowd, during the whole nine innings. One little laugh at "Shiner" Johnston and a little applause for the same player when he got a hit were the only two times that the crowd came to life.

The attendance at yesterday's game was disappointing indeed and it would not occasion much surprise if the Kingston team threw up the sponge altogether and quit for the balance of the season.

The other two teams, Belleville and Peterboro, are so hopelessly out of the race for the championship of the Central Ontario League that the Petes and Belleville have formed a race between themselves for second place. What a coveted honor.

The juniors meet again on Friday evening at the Cricket Field in the opening game of the second half of the series. There's one thing sure; those who saw the game on Tuesday will be back again for another such battle and they will be sure to bring with them many of their friends with them as they can. There is enough excitement in a junior game to last over for quite a while.

Batteries—McWoeny and O'Neil; Haines and O'Farrell.

WOULD PENALIZE PITCHERS MUCH MORE SEVERELY. Twirlers who, under the impression that Babe Ruth was not so formidable this year, have now resumed the old custom of walking him, and the more they walk him the less grows his chance of equaling or bettering his 1921 record of 59 home run swats.

So those who want to see the Bam-bino whale the old apple out of the lot are once more resuming the pastime of suggesting penalties to be imposed on pitchers who intentionally walk Ruth or anyone else. One suggestion is for the batter to be given two bases instead of one when a pitcher favors him with four straight balls. On the face of things this might serve in most instances to prevent the use of the stratagem.

PRaises THE PRINCE. Georges Carpentier Defends His Royal Highness. San Francisco, Cal., July 15.—Georges Carpentier, France's most colorful ring figure and former lightweight champion of the world, thinks the Prince of Wales is a "great fellow."

"But he isn't so great a horse-man," came a voice from the rear of the group of press representatives.

"Yes, but that is when he proves again that he is a great fellow," responded Georges. "You have seen boxers who have gone into the ring knocked out. Sometimes they don't recover. They are glove-shy from then on. The fellow that shows the real stuff is the one that can continue to take them. That's the way the Prince is. He has been thrown off horse after horse, but he comes right back for more. He can take them on the chin and still come back."

Concluding, the French boxer cautioned his listeners to remember that the "Prince of Wales falls off horses more than any one else, because he gets on horses more than any one else."

which the big leagues sought to eliminate by passing the buck to the umpires and forbidding the catchers to leave the box prior to the pitch. Another innovation that Ruth's admirers have proposed is that the batter be given the option, when he is given four straight balls, of taking his base or remaining at the plate until he has had an opportunity to use his three strikes. Building on this foundation, another rule-maker would allow the batter to take two bases in the event of eight straight balls, three bases on 12, and a circuit of the bases on 16.
