worth of splendid timber is being destroyed and lives have been lost. Bush fires do not always come from carelessness but those who reckon but the causes of fires give a large percentage of them as preventable. The match or cigarette end thrown from a motor, the camp fire not put out and the little things that look so unimportant neglected, are the cause of terrible fires that devastate miles of country.

That the Nurses Alumnae of the Kingston General Hospital have furnished two rooms in the Empire wing of the hospital which are up-to-date in every particular and are furnished with exquisite taste. In one room the furniture is dark walnut, the dressing table and dainty wardrobe of the wood, the big easy chair covered with the same chintz as is used for curtains and the foot-stool, so useful to a patient just able to sit up for a hour or so, is of wood with a cushioned top of chintz. The glass top on the dressing table preserves the wood and on it the flower vases rest in perfect safety. The beds are made especially for these rooms and have head rests. A warm kenwood blanket in wood-brown to match the ground of the chintz is in the room with the dark oak furniture, while the room with the natural polished wood has a mauve blanket and chintz with a touch of mauve. A bathroom with every known comfort, is between the rooms and if one has to be ill or even a bit out of sorts one cannot imagine a more comfortable place in which to be nursed. A brass plate on each door tells the visitors to the hospital that the rooms were furnished by the Nurses Alumnae.

That there are such things as hot weather accidents. Let us all try to avoid them. The motor gets most of the blame. If you drive a car see to it that you are not the guilty party. If every one did that the dreadful list of the dead and injured from motor accidents would be much shorter. "It is not what I do but what the other fellow does," says a driver. Very true. If you are never a guilty party, then we are writing for the benefit of "the other fellow." No matter how much care is taken accidents will happen, but they can be lessened by sane driving. Then the water: canoeing accidents are frequent, but good swimmers are comparatively safe in a canoe and no one who cannot swim should venture into such a light craft. This brings us to swimming and the care that should be taken by those who are not experts to keep in water that is not too deep. But everyone should learn to swim if only enough not to be a helpless burden in case of accidents. And from water we turn to fire. In the west millions of dollars

Is Your Kitchen Roomy? Then You Need a Beach Cabinet Gas Range

Here are the three models of the Beach Gas Range specially suited to large kitchens. All have the outstanding Beach features—beaded burners, which save gas, and rust-proof ovens, which make cleaning easier.

You can buy them with either open or closed tops, and with or without the oven heat regulator and touch-a-button lighter.

If your home and family are large, then the Beach Double Oven Cabinet with canopy top is just what you need. The canopy top provides lots of space for keeping dishes warm.

But maybe you want a less elaborate range. If so, you should get the Double Oven Cabinet with shelf. It is particularly suitable for kitchens of moderate size.

While for the smaller kitchen you should choose the Single Oven Cabinet. It has most of the advantages of the other types, but it takes up less room. For a small family it is ideal.
